A Community Responds

Weekend donations reach half way point

Matthew and Bethany Stewart held a fundraiser at Hillsborough's Shaw's Supermarket Saturday for their 7-year-old son Liam who has been diagnosed with Type 1 diabetes. His doctors have recommended a Trained Alert Dog because Liam is considered a fragile, brittle diabetic.

The dog is a safety measure to prevent Liam from having another seizure. This service dog would sense when Liam's sugar level is dropping sooner than a device would. The dog and its training costs $7,000, on top of his other medical bills.

After raising $2,300 on Saturday, they are about half way to achieving their goal. Contributions are still being accepted. Make checks payable to Matthew or Bethany Stewart and send to PO Box 124, Hillsborough, NH 03244.

Franklin City Council overrides veto, breaks tax cap

For the first time since its adoption 30 years ago, the Franklin City Council voted to break the city's tax cap Thursday night, overriding a veto by Mayor Tony Giunta on a 6-3 vote. It did so by moving municipal and school debt services, or bond payments and interest due on those payments, outside the tax cap for one year. The decision allocates $708,623 to the Franklin School District's budget, nearly twice the amount the school board was asking for in its five-year plan. According to School Board Chairman Tim Dow, the District had budgeted for a $813,832 shortfall this year, requiring the elimination of 14 positions, but the additional $708,623 should allow bringing most teachers back. The addition translates to a tax increase of $1.28 per $1,000 of assessed property value, or $256 on a $200,000 home.

New London approves firm to study repurposing Buker Building

At Monday's meeting, the New London Select Board received presentations from three architectural firms bidding to prepare proposal for repurposing the Buker Municipal Building. The facility, annexed to historic Whipple Hall, houses both the Police/Dispatch and Recreation Departments. The Board made it clear that Whipple Hall was not part of the project, but felt that the two additions which comprise the Buker Building contain much wasted and unused space.

The hope is that a redesign will allow both departments to remain in the facility, each with much needed additional space.

Judy Johnson and William Gatchell of the Harriman Firm stressed that they were both an architectural and engineering firm. They said that if chased, they could begin the study in about two weeks and have it completed in 50 days at a cost of $22,900.

Gregg Goucher and Peter Tennant of Tennant Goucher made a similar presentation, saying they could begin immediately and deliver the study in 2-3 months at a cost of $26,250.

The third firm of Warrenstreet, represented by Jonathan Halle and Zachary Brock, stressed their hands on experience with similar projects and said they could submit their plans by mid November at a cost of $18,500.

After a short discussion, it was clear that the Board's consensus was Harriman, and they unanimously instructed Town Administrator Kim Hallquist to negotiate and contract with that firm.

Judy Johnson (r) and William Gatchell (l) of Harriman Architetics make their pitch to the New London Select Board.

DWI driver gets 14 days in jail

Rebecca Rodenhiser, 39, the Peterborough woman who injured two Greenfield residents in a head-on collision in Lyndeborough in November, will spend 14 days in jail with the rest of her one-year jail sentence suspended for three years, according to prosecuting attorney Brad Bolton. Rodenhiser's plea agreement orders her to pay a $1,000 fine and up to $4,000 in restitution to her two victims – Joanne Vandeusen and Abou Sylla. She will also serve 100 hours of community service and be under probation for a year following her release.

Goffstown girl collides with paving truck

Julia Yost, 19, of Goffstown is in stable condition after being seriously injured in a collision with a paving truck at the intersection of Greer and Mast roads in Goffstown. She was traveling southeast on Mast Road about 8:30 a.m. Friday when she veered her vehicle into the oncoming lane and struck the side of a paving truck that was towing several pieces of construction equipment.

Yost's vehicle bounced off the side of the paving truck and went off the road into an embankment, where she was left trapped in the car. The paving truck jackknifed and came to rest north of the collision, police said.

First responders secured the scene, closed the road and used extraction tools to free Yost from her vehicle. She suffered multiple injuries to her legs and abdomen in the collision. The operator of the paving truck, 44-year old Rosta Myslivec of Merrimack, was uninjured. Yost was taken by helicopter to Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center in Boston, where she is in stable condition.

Franklin City Council reverses itself - reinstates City's tax cap

In a major reversal of position, the Franklin City Council voted, 5-4, to reconsider its June 28 motion to override Mayor Tony Giunta's veto and break the tax cap for one year by moving debt services outside the cap. Two Ward 3 councilors, Paul Trudel and Steve Barton, reversed last week's vote because of an apparent misunderstanding.

Trudel, who originally voted in support of breaking the cap, actually made the motion to reconsider. Last week's decision would have allocated an additional $708,623 toward the Franklin School District's budget, allowing it to rehire the 14 staff members laid off this past May because of a $813,832 budget shortfall.

Dunbarton Cops have NARCAN

Each member of the Dunbarton Police Department has completed the necessary training and licensing requirements through the New Hampshire Bureau of EMS to become Law Enforcement Providers of Narcan, a medication that may counteract the effects of an opiate overdose.

The council then voted to allocate $422,000 to the schools, increasing the $207,000 allocated to the district by the council earlier this month and repurposing an additional $113,000 from the city's fund balance and $102,000 of new assessed tax value on Eversource's Webster substation. Giunta, was pleased, saying maintaining the city's tax cap will be vital in encouraging businesses to choose Franklin. A public hearing on the budget will be held on July 18 at 6 p.m. at city hall.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

BY SARAH CHAPIN

A large portion of patients taking prescription drugs that could affect driving may not be aware they could potentially be driving impaired, according to research in the November issue of the Journal of Studies on Alcohol and Drugs. Nearly 20 percent of people in the study reported recent use of a prescription medication with the potential for impairment, but not all said they were aware that the medication could affect their driving, despite the potential for receiving warnings from their doctor, their pharmacist, or the medication label itself. The percentages of those who said they had received a warning from one of those sources varied by type of medication: 86 percent for sedatives, 85 percent for narcotics, 58 percent for stimulants, and 63 percent for antidepressants. In this study, the type of medication in question was also related to drivers' perceptions about their impairment risk. They were most likely to think that sleep aids were the most likely to affect safe driving, followed by morphine/codeine, other amphetamines, and muscle relaxants. Attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) medications were viewed as least likely to affect driving risk.

Women may only need three cervical screens in their lifetime if they have been given the human papillomavirus (HPV) vaccine, according to a new study published in the International Journal of Cancer. The HPV vaccine protects women against the most dangerous forms of HPV, significantly reducing the chance of developing cervical cancer.

The U.S. Preventive Services Task Force has issued a new recommendation against the use of combined estrogen and progestin in postmenopausal women, or estrogen alone in postmenopausal women who have had a hysterectomy, to prevent chronic conditions such as heart disease, dementia and stroke.

Progress on Goffstown's Main Street rebuild project continues

Goffstown DPW recently worked with Pawjer Earth Products to get the new Town Common fountain installed and substantially complete. Crews also finished installing the new decorative street lights.

Over the next two weeks, the sidewalks will be paved with top coat, landscape areas prepped with loam, new landscaping installed and the matching black metal benches and barrels as well. In between major work items will be miscellaneous punchlist items. The approved plans do call for three (3), 1.5" high mountable cobble medians to improve traffic calming at the High/Elm/Main/North Mast intersection. There is significant truck traffic here and these areas need to be accessible by large trucks. The curbing on these islands will be beveled. DPW is still waiting on dates for curbing and cobble install. This work will require a temporary truck detour for the concrete to set and the cobbles to be installed.

The Antrim/Bennington Lions Club helped open the James Tuttle Library's Summer Reading Program.

Henniker Students Build SeaPerch ROV

Eighth grade students at the Henniker Community School worked collaboratively in pairs during a four week period this spring to build a SeaPerch ROV (Remotely Operated Vehicle) during an integrated STEM class. Leading up to this project, students learned about the Engineering Design Process. The students also learned about the real world uses of ROVs, such as mapping the ocean floor and recovering objects after hurricanes. Once the students completed their ROVs, they went on a field trip to UNH to test their vehicles, compete in an obstacle course, and other challenges in the UNH pool. The Henniker students also toured the engineering program facilities and learned about current engineering projects underway at UNH. Henniker Community School is grateful to have received a Lowe's Toolbox for Education Grant and support from Tara Hicks from UNH and Roland Marquis from the Naval Shipyard to make this experience possible for our students.

Belmont man arrested on several charges

Joseph Costello of Belmont, 26, is being held at the Merrimack County Jail after police arrested him with a stolen car after chasing him from Canterbury to Hooksett. Troopers were patrolling on I 93 shortly when they received a report of an erratically driven car. Witnesses described the vehicle as being "all over the road" and almost hitting signs and other vehicles. The troopers received information that the vehicle may have been stolen. The troopers took up pursuit but Costello did not stop, and continued driving erratically. Additional troopers joined the pursuit and were able to stop the car. He has been charged with receiving stolen property, disobeying a police officer, reckless conduct, driving under the influence of drugs, possession of narcotics, resisting arrest, and operating without a valid license.

Goffstown Police Department hosting a Citizens Police Academy

The Goffstown Police Department is accepting applications for its Citizens Police Academy Program, which is scheduled to begin Sept. 6.

The program is a 10-week course designed to better inform citizens about the role that the department plays in the community. Consisting of both classroom and hands-on field participation, the curriculum offers an all-encompassing look at day-to-day functions of a police officer. Chief Robert Browne says the academy has its roots in the many crime TV shows of the early 2000s.

"We had a lot of interested folks in town who really wanted to figure out exactly what happens in police work," said Browne of the academy's origins. "That was around the time that CSI was just starting to get big and I think that got some folks really interested in seeing how policing in a small community works."

While he noted that the curriculum is constantly being adjusted to reflect current practices, Browne said low-light firearms practice, ride-alongs with officers, and overviews on the constitutionality of arrests and search and seizure were likely to be part of this year's program.

Browne said that very little funding goes into the academy, with almost all of the instruction volunteered.

When In A Hole - Stop Digging

You don't have to be the brightest person in the world to know that it is hard to get yourself out of a hole if you keep on digging.

Apparently the Executive Committee of the Greater Hillsborough Chamber of Commerce missed that lesson.

They began digging several weeks ago when it was discovered that Executive Director Ginks Leiby had been routinely rigging the voting on the Citizen Of The Year Award by soliciting multiple nominations of her chosen recipient. The hole got deeper when Chamber President Susanne White claimed no knowledge of this, even though she was one of Leiby's e-mail recipients.

The shovels kept working recently when, following the Chamber's nomination process, a local woman presented the Chamber with the nomination of a different person, signed by 68 Hillsborough residents. When asked about it at a Chamber meeting both White and Leiby feigned ignorance and failed to place the nomination on the agenda.

Now, ignoring their previous process and the 68 nominations, they have developed a new full page nomination form which each individual must complete. It even contains the phrase "The Executive Director does not comment or vote on nominees," but the hole keeps getting deeper.

America's Greatest Democrat

Messenger readers know me to be a conservative Republican, with little if anything good to say about Democrats. Independence Day is a good time to break that pattern and offer high praise for one amazing Democrat.

Thomas Jefferson was a very remarkable man who started learning very early in life and never stopped. At 5, began studying under his cousin's tutor. At 9, studied Latin, Greek and French.

At 14, studied classical literature and additional languages. At 16, entered the College of William and Mary. He could write in Greek with one hand while writing the same in Latin with the other.

At 19, studied Law for 5 years starting under George Wythe. At 23, started his own law practice. At 25, was elected to the Virginia House of Burgesses. At 31, wrote the widely circulated "Summary View of the Rights of British America" and retired from his law practice.

At 32, was a Delegate to the Second Continental Congress. At 33, wrote the Declaration of Independence. At 33, took three years to revise Virginia's legal code and wrote a Public Education Bill and a statute for Religious Freedom. At 36, was elected the second Governor of Virginia succeeding Patrick Henry. At 40, served in Congress for two years.

At 41, was the American minister to France and negotiated commercial treaties with European nations along with Ben Franklin and John Adams. At 46, served as the first Secretary of State under George Washington.

At 53, served as Vice President and was elected president of the American Philo-sophical Society. At 55, drafted the Kentucky

Resolutions and became the active head of the Republican Party. At 57, was elected the third President of the United States. At 60, obtained the Louisiana Purchase doubling the nation's size. At 61, was elected to a second term as President. At 65, retired to Monticello. At 80, helped President Monroe shape the Monroe Doctrine. At 81, almost single-handedly created the University of Virginia and served as its first president.

At 83, died on the 50th anniversary of the Signing of the Declaration of Independence along with John Adams. Thomas Jefferson studied the previous failed attempts at government. His voice from the past can lead us in the future, if we take time to listen. Here is some of what he had to say:

1. "When we get piled upon one another in large cities, as in Europe, we shall become as corrupt as Europe"

2. "The democracy will cease to exist when you take away from those who are willing to work and give to those who would not."

3. "It is incumbent on every generation to pay its own debts as it goes. A principle which if acted on would save one-half the wars of the world."

4. "I predict future happiness for Americans if they can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of taking care of them."

5. "My reading of history convinces me that most bad government results from too much government."

6. "No free man shall ever be debarred the use of arms."

7. "The strongest reason for the people to retain the right to keep and bear arms is, ► as a last resort, to protect themselves against tyranny in government."

8. "The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time with the blood of patriots and tyrants."

9. "To compel a man to subsidize with his taxes the propagation of ideas which he disbelieves and abhors is sinful and tyrannical."

Jefferson was one of our first, and perhaps the greatest Democrat, but if he said these things today, he would be ostracized from his own party.

Members of the Hillsboro Lions Club gathered at the newly dedicated benches and shade tree the Club installed at its previously dedicated playground at Grimes Field. The latest installment brings the Lions total investment in the project to over $20,000.

Goffstown designated an Age-Friendly Community

On Thursday, AARP New Hampshire announced Goffstown and Portsmouth as the first members of the organization's network of Age-Friendly States and Communities, an association of towns and cities across the country whose leaders have committed to making their communities more habitable for people of all ages.

Founded upon eight "livability indicators" that range from affordable public transportation and accessible recreational areas to access to paid work and home-based health-care services, the age-friendly initiative aims to emphasize improvements that influence the health and quality of citizens as they age. The indicators are planned, implemented and assessed in three phases over a five-year period, with continued cycles of assessment and improvement.

"Well-designed, livable communities promote well being, sustain economic growth, and make for happier healthier residents of all ages," said AARP New Hampshire State Director Todd Fahey. "By becoming part of the network, Goffstown and Portsmouth are making a commitment to do even more to improve livability in their communities and involve older residents in the process."

Both Goffstown and Portsmouth were selected with the help of the Southern New Hampshire Planning Commission based upon an Age Friendly Community Assessment, and join 263 other communities across the nation who have also received the Age-Friendly designation from AARP.

As the first communities in the Granite State to sign on to the network, civic leaders in both municipalities will have access to global resources and information from the AARP national office on age friendly practices, models of assessment and implementation, and the experiences of similar towns and cities around the world.

Acknowledging New Hampshire's aging population, Fahey said that this initiative was a perfect fit for the state. "We have an outflight of millennials and an aging population, so this program really is a way to more intentionally design the places that we call home," said Fahey. "And the most beautiful thing about this is that it's non-prescriptive. The towns and cities have the eight parameters of livability, but how they want to implement it is uniquely their own vision." Adam Jacobs, Goffstown's town administrator, says the designation is a sign of his community's commitment to making real contributions to the town's senior population.

"There's been a lot of planning for things like this over the years, but the money, time, and effort to truly make a difference weren't always there," said Jacobs. "This signals that we're proactive and want to be in that realm of other communities that are willing to make things happen for our residents." Jacobs went on to say that he hopes to leverage AARP's knowledge and support as the town works toward expanding public transportation services.
