Goffstown girl recovering after collision with paving truck

The Goffstown teen who was involved in a serious collision with a paving truck is out of surgery and in stable condition.

Goffstown Police reports indicate that on June 29th, Julia Yost, 19, veered into the oncoming lane on Mast Road in Goffstown and hit the broadside of a paving truck that was hauling several pieces of heavy equipment. Goffstown Police had initially reported that 44-year-old Rosta Myslivec of Merrimack was the operator of the truck, but officials have received new information that Myslivec was only one of several passengers in the truck and that the driver was actually 59-year-old Fred McQuesten of Litchfield.

None of the passengers of the truck sustained an injury, but Yost's vehicle was sent off the road and into the embankment where she was trapped inside the car. Yost sustained multiple impact wounds and was airlifted to Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center in Boston after first responders had to use extrication tools to free her from the car. Yost underwent surgery for injuries to her right leg, pelvis, hip, and right arm at Beth Israel. They went on to add that head injuries sustained by Yost were being monitored but did not appear serious at this time.

A post on the Yost's family on Facebook confirmed that she had been moved into Beth Israel's trauma unit after surgery, but cautioned she may need to undergo additional procedures.

Francestown Police Station

Francestown's Police Station renovations are expected to be completed by August 1st. Work began in April and were funded by a $125,000 warrant article.

Police say the exact cause of the crash is still under investigation, but reiterated that they have ruled out alcohol and excessive speed.

The hearse carrying the coffin of Staff Sgt. David Whitcher of Bradford New Hampshire passes under a flag draped by the Concord and Bradford fire departments at the New Hampshire Veterans Cemetery in Boscawen. Whitcher was killed earlier this month in a special forces training accident.

Sunapee's Sestercentennial Celebration

A long list of events has been planned for Aug. 17-19, for town of Sunapee's Sestercentennial celebration to commemorate the 250th anniversary of Sunapee's founding.

Events start on July 14 with the Sestercentennial Taste of Sunapee. It will take place at multiple locations around town, where residents and visitors can come for light refreshments hosted by the venue and talk to a committee member to learn about upcoming events. There is no charge for this.

Friday night, August 17 will be the big start of events with a fireworks show in Sunapee Harbor to rival the annual July 4 spectacle.

The Sestercentennial Parade will step off at 11 a.m. Saturday, August 18 from the Safety Services Building. Vehicles from the Sunapee Police and Fire Departments will take part, as well as some of our neighboring community service agencies. Plans are to have Sunapee's oldest resident in the parade as well as some others of that generation.

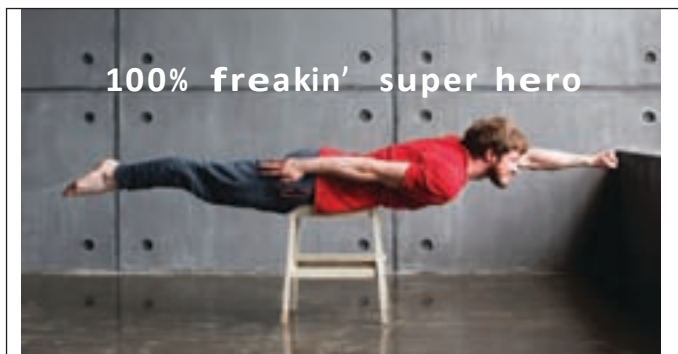

Community groups, organizations, local businesses, neighborhood associations and families are welcome to participate. Many town organizations will also hold events during that weekend. Everyone is welcome to start the big event day on Saturday with a free breakfast, courtesy of the members of the Methodist Church, at the church. Music will be going on all day in the Harbor thanks to Sunapee Recreation Department and Sunapee Cove Assisted Living. Organizers couldn't get "Steve and the band," but Aerosmith tribute band Draw the Line will be performing.

Closing out the weekend events will be the burying of a time capsule donated by Charlie and Marion Hafner of the Chadwick Funeral Home. Then all will move over to Veteran's Field for a community photo taken by Jonathan Ryba with his drone.

The weekend will include many more events in between what is listed; to see more, go to the website or events.projectsunapee.org/ for a full calendar of events.

Two men killed in violent Belmont three car accident

Authorities say speed does not appear to have been a factor in a three-vehicle crash last Wednesday on Route 106 in Belmont that claimed the lives of two people and their dog.

Police say a northbound Toyota Rav 4 driven by Brian Bennett, 37, of Tilton crossed the solid double-yellow line colliding with a compact car then head-on with a heavy-duty Ford F-350 pickup.

The passenger in the Rav 4, Michael Lima, 47, of Meredith died at the scene; while Bennett died later at Lakes Region

Two Antrim fireworks mishaps

The Antrim Fire Department responded to two fireworks-related mishaps on July 4, with an injury and a brush fire occurring within the span of 13 minutes. A 79-year-old summer resident from White Birch Point Road suffered a laceration, minor burns, and "controlled bleeding," after a firework tipped over before it discharged. The brush fire at a Gregg Lake Road residence was by a firework that went in the wrong direction and ended up behind a residence.

Hospital.

Belmont Fire Chief Ken Erickson said that a dog in the vehicle was taken to an after-hours emergency veterinary clinic in Meredith, but it also died. The driver's side of a Hyundai Veloster driven by Timothy Lanza of Manchester was uninjured, while Laura Beebe of Belmont, the driver of the F-350, sustained multiple injuries and was taken by ambulance to Concord Hospital, where she underwent surgery. A passenger in the truck, Erin Malloy, also of Belmont, was uninjured.

Two men were killed in this Belmont accident.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

BY SARAH CHAPIN

Ketamine was significantly more effective than a commonly used sedative in reducing suicidal thoughts in depressed patients, according to researchers at Columbia University Medical Center (CUMC). They also found that ketamine's anti-suicidal effects occurred within hours after its administration. The findings were published online recently in the American Journal of Psychiatry.

According to a report in The Lancet Gastroenterology & Hepatology, combining a 16-week initial course of the medication omalizumab with oral immunotherapy (OIT) greatly improves the efficacy of OIT for children with allergies to multiple foods, new clinical trial findings show. Omalizumab is an injectable antibody drug approved to treat moderate to severe allergic asthma.

High school seniors appear to be underreporting their nonmedical use of amphetamine, despite reporting using Adderall without a doctor's orders, finds a study published in the journal Drug and Alcohol Dependence. Amphetamine is the most prevalent stimulant in the United States, commonly prescribed for attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD). Adderall, a combination of amphetamine salts, has been linked to enhanced cognitive function and academic performance, which, in part, has led to its "nonmedical" use — where it is taken on one's own without a doctor's supervision — among high school and college students. Nonmedical use of amphetamine warrants concern due to its high potential for abuse and dependency, as well as potential adverse effects, including cardiovascular events and seizures. In addition, people who take prescription stimulants without a doctor's orders are more likely to engage in other drug use and risky behaviors.

Boscawen teen seriously injured in crash

Corbin Raymond, 16, of Boscawen remains in critical condition at a Boston hospital Monday after a car accident on the Fourth of July. He suffered severe head trauma and bleeding in his abdomen on Wednesday when a car he rode in as a passenger crashed.

Bow's K-9 Roxy locates suspected car thief hiding in the woods

K-9 Roxy, the Bow's Police canine officer played a key role in the arrest of a suspect who was driving a stolen vehicle Tuesday. Travis Allard, 39, of Manchester, was arrested and faced two counts of receiving stolen property along with a violation for driving a car after suspension or revocation of his license.

During the day Tuesday, officer Phil Goodacre noticed a man acting suspiciously walking around parked vehicles in the park n' ride lot at the junction of Interstate 93 and Route 3A.

When Goodacre made contact with the man, later identified as Allard, he fled into the woods.

Allard had been driving a vehicle that was reported stolen out of Bedford, police officials said.

Master patrol officer Matt Pratte and Roxy responded to the scene and a short time later they found Allard hiding in the woods.

Allard was to be arraigned on the charges by the end of this week. New Hampshire state police troopers assisted Bow officers with the arrest, officials said.

8 towns respond to Boscawen fire

Firefighters from eight towns battled flames 50 feet in the air at Crete Industrial Pallets in Boscawen. No one was hurt. Capt. Mike Fisher of the Boscawen Fire Department said the cause might have been from an equipment problem, or the deliberate burning of scrap pallets the day before.

For length, number and variety of entries, and creativity, nobody does a Hometown Parade as well as New Boston.

New London man faces federal "insider trading" charges by SEC

Robert O. Carr, of New London has been accused of insider trading by instructing his girlfriend to buy $900,000 of his company's stock, and providing her both with the cash and secret inside information about an impending company sale.

Authorities are seeking to recover more than $250,000 in stock profits that the former CEO of Heartland Payments Systems Inc., a New Jersey-based payment processing company, and his girlfriend made from buying shares of the company.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has charged Carr and his girlfriend, Katherine M. Hanratty, 65, of Watertown, CT, "in an insider trading scheme." The SEC outlined a series of emails where Carr kept Hanratty updated on talks to sell the company to Georgia-based Global Payments Inc. for about $4.3 billion. Carr, reportedly gave his girlfriend a check for $1 million and told her to open a brokerage account and purchase $900,000 worth of Heartland stock. She completed the purchases weeks before news of the company's sale became public in December 2015.

"I am following your advice to the letter and keeping the amount you suggested in a saving (sic) account for now," Hanratty emailed Carr on November 17, according to the SEC complaint.

A Challenge To The Chamber Executive Committee

Over the past several months, I have been a frequent and harsh critic of the leadership of the Greater Hillsborough Chamber of Commerce. It comes as no surprise then, that they are upset with me.

Joyce and I have offered to meet with their entire board for a frank but cordial discussion of 1. Their assertion that The Messenger does not support the Town of Hillsborough; 2. Their belief that our criticism is unjustified; and 3. A few suggestions of how the Chamber could improve. We have been repeatedly turned away.

Rather than point out any errors in my reporting, they have resorted to personal attacks on my character and journalistic ethics. Lately Executive Director Ginks Leiby has started a whispering campaign, dreading my election as Lions President and telling people I have no journalistic ethics. That's OK, I am a big boy and "sticks & stones" etc. I would even publish those attacks here if they would be made publicly instead of behind my back.

I should point out that, during all my critiques, the Chamber has never denied any of my claims, and never asked for a retraction. None the less, I will issue my own challenge to the Executive Committee:

I recently wrote that the Chamber has two paid employees, apparently they only have one. Other than that error, I offer this space to the Committee to show that any critique I have made over the last few weeks is wrong. If you do, I will immediately print a public retraction and apology. If you can't and my critiques are valid, you should resign.

Teach Your Children Well

Tuesday night Joyce and I attended a fantastic concert at the Henniker bandstand. As the adults sat listening to the music a group of about 12-15 children, boys and girls together, played in an adjacent field. Some played a form of whiffle ball, some a version of soccer/kickball, while others simply ran and jumped entertaining themselves.

As I watched, I realized that these kids had no concept of racism, hate or prejudice. They were born without and have not yet learned the stereotypes that label and divide us. Unfortunately, as they grow up, most do learn those concepts, and what is worse, they learn them from us. Kids are like sponges, absorbing everything, good and bad, by observing and emulating.

I am reminded of the Crosby Stills song, "Teach Your Children Well." The lyrics tell us to "Feed them on your dreams." They "must have a code to live by," and "Can't know the fears our elders live by." Those children carry the future of the world in their hearts and hands. America, Teach your children well.

Letters to the Editor

David Roarick,
Chief Hillsborough Police
Dear David:

In light of the environment in today's world regarding police officers, I wanted to take a minute to compliment you on the services of Officer Bennett. I was volunteering at a church function when Officer Bennett was called, when a young boy in the process of playing and probably horsing around ended up striking a parked vehicle with a board. The owner of the vehicle called the police, probably to get the incident on record. Officer Bennett responded and, in the process, determined that the boy's mother had an outstanding warrant against her. She was responsible for four children in the church setting. The potential for her having been required to report to the Police Department to post bail was going to be very stressful for everyone.

Officer Bennett exhibited both courtesy, kindness, and compassion as he dealt with the situation. I think he quickly realized there was not any danger and acted to accommodate the needs of both the mother and the children. He was able, with the advice of his supervisor, to provide responsible alternatives so that the situation could be resolved without harm to the mother or undue stress on the small children. I was simply an observer of this situation but was extremely pleased and proud of the way that the Hillsborough Police Department, through Officer Bennett, handled the situation. It certainly makes me pleased to be part of a community like Hillsborough where its officers can respond in such a caring and yet effective way. I am sending a copy of this letter to the local newspapers in case they feel inclined to publish these comments.

Sincerely yours,
Douglas S. Hatfield, Hillsborough

Franklin Budget-preserves the tax cap exceeds school district funding request

By Tony Giunta, Mayor-City of Franklin

Once again, the Franklin City Council has structured a 2018-2019 budget that provides more funding to the School District than was requested while maintaining the City's Tax Cap. It took a lot of work, but in the end the proposed budget going to public hearing on July 18th is legal, meets the needs of all city government, and most importantly remains affordable for Franklin taxpayers.

The road getting to a legal budget was not smooth. With a goal of finding an additional $412,000 for schools, the City Council on June 28 voted to break the tax cap by exempting debt service payments- thus allowing an additional $700,000 to be raised by taxes and dedicated solely to the school district. The vote was highly controversial as it was predicated on an amendment that essentially would reverse this year's council action and remove the additional $700,000 from next year's tax cap calculation.

When the June 28th budget was presented to the City of Franklin's legal counsel, it was determined both the amendment resetting next year's revenue calculation to this year's level and the debt service exempted to raise the $700,000 additional dollars were both outside the legal limits of the City Charter. The city's attorney recommended the entire motion be reconsidered and we essentially start over with a new budget proposal.

As is always the ending to a good story, at our July 2nd City Council meeting the City Council heeded the advice of counsel, reconsidered their earlier motion and resolved the legal issues with the original budget proposal. In the end, the Council delivered $422,000 dollars to the school district beating their requested amount by $10,000. Most importantly, the school district's needs were met without breaking the City's "citizen mandated" Tax Cap.

It was a long budget season and a lot of late evenings, but in the end the City Council delivered what every taxpayer in Franklin deserves, a highly scrutinized efficient expenditure of hard-earned taxpayer dollars.

Why you should use a travel agent:

We had a lively debate recently on the merits of whether to use a live travel agent to book your vacation or to go it alone by using the Internet. Here are some of the reasons to consider a personal travel consultant.

1. You've Googled "Mexico vacation," and come up with 17.8 million responses. Need a little help editing those choices?
2. Remember when you used that obscure website to book your hotel, and when you got there you spent your beach vacation over-looking a parking lot?
3. How many hours were you on hold with the airline when your flight was canceled because of a snowstorm?
4. Did you really mean to spend your honeymoon at that resort whose one tiny pool was filled all day with 12 screaming children?
5. Who knew that when you booked that "villa" in Tuscany, it would be a small room with a kitchenette and no air conditioning? Funny, it looked much better on your computer screen.
6. No one explained to you that in July, it's winter time in Rio, and so you showed up there with nothing but five Hawaiian shirts and three pairs of swimming trunks.
7. How about the time you really needed a restful vacation, and you ended up in New Orleans during Mardi Gras and someone threw up on your shoes?
8. Yes, I guess that hotel must have used a telephoto lens when they took a picture of those guest rooms that you saw on their website.
9. I suppose contacting the Attorney General to resolve the fact that that Internet site has billed your credit card three times instead of once is the only route to take at this point.
10. It was definitely odd that there were no cab drivers at the airport at 3 o'clock in the morning when you finally landed in Costa Rica, but booking a transfer to your very remote hotel would have been a good thing to remember when you purchased your airline ticket and hotel online.

Tuesday fire shuts down production at Goffstown company

A fire at Absolute Data Destruction in Goffstown shut down operations for the day on Tuesday and sent one employee to the hospital for evaluation. According to Fire Chief Richard O'Brien, the employees were in the process of evacuating the building when the fire department arrived to secure the scene.

The blaze originated from one of the compacting machines that the company uses to compress and bail shredded paper materials. To extinguish the flames that were inside the compactor, firefighters needed to remove the compacting unit from the rest of the machinery. There were no injuries, but one employee was overcome by smoke inhalation and was transported to Catholic Medical Center for evaluation.

O'Brien said that the cause of the fire is undetermined, but stated his suspicion that overheated machinery may have ignited some of the shredded paper, and that the damage appeared contained and the facility should be back up and running within the next day or two.
