Help Tri-Town Soccer

Organizers of a local youth soccer league are asking for help after fire destroyed a shed filled with most of their equipment. Flames destroyed Tri-Town United Travel Soccer's storage shed at Sarette Field in the Pinardville neighborhood of Goffstown last Friday. Tri-Town Travel is fielding 10 teams this fall with about 150 players from Goffstown, New Boston and Dunbarton and surrounding towns. Damage is estimated at about $3,500, including most of the league's fall and spring equipment. Tri-Town Travel is seeking donations including a new storage shed or container, balls, soccer nets, field equipment, line-painting machines, equipment bags and more. The league will also accept financial donations. Contact league president Geoff Johnson at (603) 722-0250 if you have any additional questions or would like to offer any other type of support.

Rollins Ride

9th Annual Justin A. Rollins Ride For The Fallen

They came from all over and from all walks of life to honor Spc. Justin Rollins of Newport and all who gave the ultimate sacrifice for this country. So many joined in the 9th Annual Justin A. Rollins "Ride For The Fallen." that the organizers lost track of the number of bikes and riders participating. They departed Newport High School winding down Route 31 to Hillsborough's American Legion.

When they arrived they were treated to refreshments provided by the Legion and its Auxilliary prior to an impressive ceremony.

Between an opening and closing prayer, the names of the 63 NH natives who died in service since September 11, 2001 were read, including locals Russell Durgin of Henniker, Brandon Garrabrandt of Greenfield and Rollins of Newport. As each name was read, a bell was rung in his honor.

The Honor Guard marched out to the sounds of bagpipes and offered a 21 gun salute, followed by Taps by the Post buglar.

Putting aside all inter service rivalry, one by one a single rose was place at the base of each branch's flag. Roses were also provided for POW's and for our First Responders, our Police Fire and EMS Departments.

The final rose was placed by Justin's parents Skip and Rhonda Rollins. After sharing a snack, offering a salute and shedding tears, the bikers roared off down Routes 202 and 114 on their return to Newport. See more photos of the event on pages 16-17.

Goffstown considers increased penalty for not registering dogs

Police Chief Robert Browne, Town Clerk Cathy Ball, and State Representative Claire Rouillard met with the Goffstown Selectmen were to discuss the problem with getting people to license their dogs. It is taking up the Police Department's time, as well as the Town Clerk's, to chase them down.

The Board asked Representative Rouillard if there was something that could be done at the State level. Representative Rouillard suggested that the issue of the fees, if they are too low or should be increased, is left to the Police Chief and Town Clerk.

The Board was more concerned with the growing number of individuals who don't get their dogs registered and must be tracked down, send out certified letters, have them summoned, and have them appear in court.

It's about the time that it takes the officers and Town Clerk to do this. It's a big cost. The Board wants to have more of a deterrent.

Representative Rouillard said RSA 466:39 gives the Town the option of passing an ordinance for the civil forfeiture aspect. Selectman Adams said "We have folks who are given multiple opportunities to license their dogs. We have many who are repeat offenders year after year. Unless we hit them where it hurts we're going to keep going with it." A graduated penalty is what he'd like to see. It would increase over time for repeat violators.

Chairman Georgantas said he thinks the first step would be to have the Town Attorney look at RSA 466:39 to see if we can raise our penalty. It does say "not exceeding $50."

Police Chief Browne and State Representative Claire Rouillard discussed dog registration problems with the Goffstown Selectmen.

Hopkinton's $3.3 million track

Scott Zipke and Lance Whitehead presented the Hopkinton selectmen their proposal to construct a new athletic area, adjacent to the High School. The Committee believes that the High School athletic area has substandard soccer fields, no track, no lacrosse field to practice on and the tennis courts are deteriorated.

The proposal would include a turf surface field for soccer, field hockey, lacrosse and football, bleachers, upgraded tennis courts, relocation of the baseball diamond and easier access to the fields. Whitehead said the cost of the project is estimated to be $3,348,475.00. The Committee would like to put forth a Petition Warrant Article for 2016.

Researchers publishing in Cell Metabolism have discovered that mirabegron (trade name Myrbetriq), a drug FDA-approved to treat overactive bladder, may boost brown fat's metabolic powers, making it a promising candidate for combatting obesity. Unlike energy-storing white fat, brown fat burns energy to generate heat, which can help maintain body weight and prevent obesity.

Patients who experienced a certain type of heart attack who received the anticoagulant fondaparinux (trade name Arixtra) had a lower risk of major bleeding events and death both in the hospital and after six months compared to patients who received low-molecular-weight heparin (LMWH), although both groups had similar rates of subsequent heart attack or stroke, according to a study in JAMA.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has granted accelerated approval to Lenvima (lenvatinib) to treat patients with progressive, differentiated thyroid cancer (DTC) whose disease progressed despite receiving radioactive iodine therapy (radioactive iodine refractory disease). The most common type of thyroid cancer, DTC is a cancerous growth of the thyroid gland, which is located in the neck and helps regulate the body's metabolism. The National Cancer Institute estimates that 62,980 Americans were diagnosed with thyroid cancer and 1,890 died from the disease in 2014. Lenvima is a kinase inhibitor, which works by blocking certain proteins from helping cancer cells grow and divide.

Governor Kasich with HCS 7th Graders Alana Sevigny and Alex Garside.

Henniker 7th graders at NEC Town Hall

Henniker's 7/8th grade students learned firsthand about the American political process by attending the Town Hall Meeting with Presidential Candidate Ohio Governor John Kasich at New England College on September 3. Henniker's 7/8th Grade Social Studies Teacher Jess Dostie had the students prepare questions in advance should Governor Kasich call on one of them. Much to the delight of the Henniker students, Kasich did call on 7th Graders Alex Garside and Alana Sevigny. Alex asked the Governor, "What would you do for the middle class," and Alana asked him, "What would you do to keep gas prices low?" In addition to being part of the Town Hall Meeting, the students also got to see the wide range of media coverage that national political events garner. Media outlets in attendance included the NY Times, NBC News, TIME magazine, CBS News, CNN, and Fox News. Following the Town Hall, Henniker students were interviewed by the Concord Monitor. New England College Practicum student Jason Reid helped facilitate the HCS visit to this event.

Pinardville 911 callers specify Goffstown

Fire Chief Richard O'Brien said 31 streets in Pinardville have names that are similar or identical to streets in Manchester. O'Brien and Police Chief Robert Browne are getting the word out in a new public service announcement airing on Goffstown TV. They remind viewers that Pinardville has a Manchester ZIP code and many street names in Pinardville are similar to those in Manchester. "When you're calling 911 and you are in the Pinardville section of town, it's important to remember to identify your location properly as Goffstown," Browne

Franklin Savings Bank hosts credit card processing program

Beginning October 1, 2015, businesses using non-EMV compliant card readers to process chip-enabled debit/credit cards will become financially liable for all transactions determined to be fraudulent.

Is your business ready? Attend a FREE Lunch 'n Learn presentation on Wednesday, September 16 from 11:45 a.m. to 1:15 p.m., hosted in partnership with Franklin Savings Bank and the Lakes Region Chamber of Commerce, to learn how you can protect your business.

The event will be held at the Community Learning Center located at 61 Laconia Road, Suite 300 in Tilton, NH.

EMV, short for Europay, Mastercard and Visa, debit/credit cards use chip-embedded microprocessors to store and protect cardholder information.

They provide increased security for consumers; however, if a business continues to use a non-EMV card reader to process a chip-enabled card transaction, they will be financially responsible for any transaction determined to be fraudulent.

Business owners will want to attend this FREE workshop to learn:

- * How EMV technology works
- * How it improves security and reduces card-presented fraud
- * What merchants need to do to convert card terminals
- * The liabilities and threats for small businesses

Several New London projects currently underway

Several construction projects will take place during September, October and November that will result in challenges to motorists and pedestrians:

Academy Building/Town Office: This work begins during the first week of September. During the re-siding and window replacement project, there will be no parking in the rear of the building. Temporary parking will be available on the side of the building, and the driveway will go from one-way to two-way. Parking is also available on Main Street. Please use caution when entering the Town Office during construction. This work is scheduled to be completed in November, weather permitting. Bandstand and Cupola on Whipple Hall: Repairs will be made to the bandstand and to the cupola on Whipple Hall as the repairs to the Town Office are being made.

Elkins Project: The Elkins project will begin on September 8 and is expected to continue into November, weather permitting. The project will cause delays for those in and around Elkins as Elkins Road from the Wilmot town line to the area past Elkins Beach and the Post Office is reconstructed and sidewalks are added. All businesses and services will remain open during this project.

Washington Police host meth lab program

The Washington Police Department sponsored a community informational session on the hazards of one pot meth labs and bottle bombs at Camp Morgan Lodge last Thursday. The program focused towards our DPW crew and citizens who participate in roadside clean up programs. One pot meth labs have been found during clean up activities in other parts of the State and with meth production increasing in NH and Sullivan County and it will just be a matter of time before a one pot lab is found on the side of the road during clean-ups. The presenter was officer. Joshua Boone of the Newport Police Department, a member of the area Clandestine Lab team.

Goffstown drowning victim identified

Goffstown Police responding to a noise complaint arrived, instead, to a frantic search for a missing woman whose body was found Sunday morning in the Piscataquog River. Jennifer Zell, 35, of Manchester went missing around 11 pm Saturday while boating in the Namaske Lake area of the river. Her body was recovered about 12 hours later by divers from the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department, one of several agencies that joined the overnight search as hopes of finding the woman alive faded with every hour. Goffstown police Sgt. Dave Rivard said it was unclear how the woman ended up in the water and disappeared beneath the surface, something investigators expected to learn when they spoke further with the other people.

Volunteers needed for Warner Festival

The 68th Warner Fall Foliage Festival will be held October 10 & 11, and volunteers are needed. Each year the Warner Fall Foliage Festival has grown until it now attracts folks from as far away as Boston and Portland. This influx of people with their spending power directly improves the local economy, and proceeds from the festival help support town projects, charities and organizations. The festival needs workers. Anyone who is willing to donate a few hours during Columbus Day weekend, is asked to complete the volunteer form on the festival website, wfff.org, or call 456-9775.

Passed out Franklin & Sutton men arrested

After a multi agency response, Joseph L. Wilcox of Sutton NH and Eric Woods of Franklin were arrested on multiple counts of Possession of Heroin and Methamphetamine in addition to warrants from other agencies. Wilcox and Woods are being held on high cash bail.

Bow School Board outlines goal and concerns with the Selectmen

The Bow School Board summarized the strong ranking and awards for Bow schools in a recent joint meeting with the Selectmen. They are highly pleased with the current Resource Officer.

Many new school administrators have been hired. They have some concerns, however, about voting at the middle school, including anxious parents who would prefer to have voting at the Community Building.

Cost-bearing initiatives on the horizon include two upcoming contracts for support staff and the teachers union. They have preliminary proposals for upgrades to the elementary school that began back in 2011 when a full list of recommendations was compiled; however they are focusing on core needs such as power generation and sprinkler systems.

If possible the school would like to work with the town to save money on alternative powering methods such as solar. Board members are very open to that. They discussed the possibility of installing a solar array in front of the high school.

Selectmen nix naming Schaefer Station

Longtime firefighter Dick Lord presented a plan to name the Contoocook Fire Station after Fire Chief Richard J. Schaefer. The proposal included lettering on the front of the building and the addition of a clock in the peak. Lord said that Chief Schaefer was instrumental in the renovation of the station. Sue Strickford said that she was very fond of Chief Schaefer, but not in favor of naming the station after anyone. She suggested that there were also other chiefs involved and would like to see all honored, not just one person. Sara Persechino echoed Strickford, while Janet Krzyzaniak stated that Chief Mumford supports naming the station after Schaefer. Chair Jim O'Brien requested that Lord consider ways to honor all chiefs.

Newport still discussing ambulance service

Newport is looking to see if they should continue outsourcing their ambulance service and what to charge towns if they continue service. Croydon, Goshen and Sunapee contract with Newport for its ambulance service. Each town pays a set fee for Newport's ambulance to be available then individuals are billed for the service they receive. According to Todd Fratzel Vice Chair of Newport Selectboard, one out of every four ambulance calls is outside of Newport. Fratzell is concerned that an ambulance with the best staff won't be available for Newport residents and wants the board to reconsider serving the other towns. Chief Wayne Conroy took issue with Fratzel's comments. Conroy added that in his seven years as Fire Chief that scenario never happened. The Selectboard and Town Manager Shane O'Keefe will take a vote on this issue at their retreat on September 14.

Francestown's Board fills two positions

A group of about 30 Francestown residents were on hand to witness the swearing in of the towns new Police Chief and Town Administrator. Jamie Pike, will begin his duties on September 8. He previously was the administrative assistant in Chicester. The new Police Chief, Fred Douglas, begins immediately, having served as the Francestown Department's administrative manager since March. Douglas, a Lyndeborough Selectman previously served as Police Chief in Milford.

Second of former Chief's assistants suing Town of Weare

Dawn Wheeler, who was hired in February 2008 and served six years as an assistant at the Weare Police Department, receiving an exemplary ranking in her 2013 performance review by the prior chief, has sued the town alleging the town violated the Americans With Disabilities Amendments Act and a state law prohibiting disability discrimination, when then Chief John Velleca fired her and replaced her "with another employee, Jennifer Posteraro, with whom the chief (Velleca) would have a sexual affair."

The suit claims "lost wages, lost earning capacity, lost employment benefits, emotional distress, humiliation, inconvenience and loss of enjoyment of life." On June 1, 2015, she received a "notice of right to sue" from the EEOC and filed her suit in federal court within 90 days, in accordance with the notice.

Wheeler's is the latest lawsuit against the town. Posteraro, who claims she was assaulted by Velleca during an affair in the fall of 2014, is also suing the town. At least two former employees of the Weare Police Department have recently settled lawsuits with the town resulting in payouts of more than $250,000.

Hopkinton Town Band seeking musicians to audition

If you play a band instrument – or if you ever played one – then the Hopkinton Town Band wants YOU! After a wonderful summer of performances, the Hopkinton Town Band is getting back in rehearsal mode to prepare for the holiday concert season.

The HTB is a group of local musicians of all ages and ability levels who perform band music from many different styles and eras. Beginners, experienced musicians, and "rusty" players who are dusting off an old band instrument from years ago play side by side in a fun, supportive environment. No auditions required – just the desire to have fun, make music with friends, and entertain the community. Starting on September 16th, the band rehearses Wednesday evenings at 7:00 at the Maple Street Elementary School in Contoocook, with a few concerts this fall leading up to a special Holiday Concert at Hopkinton High School on December 9th.

If you enjoy music, laughter and camaraderie then try out a rehearsal with the Hopkinton Town Band.

Capitol Comments By District 8 State Senator Jerry Little

OTHERS MADE IT SO

Last Saturday was an absolutely beautiful summer day. I took a cup of coffee outside at 6:00 a.m. and walked the dogs behind the barn, feeling very grateful to be able to live my life in New Hampshire.

I contemplated the day ahead, understanding that I am only able to be here in this beautiful place and peaceful moment because others made it so.

The sky was blue and cloudless and the air was still cool at 7:30 a.m. so I put on a jacket before mounting my motorcycle, thumbing the starter and heading north to Newport. I followed Route 114 out of Weare to Henniker before turning onto Route 103 in Bradford and rolling on through Newbury, Sunapee and eventually Newport. Each small town was waking up. People were shuffling out of convenience stores with newspapers and coffee. Fishermen were launching boats and parking their trucks and trailers along the road by Lake Massasecum. All of us were able to enjoy our relaxing, late-summer Saturday morning these ways because others made it so.

At the circle in Newport I fell in line behind several other bikes, then we all made a slow turn into the High School parking lot and put our kickstands down in long and growing lines of other riders who also understand that we have homes and families, high schools and hospitals to keep them well and growing and the freedom to choose to either go for a motorcycle ride or fishing, to work in the garden, read the newspaper and sip coffee or take the dog on a hike because others made it so. I was at the starting point for the Ninth Annual Rollins Ride for the Fallen to honor those who died to make it so.

Army Specialist Justin A. Rollins of Newport was killed in action on March 5, 2007 in Samarra, Iraq when an IED exploded near his unit during combat operations. Six other soldiers also died from the blast. The Rollins Ride held in their memory raises funds for a scholarship program benefitting Newport area students.

I never met Justin, but had the good fortune to meet his father, State Representative Skip Rollins of Newport, when I decided to run for office. I was told by friends that I could do worse than mold my public service after his. During our first meeting Skip told me, "Whatever you do, don't forget the little guy and we'll get along fine." Since then I've also met Justin's lovely mother, Rhonda, and now I know where Sgt. Justin Rollins got his sense of duty with dignity.

The Rollins Riders passed beneath a large American flag held aloft by two Newport Fire Department trucks as we headed out behind a State Police motor officer escort, rolling slowly down Main Street and Route 10 through Goshen, then Route 31 through Washington. While cruising through a rural stretch we rounded a sweeping right-hand bend to see another large American flag flying high in the sky, held there by a boom truck. It was breath-taking. The Stars and Stripes against a clear blue sky, framed on each side by tall, dark green pine trees and a line of motorcycles rumbling underneath, stretching out farther than I could see ahead or behind.

Our destination was the American Legion Hall in Hillsboro for a short ceremony. Flowers were laid at the base of flags representing every branch of the military, plus police and fire in honor of the first responders who died in the World Trade Center attacks. The names of all 64 servicemen from New Hampshire who have died serving our country since September 11, 2001 were read – a bell tolled for each.

The name of another friend's son, Sgt. William J. Tracy, Jr., is on that roll call. Justin's name was read last. There was a 21 gun salute. We heard Taps. A lone bagpiper played Amazing Grace in the distance. There were hugs and quiet conversation as we returned to the bikes. Then it was time to mount up for the return ride and a chance to reflect on the ceremony.

Our ride home took us east on Route 202 and then north on 114 and 103. There were more vehicles heading in the other direction than when I crossed these same roads earlier in the day, but no more traffic; most drivers pulled into the breakdown lane and stopped to watch, wave and salute as mile after mile of motorcyclists rolled by in honor of those who gave their lives serving our country. They seemed to be well aware that the freedom to enjoy a beautiful, late-summer New Hampshire day however we wished was possible because others made it so.

Colby-Sawyer 5K Dash & Stroll Sept 12

Colby-Sawyer College will host its tenth annual 5K Dash & Stroll, a non-competitive fun run and walk, on Saturday, Sept. 12. Community members of all ages are invited to participate free of charge. Registration will take place on the college's Front Lawn (rain location: Thornton Living Room in Colgate Hall) beginning at 9:30 a.m. The start time for walkers is 9:45 a.m. and 10 a.m. for runners. The 5K route begins at Colgate Hall, winds through New London's downtown and residential areas, and ends back on campus.

Colby-Sawyer President Thomas C. Galligan Jr., an avid runner who created the event in his first year at the college, encourages college and community members to take part in the Dash & Stroll. An opening week tradition, the event celebrates the close relationship between the college and its neighboring communities, which began more than 175 years ago when residents of New London established New London Academy. "The Dash & Stroll is a wonderful community event that brings together students, faculty, staff and community members," says President Galligan. "If you are new to the college, it is a fast tour around town with a fun crew. Everyone is invited and can participate at their own pace."
