Attendees live in the cadet barracks, eat in the cadet mess, and participate in academic, leadership, athletic, and military workshops.

AG warns Washington

Threatens prosecution & removal from office

The Town of Washington was scheduled to hold its election of officers by official ballot on March 13th. Moderator Barbara Gaskell postponed the election to March 17th, despite a memorandum from the Secretary of State and Attorney General which stated that no public officials had authority to postpone town elections.

In a sternly worded letter, the Attorney General admonished Gaskell that she violated RSA 4:40 by postponing the election, conduct which could constitute "official misconduct," punishable as a misdemeanor.

Although the state is foregoing prosecution at this time, he warns that "failure to comply with our State's election laws may result in criminal prosecution, civil penalties, or seeking to remove officials from office."

As a result, the Secretary of State will appoint an election monitor to directly observe all aspects of preparing for a new election. On or before March 19th, the Town shall post the warrant and hold its election of town officers on April 3rd. The Selectmen may "choose another day for the second session of the town meeting for the transaction of all other town business."

Undeterred, Gaskell stood by her decision, saying, "I stand behind my belief that (the statute) was intended to allow Town Moderators to take into consideration the safety of the voters during local elections as well as Town Meeting. Does it really disenfranchise more voters to postpone the voting day than it does to hold an election during an extreme weather event when the state police are urging people to stay off the roads, businesses are closing and even the State offices were closed?"

Marathon Henniker meeting features several impassioned debates

As he opened the meeting Henniker Moderator Wayne Colby asked voters to settle in as it could take some time to deal with the warrant that listed five ballot votes, two of which required the polls to be open for one hour. About six hours later his prediction proved true.

The first item discussed was a proposed $200,000 bond for the installation of new water pipes on Hall Avenue to precede the already approved new sidewalk project. After a long discussion the measure won on a ballot vote. While the polls remained open on that matter, the meeting passed its $5.09 million operating budget, and several articles for the Library, Transfer Station, Fire and Rescue without question or debate.

Voters then brought forward Article 39, which called for establishing an elected municipal budget committee, generating another long discussion. Stephanie Payeur, a member of the current budget advisory committee, appointed by the select board which only concerns the town budget, said that this approach would allow better oversight of spending.

Oponents, however, attacked the plan as a back-door attempt to cut spending that added an unnecessary layer to town government and would undercut more knowledgeable boards.

Longtime resident Barbara French said, "This is a big change. It's not something we should be talking about at just one meeting. Most of us don't understand the details." After a prolonged discussion and open ballot, the measure was soundly defeated 126-35.

A request, returning from last year generated the most heated debate of the meeting. Walter and Katherine Pollard requested that they be allowed to shift a portion of Quaker Street, which runs between their 19th-century home and barn in a historic portion of town. The Pollards claim that the road is unsafe because it passes within 11 feet of their house and curves through their property. However, opponents argued it would alter a beautiful historic district and would be moved into a conservation easement established by the Davison family. When put to a vote, the request was approved 83-56. In other business, voters also approved Keno, by a 50-36 ballot vote.

Popular Hopkinton High graduate dies in Kentucky

Students and staff at Hopkinton High School are mourning the loss of 19-year-old Kenneth "Kenny" John Coburn of Hopkinton, who died in an automobile accident Friday night. Coburn had joined the U.S. Army after graduating in 2017 and was stationed in Fort Knox, KY. According to Amanda Santoro, Coburn's guidance counselor, Coburn found his passion through the automotive program at Concord Regional Technical Center (CRTC). She said Coburn was a peacekeeper with a sense of humor. Funeral services have yet to be announced; Coburn's family has requested privacy. Hopkinton Middle/High School had guidance counselors available and provided space in a conference room for students to share stories and memories about Coburn.

If it was on the Deering Warrant it passed

Saturday was a bright shiny day and Deering voters came to Town Meeting in a positive mood, passing all of the articles on the warrant. Money articles approved included; the $2,079,377 Operating Budget, $404,050 to previously established Capital Reserve or Expandable Trust Funds, $12,00 for a Fire Department Forestry Vehicle, $18,000 for a Skid Pack for that vehicle, and $45,000 to continue the Per Diem emergency responder program. The meeting also approved changing the organization of the Fire Department by having firefighters appointed by the selectmen on the recommendation of the chief instead of directly by the chief. An administrative assistant for the police department was approved as was the construction of a pavilion in the town center.

Moderator Arthur Merrill opened the Antrim Town Meeting to a sparse crowd Thursday evening.

Antrim voters OK three bridge projects

It was a debate about a bridge over troubled waters that dominated Antrim's Town Meeting Wednesday night. Voters actually approved funding for three bridges, including $30,000 for a walking ramp near the Peace Bridge located by Memorial Park. According to Select Board Chair Mike Genest, a West Street walking bridge would replace an existing 20 year old footbridge near Memorial Park. Former Selectman Gordon Webber, who opposed the project, asked if the select board had an engineering report. Genest replied that they didn't but an engineering firm had given them a recommendation. The article passed overwhelmingly, as did $100,000 for the Craig Road Bridge, and $90,000 to complete the Elm Street Bridge. The annual meeting breezed by in under an hour this year with voters passing every article. Voters also approved entering into a $30,000 five-year lease agreement to replace one of the Water & Sewer Dept. trucks and to abolish the budget advisory committee.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

BY SARAH CHAPIN

New research published in the Journal of Clinical Oncology suggests long-term, high-dose supplementation with vitamins B6 and B12—long touted by the vitamin industry for increasing energy and improving metabolism—is associated with a two-to-four-fold increased lung cancer risk in men relative to non-users. Risk was further elevated in male smokers taking more than 20 mg of B6 or 55 micrograms of B12 a day for 10 years. Male smokers taking B6 at this dose were three times more likely to develop lung cancer. Male smokers taking B12 at such doses were approximately four times more likely to develop the disease compared to non-users.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration recently issued an historic action making the first gene therapy available in the United States, ushering in a new approach to the treatment of cancer and other serious and life-threatening diseases. The FDA approved Kymriah (tisagenlecleucel) for certain pediatric and young adult patients with a form of acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL). ALL is a cancer of the bone marrow and blood, in which the body makes abnormal lymphocytes. The disease progresses quickly and is the most common childhood cancer in the U.S. The National Cancer Institute estimates that approximately 3,100 patients aged 20 and younger are diagnosed with ALL each year.

A majority of patients with Type 1 diabetes who were treated with dapagliflozin, a Type 2 diabetes medicine, had a significant decline in their blood sugar levels, according to a new study published in The Lancet Diabetes and Endocrinology.

Sewer and Water Commission sparks debate at Hillsborough Meeting

At Hillsborough's Town Meeting, postponed from Tuesday to Thursday, silence greeted Warrant Articles calling for the $7,263,326 Operating Budget, $746,975 Water Dept Budget, $701,804 Sewer Budget, a pair of collective bargaining agreements and $300,000 for Capital Reserve Funds, all of which were passed without question or debate.

Questions were raised on Article 12 asking for a town contribution of $350,000 to aid the Sewer Commission's repair and replacement of Bridge Street sewer lines, but the measure eventually easily passed. More heat was generated over Article 13, calling for another town contribution of $100,000 to assist the Sewer Commission's upgrading of the West Main Street Pump Station. Tom McClure, who is neither a sewer or town water user, urged support of the article as an investment in the town's future. After further debate, the article passed.

Article 14, asking the town to adopt certain tax incentives for commercial and industrial development or repair, drew several questions but it too passed easily.

Petitioned Article 15, calling for the abolition of the Sewer & Water Commission, drew the most debate. Residents Don Soloman and Frank Piersall accused the current Commissioners of hurting the chances for commercial growth. Selectman Jon Dailey gave a passionate defense of the Commission, which was overwhelmingly supported on a vote of 30-96.

H-D School District Moderator Jon Dailey, Town Clerk Deb McDonald, and Checklist Supervisors Sharron Wilkins and Arlene Johns presented Russ Galpin with a gift certificate in recognition for his years of service as District Moderator. This was also his last year as Town Moderator.

Northfield Select Board Chair Wayne Crawly explains the KENO Warrant Article.

Northfield's voters value good roads

Highway issues dominated the Northfield Town Meeting Saturday. Voters approved $176,000 for a new sidewalk plow, placed $75,000 in the Highway Equipment Capital Reserve Fund, established a Road Repair Revolving Fund, approved two articles totaling $657,207 for road and bridge reconstruction, and $2,712,679 for the reconstruction of Sandogardy Pond Road. Voters added another $1,273 for the library to the operating budget, bringing the total to $3,323,652.

The Tilton Selectmen presented retiring Town Administrator Joyce Fulweiler with a gift in appreciation of her many years service.

Tilton votes to keep Sewer Commission

Tilton voters approved all the money articles presented at Town Meeting, including the amended Budget Committee's $5,622,101 Operating Budget. They also decided to reduce the number of Budget Committee members from 6 to 5, approved Keno and approved owning 100% of Island Park. Voters accepted the Police Building Committee report to continue the process, but rejected a petitioned article seeking to abolish the Sewer Commission.

Chichester voters overhaul zoning process

Chichester voters approved the $2,603,072 operating budget, an increase of $229,091 from last year's budget much of which was because of a nearly 50% increase in the fire department's budget due to the hiring of two full-time EMTs to staff an ambulance. Also approved was $320,000 in road reconstruction money in order to accept a bid for paving projects. The town also approved $8,000 to design a new system of designing its zoning districts.

Hopkinton voters post a new "Open For Business" sign

Hopkinton is open for business. That was the message sent when residents passed five separate articles designed to provide incentives for economic development which would increase the tax base and lower the burden on individual property owners.

By approving the establishment of two tax increment finance districts, town officials will now be able to market those sites in commercial areas: one near Exit 6 off Interstate 89 and the another near 202. Arnold Coda asked Selectman Robert Gerseny, a key question, "Do you have a time projection?" Gerseny said, "No," it could be as few as six years, 10 years or more. Voters also approved a land swap of a portion of a 96-acre lot abutting the Mast Yard Forest with the state in exchange for receiving state-owned land near the intersection of Maple Street and Routes 202/9. As if that were not enough, voters also authorized $30,000 to be used toward future economic development projects in the town. Economic development was not the only issue dealt with.

Voters passed a $7.1 million operating budget, and added $623,000 to 11 established capital reserve funds, including highway, police, fire and transfer station vehicles and equipment. Also approved was the establishment of a new capital reserve fund for recreational facilities and set aside $10,000 in that fund.

Select Board Chair Jim O'Brien presents a plaque to outgoing Board member Steve Lux, Jr. in appreciation for his work on the Board. Jim specifically mentioned Steve's help with the perambulation of the town's borders.

It was a full house at the Loudon Town Meeting.

Loudon voters upset with School District

So many Loudon residents attended Saturday's Town Meeting that its opening was delayed a half hour to get them all in. The town's $4.5 million budget, including an additional $7,500 for Old Home Day fireworks, passed easily. But the real fireworks dealt with an article to study the "opportunities and liabilities to the town of Loudon to withdraw the Merrimack Valley School District." Although the article failed by vote of 117-74, it was apparent that many residents have lost faith in the current educational system. Stating that Loudon joined the District in 1965, resident Amy Corliss asked, "Wouldn't it be reasonable to revisit a 50-year-old agreement to make sure that it is continuing to meet the educational and financial needs and desires of our residents? I would happily support this budget if I felt that my children were receiving a high quality education," she continued. "Unfortunately I do not." In other action, after much debate, $30,000 was approved for an Alternative Energy Capital Reserve Fund, but a 100 percent property tax exemption for primary residences was defeated by 97-92.

Bow school tax rate down .53/1000 value

It took the Bow School District's voters only about a half hour to pass all the warrant articles at the annual meeting last Friday. In fact, the district's $28 million operating budget passed with no discussion. Annual expenses were up by about $18,000, but revenues are projected to rise by nearly $500,000, from increased tuition dollars from Dunbarton and state aid for full-day kindergarten. The resulting local education tax rate is projected to decrease by 53 cents per $1,000 of assessed property value, or save about $132 on a $250,000 home.

Warner will have a new Fire Station by the end of the year

Warner's Town Hall erupted with cheers when it was announced that voters had overwhelmingly approved a new, $2.75 million fire station, 293-58. The vote concludes a running debate since 2010, whether the town needs and/or can afford a new station.

$200,000 of the cost is to be paid from the town's unassigned fund balance with $60,000 raised by taxation. According to Warner Fire Chief Ed Raymond, construction will begin in April, with completion by the end of the year. Voters also approved the $3.1 million operating budget, down $297,983 from last year's, but defeated a petitioned article to establish a three-person Procurement Committee. The committee's role would be to assist the select board in reviewing any estimates, costs, contracts and expenditures that would exceed $25,000.

Resident Matt Essinwne questions the Warner budget.

Cause of Hillsborough fire

Hillsboro Police report that Timothy Remillard, 40, and Rebecca Morrissette, 22, both from Hillsboro, are suspected of causing the recent fire at an unoccupied West Main Street house. Apparently the homeless couple was camped out there and accidentally caused the fire to break-out. No charges have yet been filed.

Beyond Gun Control

In the wake of the recent Florida school shooting, the media is full of renewed calls for gun control. If drugs are illegal, why are we are facing a drug crisis? Why won't critics acknowledge that if guns were illegal, the wrong element would still be able to get them? Have you ever wondered why there are no mass shootings in Court Houses, Airports and the like? Recently Commentator Greg Gutfeld outlined a rational, comprehensive plan to combat these school tragedies. His points include:

- 1. Harden soft targets with security and training. This is already being done by a wide variety of business, entertainment, and political figures, plus many companies and organizations.
- 2. If you see something, say something, should be followed with do something. We need to "tag" people such as Cruz the minute they start acting off. Violation of the database would result in a felony conviction.

3. Address mental illness seriously. Bring back psychiatric hospitals. Of course they still exist but they "house less than one-tenth of the people they did back in the '50s."

4. Re-examine the media's role. "If you look at [mass-shooting] killers, you'll find an interest in those who came before them." Gutfeld argues that the media should not report the names of mass shooters or show their pictures as a way of tamping down such incidents. "We advertise infamy," which he says has an impact.

More important than his specific proposals, is Gutfeld's willingness to lay out ideas that aren't simply a repeal of the Second Amendment.

Guest Editorial

by Representative Victoria Sullivan

As a mom, I am infuriated by the conversations that keep distracting us from the facts. The conversations that keep pointing out toward some distraction, and that keep us from facing the cold, hard, truths. The truth is that we are raising children that do not value life, and children that see violence as a solution. As a result, our children go to school and learn drills about hiding from a would be murderer as a part of their school day.

Wake up America! This is not a "normal" that we should accept. Asking Washington to do something while your child becomes more vulnerable is not a solution. No new law will help to re-instate a moral conscience into those that are preying on the innocent. No sign that states, "no guns allowed," will all of a sudden turn around the mind, and the heart, of a person on a quest to murder their peers.

I once asked for the security and lockdown information for my child's school. I was told that I could not have that information as it would endanger other children. I asked how my knowledge of precautions the school district is taking to protect my child could endanger any child? The fact is it would not. Thinking that an adult is going to come in and do harm to our students is easier for us, as parents, and adults to accept than the fact that it will be another student. A young person that attends school with our children, who is being taught these very lockdown, active shooter drills, will likely be the next school murderer. The reason that people are resistant to having armed guards at our schools is because that guard would, in likelihood, have to disarm, or kill, a child in order to save other children. That is a very sobering, sad, and disturbing fact of our society.

Yet, the focus of the conversation is once again, anywhere, and everywhere but where it needs to be. The focus needs to be on our kids. What societal factors are contributing to the devaluation of human life? What protections are in place for the children that have become prey to the young people that are choosing them as their targets, as a way to completely destroy the communities where these killers were raised? These are the questions that require us to stop pointing outward at whatever distraction is "out there," ► and turn around and look inward to our own schools, our own communities and our own families. That isn't easy.

It isn't easy to face the fact that the blame rests on all of our shoulders. It isn't easy to face the fact that there is no quick fix to this. It is easier to make ourselves believe that restricting the availability of the instrument used in the latest attack, is somehow going to cure the ills of our society. Meanwhile, our society continues to fail mothers all across this country. The school shootings make the headlines because they are still "news." Yet the children being murdered at the hands of gang, and street violence every week in our cities, now go widely unreported, because it has become commonplace. Those children are simply forgotten. Understand that for a moment. Our children being murdered at the hands of other children is now a basic, and accepted truth of our society.

I implore every person reading this to please just stop. Stop making noise. Stop pointing outward. Stop ignoring the truths. Start looking into the eyes of your own child. Start taking control of who and what is influencing them in and out of your home, including social media. What examples are we, as parents setting? Are we just accepting of the violence all around us because it is societal? Compare our television shows growing up with what children are subjected to today. We spend more time looking at our phones than we do at the beautiful faces of our children.

We are facing an enormous task. We need to start being parents again, to our children, all the time. We need to start being better members of our community. That is where this begins and ends, with us. We need to start talking to our neighbors, our pastor, our friends, our schools about how to come back together as a community to solve these problems. We need to demand that steps, actual steps are being taken in our communities, not in Washington, not in Concord, but in our own districts to provide protection for our children. We need to stop looking for someone else to fix this. The someone is us.

Letters to the Editor

Letter to the Editor

Last Tuesday, March 13, we were given the day off from the annual Washington Town Meeting/voting. I was able to spend the day in our Public Works Director's sugar house boiling from 8 AM till 6 PM. During that period only a few vehicles went by - town plows and the town grader. Just about every school in the state was closed, state employees were allowed to leave work at noon, and the NHDOT recommended everyone stay off the roads. The day before, our Town Moderator, because of a dire weather prediction, had postponed the meeting and election till the following Saturday. She, as well as other moderators, had done the same thing the year before when a snowstorm hit on Election Day. Slaps on the wrist all around with warning of banishment to the Yukon if it happened again.

Well, quite obviously, NH election law is sacrosanct and supersedes common sense. Our Secretary of State, probably a very nice man who's been in this position much too long, complained about Washington's egregious scofflaw attitude to the NH Attorney General who, in turn, unleashed the power of his office on our moderator and Town officials. In a four page legalistic diatribe, we were instructed to hold our meeting/voting three weeks hence - April 3. That gives plenty of time for all townfolk to get the formal word so no one would be "disenfranchised" (and for newspapers and TV stations far and wide to try to find our little town.) One has to wonder how many voters around the state were disenfranchised from voting because of the weather this year.

Sometimes bureaucracy can be overwhelming and, I'm sad to say, our Secretary of State, judicial system, and our legislature fall into that category. We may never have another voting day when the weather is so foul - but don't count on it. This is NH. The legislature should take a hard look at all the voting laws cited in the Attorney General's letter, make adjustments, and give the decision for postponement because of extenuating circumstances to moderators and town officials. In the meantime we'll just hunker down and hope the next Noreasta doesn't arrive on April 3.

The Bradford Town Hall's fate is uncertain

Bradford Town Hall restoration bond fails

For the second time in three years, Bradford voters rejected a $1.3 million bond request to renovate the historic town hall by a ballot vote of 99-78. Last year, voters approved a $861,000, $675,000 of which was bonded, with the remainder to be raised through grants and donations. However, officials realized they lacked even the funding to get the first floor of the building back to usable condition. Town Administrator Karen Hambleton acknowledged that even if the $1.3 million was approved, it was only enough to bring the first floor up to code. Hambleton reports that until a resolution is found, the Town Hall will be "moth-balled."

Greenfield rejects Fire Dept's new tanker

Although a warrant article authorizing the Greenfield Fire Department to buy a new $242,000 tanker failed, voters later voted to place an additional $94,000 into the Fire/Rescue Apparatus Capital Reserve Fund instead of the proposed $40,000 asked for. A proposal to increase the fire chief's stipend from $22,500 per year to $25,000, increasing the department's budget from $134,460 to $136,960 was also defeated, as the select board felt the $22,500 stipend currently offered to the chief is sufficient. Voters did approve the proposed budgets for the fire department, public works, police, and recycling center.

Dunbarton voters approve all the articles

Dunbarton voters approved all of their warrant articles, including the $2.3 million operating budget and $255,875 worth of articles. They approved increasing one of the police department's part-time officers to full-time, bringing the number of full-time officers to four. Voters also established an Invasive Plant Species Capital Reserve Fund, approved the final $100,000 installment to repair Grapevine Road, approved money for a future new fire truck, bought a new pickup truck for the transfer station and a 2% raise to local officials.

Newport's solar project nears approval

Newport School District voters have approved what could become the largest municipal solar operation in the state. The school portion of the proposed 2.6-megawatt project to serve both town and school buildings was approved Tuesday, leading the company to believe that on May 8th, town voters will approve the portion which would serve Newport's municipal buildings. The $3.5 million project covers 10 acres, on four properties, and will serve the school district office, three school buildings and all town-owned facilities, producing enough to zero out energy needs for the town and school.

Hancock's 5 hour meeting dominated by vehicle purchases-or not

Hancock voters approved their $2,322,560 Operating Budget without debate, while more than half of the 5 hour meeting involved purchasing a new fire truck and rejecting a new police cruiser. The $512,246, fire engine, designed to replace a 1996 engine, carried bond payments of $63,000 per year.

Fire Chief Tom Bates supported the new truck, saying it would have room for four firefighters, and be able to move more quickly on house fires by not having to wait for a second team to arrive. The article passed by a 136-30 2/3 vote.

Article 9 asked voters to approve $37,000 for a new police cruiser but was never voted on because of the vote on article 8, which asked voters whether to enact a policy regarding how many vehicles the police department can have, and how they should be used.

An amendment passed, 84-61, increasing the number of vehicles from 2 to 3, but the article eventually failed, 48-62. When they reached Article 9, Moderator Richard Haskins noted the language of the article included this clause: "This article is contingent on the passing of Article 8."

Thus, Article 9 couldn't be raised for a vote because Article 8 didn't pass.

Most other articles easily passed, including spending $230,865 to repair the Longview Bridge, $100,000 for repairs to the meetinghouse steeple and $234,000 lease/purchase of a 10-wheel dump truck.

Weare firefighters' quick response limits fire damage

On March 17th, one of the three occupants at 125 Buzzzell Hill Road called 9-1-1 to report a fire in the basement. The Weare Fire Department was dispatched and was on scene of the one and a half story residential building within six minutes of the initial call. On their arrival, Engine 5 staffed with the on-duty crew stretched a hoseline and began to extinguish the fire in the basement. After knocking down the small fire, crews continued to work opening up walls in search of hidden fire. Firefighters found additional fire in the wall space directly above the involved basement area. Weare Fire Chief Robert Vezina believes a quick response and aggressive tactics from Weare's on-duty crew resulted in rapid control of the fire. As the fire was confined to the area of origin, firefighters were able to prevent damage to most of the home's furnishings. The cause of the fire is due to the operation of a wood stove. The majority of the damage was confined to the wall assembly directly behind the brick wall protection used as a clearance reduction system. The occupants are staying with family and friends in the area. No civilians or fire personnel were injured.

Weare firefighters break through the wall to get to the fire.

Bennington approves budget

Bennington voters approved the $1,729,235 operating budget by a vote of 140 to 70. ConVal School Board incumbent Linda Quintanilha picked up 110 votes to Keira Christian's 87 to win a third term.

Henniker's Angela Robinson Bandstand.

Angela Robinson Bandstand to be removed?

The Henniker Selectmen held an eventful meeting Tuesday evening. Administrator Christine Trovato announced that the town had received a letter from a lawyer representing an "anonymous, concerned citizen" claiming the Angela Robinson Bandstand violates the terms of the 1915 deed from the Cogswell Trust which states that no additional "structures" can be built on the land, given as a park, and demands it be removed. Officials will confer with the town attorney to see if the bandstand can be preserved.

Prior to the excitement, the Board reelected Kris Blombak and Tia Hooper as Chair and Vice Chair, welcomed new member Scott Osgood and accepted the resignation of Ben Fortner. The Board agreed with Vice Chair Tia Hooper's recommendation that the Board reestablish the procedure undertaken when there was a vacancy in 2010. Any resident interested in holding that open seat should submit an application by Thursday, March 29th. Candidates for the open seat will be allowed 5 minutes to speak at the meeting on Tuesday, April 3rd, and the Board will make their decision at that meeting. Letters have been received from residents Bob Garrison, Stephanie Payuer, and Leon Parker, and former member Robert French verbally expressed his interest to serve for another year.

New principal at ConVal High School

The ConVal School Board has announced the hiring of Michelle Voto as the new principal for ConVal Regional High School. Voto has worked in the School District since August 2017, where he developed programs for the Applied Technology Center. Voto replaces interim principal Gib West who assumed the role when longtime ConVal principal Brian Pickering retired in January 2017 due to health concerns. West will continue as principal during a yearlong transition period, which will end with Voto as principal and West resuming his previous role as Dean of Faculty.

Belmont voters said yes to all articles

About 400 Belmont voters braved the storm to cast their votes at Town Meeting. Once they arrived, they passed all the articles including the $7,593,919 operating budget, a temporary tax incentive to attract new businesses, and $65,000 that will be withdrawn from the Municipal Facilities Capital Reserve Fund for engineering studies for future use of six town-owned buildings.

Before an audience of nearly 100, Andover scholar John Hodgson described the life of Richard Potter (1783-1835), in an illustrated March 18 talk in Proctor Academy's Stone Chapel. The talk was drawn from Hodgson's research for his new book, Richard Potter: America's First Black Celebrity. Potter was an Andover resident from 1815 until his death, building a fashionable home near the Potter Place railroad station, though he spent much of that time performing on the road. It was for Richard Potter that Potter Place was named. The talk was co-sponsored by the Andover Historical Society and the Andover Institute.
