Ali's Goffstown Allies

Entire school supporting classmate's recovery

Ali Haque, 14, of Goffstown has been fighting leukemia for years. Last Friday, Goffstown High School gave him a joyful sendoff as he went in for his final round of chemotherapy. Classmates lined the halls to cheer on Ali as he left for his last chemotherapy treatment.

Ali was 11 when he was diagnosed with leukemia, starting a string of doctor visits and medical procedures.

His mother said the family has held on to each other and to the community that has helped them through this. Ali has had three firefighter sports buddies through the Children's Hospital at Dartmouth, and Friday, he got a limo ride and a police escort to the hospital.

Hillsborough and Jaffrey men sustain injuries in Hancock accident

On September 26th, the Hancock Police responded to a two-car collision on Concord Road south of the Forest Road intersection. Initial investigation shows that a construction work zone had been established in the area. A red 2003 Ford F-150, operated by Dennis Campbell, 63, of Jaffrey was southbound on Route 202 in the work zone.

He passed through the Forest Road intersection when he encountered a marked flagger attempting to stop traffic. Witness reports indicate that Campbell applied his brakes heavily attempting to stop at the last minute but went by the flagger. A 2004 Dodge Ram, operated by Thomas Houghton, 21, of Hillsborough traveling behind Campbell in the same direction, was unable to stop, striking the rear of Campbell's vehicle before coming to a stop. Campbell's vehicle continued southbound for several hundred feet before leaving the right side of the road striking a tree head on. Campbell's vehicle sustained extensive damage to the front and rear. Houghton's vehicle sustained substantial damage to the front end.

An emergency life flight helicopter was requested as officers arrived on scene. A landing zone was set up at the Hancock Elementary School but was later diverted to Monadnock Community Hospital in Peterborough. Campbell was transported to MCH by the Peterborough Ambulance with serious, life threatening injuries where he was subsequently flown by helicopter to UMASS in Worcester. Campbell is listed in critical condition.

Houghton sustained minor injuries, was checked out and signed off with EMS personnel. The flagger sustained minor injuries from flying debris and was transported to Monadnock Hospital to be treated.

The Hancock Police were assisted at the scene by Hancock Fire/Rescue, Peterborough Ambulance, and the Greenfield Police. Route 202 was closed for an hour and a half. The NH Department of Transportation and PIKE Construction provided traffic control. The crash remains under investigation. Anyone with information, or anyone who may have witnessed the crash, is encouraged to contact the Hancock Police at 525-4102.

As we go to press, Campbell remains in intensive care.

Testerman defeats incumbent Zink by a single vote

In the only contested race on the Franklin ballot Tuesday night, Karen Testerman won the Ward 2 city council seat over incumbent Olivia Zink by just a single vote. The contest came on the heels of the city's attempts to close another $1 million gap in the school district's budget. Ultimately, Testerman, a radio host and retired educator, had the open support of Mayor Tony Giunta, a staunch supporter of the city's tax cap. In an election which drew only 14% of registered voters in Ward 2, Testerman said she believed her 99-98 victory's a result of her support for the tax cap.

Zink, advocated for Franklin to join in a lawsuit against the state over the way it funds schools, especially property poor cities and towns like Franklin. Testerman, on the other hand, believes a lawsuit would just spend more money that the city doesn't have and that they should focus on more immediate options. Testerman has advocated consolidating the city and school's finance departments which the school board has resisted. A recount is set for October 10th.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

BY SARAH CHAPIN

A new study in JAMA Cardiology shows that the drug fenofibrate might reduce the risk of cardiovascular events in patients with type 2 diabetes who have high levels of triglycerides and low levels of "good" cholesterol, despite being treated with statins. Fenofibrate is primarily used to help reduce elevated levels of triglycerides, or fat, in the blood. But the researchers wanted to know if the drug, when combined with statin treatment, could also reduce the risk of heart disease in people with type 2 diabetes. People with type 2 diabetes are at high risk of cardiovascular-related events, such as heart attacks, stroke, and even death, often because their levels of triglycerides are so high, and their high-density lipoprotein (HDL) cholesterol levels are low.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved Ocrevus (ocrelizumab) to treat adult patients with relapsing forms of multiple sclerosis (MS) and primary progressive multiple sclerosis (PPMS). This is the first drug approved by the FDA for PPMS. MS is a chronic, inflammatory, autoimmune disease of the central nervous system that disrupts communication between the brain and other parts of the body. It is among the most common causes of neurological disability in young adults and occurs more frequently in women than men. For most people with MS, episodes of worsening function (relapses) are initially followed by recovery periods (remissions). Over time, recovery may be incomplete, leading to progressive decline in function and increased disability. Most people experience their first symptoms of MS between the ages of 20 and 40. PPMS is characterized by steadily worsening function from the onset of symptoms, often without early relapses or remissions. The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that approximately 15 percent of patients with MS have PPMS.

Hillsborough begins plans for $650,000 West Main Street sidewalks

In 2017 the Town voted in favor of accepting a $520,000 grant which covers 80% of the $650,000 cost to build a sidewalk along West Main Street to connect the existing sidewalks from the westerly limits of the downtown area to approximately 600 feet east of Bible Hill Road. It will be constructed at the end of the downtown central business district to the area of Shaws Market.

The sidewalk is currently in the engineering phase of the project and as part of that phase, Scott Bourcier, an engineer with DuBois & King hosted a "Local Concerns Meeting" to solicit public input on the feasibility of extending the sidewalks along this area.

Bourcier stressed that nothing has yet been decided, whether it will be on the north or south side of the road, or if it will be raised and curbed or street level. He said the project would start on October 1st, to be completed by February of 2019. It would be sent out for bid in February 2020 with construction to begin in May 2020.

He expects to hold another public meeting in January to present the findings.

SUV hits utility pole in Antrim

An SUV driven by Laura Schwertz, 43, of Rindge swerved off Main Street/Route 202 and crashed into a pole last Friday afternoon which kept Antrim's Main Street closed until Saturday morning. An officer responded when a 911 caller reported an erratic driver. Schwertz had crashed into a utility pole in front of Trends of Fashion hair salon. Schwertz was conscious and alert and was taken to Monadnock Community Hospital with minor injuries. Authorities say whether she was driving erratically and what caused the crash are under investigation.

Scott Bourcier of DuBois & King explains the process.

Goffstown Scout wants to construct a bench along the Rail Trail

Eagle Scout Candidate Mark LaJeunesse, of Goffstown, a member of Troop 123 in New Boston, gave the Goffstown Selectmen a presentation of his proposed project. He would like to build a park bench along the rail trail near the rail trail parking lot by the villa ball fields. He and other friends have met there to go for a ride and he found it would be nice to have a bench at this location. He has proposed a pressure treated base with composite seat and back rest. Extra support will be added on seat and back rest. He will install a granite base for the bench to rest on and anchor the bench to the granite base. He explained his plan for fundraising and gave a rough time line for the project.

The Parks & Recreation committee has voted to accept the proposal and recommend the project to go to the Selectmen for approval after a few questions, the Board unanimously voted to approve the Eagle Scout Project, with acceptance of the bench upon completion at a future meeting.

Two Bennington men indicted

Two Bennington men were recently indicted in the Hillsborough Superior Court. Brett Flagg, 29, of Bennington, was indicted on charges of first degree assault, second degree assault, and conduct after an accident. He was arrested for hitting a man with a vehicle he was driving in Bennington on June 13th, breaking the man's leg. Flagg then failed to provide information to the injured person or to the police. Max Gershfeld, 27, of Bennington, was indicted on two counts of burglary and a count of robbery after allegedly robbing a Bennington home on June 27. Police say Gershfeld used physical force by taking the homeowner's purse according to court records.

Publisher's Perspective by Leigh Bosse

One person can make a difference

Mahatma Gandhi freed the Indian people from British rule. Martin Luther King led the 60's Civil Rights movement that awakened America's conscience. Susan B. Anthony championed women's equality. The dedication and perseverance of these individuals transformed America.

You don't have to go to these lengths to make a difference: Glenn Winters, Don Decowski and Mike Stellato took it upon themselves to form the Peanuts Instructional Soccer League and boys and girls 5,6 and 7 years old now have an organized activity. Ken Matthews did more than complain about the conditions in Central Square. He took it upon himself to paint the vacant old post office building, greatly improving its appearance.

Jessica Audette single handedly started a program to provide free backpacks and school supplies to needy children. This year over 120 backpacks were donated.

Their efforts may not be the equal of those of Gandhi, King and Anthony, but their contributions have made Hillsborough a better place to live, work and raise a family.

What have you done?

Letters to the Editor

To the publisher:

Your "Publisher's Perspective" of 21 September 2018 begs to be commented on for all the errors in it. Items 1 through 5 are very misleading. Yes, it was Republicans who eliminated slavery, allowed blacks to vote, gave citizenship to the former slaves. And yes, a Republican President sent troops to ensure schools were desegregated. But those Republicans were liberals.

Conservatives hold to traditional attitudes and values and are cautious about change or innovation, typically in relation to politics or religion. Does it sound like conservatives wanted the radical change of ending slavery, allowing those former slaves citizenship and the right to vote? Was it a conservative idea to end segregation?

What had changed by 1989 that allowed for the then conservative Republicans to choose Colin Powell for those three different positions in item 6? Think about it.

Item 7 only shows that as long as the candidate spouts strong support for "President" Trump and his policies they will receive the nod from the current conservative Republican Party, even if they are not NH born and raised. Preventing people of a particular religion from entering this country is racism despite saying the action is "for national security." Calling people from south of our border murderers and rapists is prejudicial or racist.

Illegal immigrants are denied food stamps and right to vote. Saying they are not is flat wrong.

Finally, the weak response to Charlottesville by "President" Trump says a lot about his attitude and that of his far-right racists supporters.

Michael C. Lane North Conway

Letter to the Editor

I'm writing this letter to explain why I support Kathy Rago for NH House of Representatives Merrimack 3, Northfield and Franklin Ward 3 and why I feel she has earned our vote. I have known Kathy for around 10 years now and in that time I can honestly say that she has never failed to impress me with her commitment to our community and the welfare of the constituents. For years I have watched Kathy fight to get every NH child the best education possible whether they have special needs or are from a low income home.

In this area I have really seen her shine. I know that all NH children should have Kathy Rago fighting for them to get the best education possible so they have the best future possible.

While we were at a social event where I was introducing Kathy to people who I knew well and she did not, we saw someone approaching who I knew Kathy had different views than, so I briefly told her this persons take on some of the current issues and was so happy to hear Kathy respectfully answering that persons questions, and yet did not change her response just to get a vote. That is just who she is, honest and consistent. That was impressive to me.

As a conservative candidate I really applaud the idea that it all boils down to living within our means, that the money comes from tax payers and she takes very seriously that the money should be spent as wisely as it is hard earned. She works hard with our money and I can hear Donna Summers singing in the background. Sorry just had to say that.

Please join me on November 6th in voting for Kathy Rago and the no-nonsense approach that she is known for.

Debbie Auger, Franklin

To Voters in District 3:

I urge all Hillsborough District 3 voters to vote for Tim Lord in the upcoming New Hampshire House of Representatives general election on November 6.

I worked with Tim as a board member when he was president of the Hancock Historical Society. I found Tim to be professional, diligent and very capable in how he guided our society through a large and complicated revitalization project.

Tim is not only a long-time resident of Hancock, he has deep family roots in Greenfield and Bennington. He is steeped in the history and traditions of our area. Tim will represent all persons, not just a small group looking to overturn our traditions and values as his opponent seeks to do. The most important characteristic I found in Tim is that he is easy to approach, talk openly with, and he will listen to your views without prejudice. He is exactly the kind of person who will represent all citizens of our district with honor and care.

Vote for Tim Lord on November 6!

Rich LeFebvre, Hancock

To the Editor:

An election is coming November 6, 2018 including executive council. This is a very important position as it was executive councilor David Wheeler that got the broken sidewalk on the Bridge Street bridge fixed. After getting sent to NHDOT in Hillsborough, Swanzy, and Concord and nothing got done I talked with executive councilor David Wheeler's secretary about how serious the problem was and that I had been getting the run around for over a month. We had a big event that week increasing the risk of someone getting hurt. I had found out one of the jobs of the executive council was to get things fixed and David Wheeler was known for getting things done. That was Monday, Tuesday there was a crew working on the bridge sidewalk problem. Wednesday it was fixed. The festival started Thursday. Thank you David Wheeler and you need to get out and vote for him on Nov 6, 2018 if you want to keep a good man that fixes things instead of talking a lot and doing nothing like most of the politicians.

Lauren Zervos of JSRHS during "Clay Olympics" while studying at Snow Farm. On this last day of studios during the two-week intensive summer program, students at Snow Farm tried many art activities you wouldn't normally do, like throwing pottery with your feet.

Stark student studies at Snow Farm

SRHS junior Lauren Zervos attended Snow Farm: The New England Craft Program in Williamsburg, MA, for two weeks in July to study ceramics and metalsmithing. Snow Farm is one of only nine craft schools in the United States with comprehensive offerings and intensive, immersive instruction for high school students. During her two weeks at Snow Farm, Ms. Zervos studied along with other high schoolers and professional artists to create artworks in various mediums including salt-fired ceramics, glass blowing, and metal smithing. "It changed the way I look at the world," said Ms. Zervos of the experience. "The friends I made and the people I met at Snow Farm left such an amazing impact on my life in a short amount of time." Some of the artwork Lauren created while at Snow Farm will appear in the exhibit "Artist Teachers and the Next Generation of Creative Makers" at Colby Sawyer College from October 12-November 16. The public is invited to attend the opening reception for the exhibit from 4-6 PM on Friday, October 12 at the Mugar Art Gallery in the Sawyer Center in New London, NH.

Second settlement with former Weare cop

The town of Weare has settled a second lawsuit filed by Joseph Kelley, the former police sergeant who has already received a $260,000 settlement over his 2013 termination. The settlement was reached on Thursday, a day after Superior Court Judge Gillian Abramson said Kelley couldn't ask a jury for enhanced compensatory damages. Abramson issued a final ruling, and then ordered that it be sealed.

Steve Geddes of Boscawen now holds the record for growing the heaviest pumpkin in North American history. The record-breaking gourd checked in at 2,528 pounds Thursday night at the Deerfield Fair. It is the second heaviest pumpkin ever grown in the world, at only 96 pounds less than the record holder produced in Belgium in 2012.

New London Board asks public feedback

Will Gatchell of Harriman associates returned to the New London Select Board for the third time with additional options on the renovation/reconstruction of the Buker addition to Whipple Hall that went from renovating the existing facilities, to putting additions on the existing facilities to demolishing the existing facilities and building a new PD and Dispatching behind Whipple. The Selectmen didn't select an option that they will support, instead, they will hold a meeting on Monday the 8th to get feedback from the public. The presentation is on the town website, www.nl-nh.com.

Guilty plea in Hillsboro woman's death

George Junkala, 85, of Keene, was sentenced to jail Monday for killing a Hillsboro woman in a car crash, but if he doesn't violate certain conditions, he might not ever have to go to jail. Junkala pleaded guilty to a charge of negligent homicide in connection with the death of Diane Chouinard in 2017 in a car crash in Hillsboro. The crash happened as Junkala was driving off Route 9 and making a left turn onto Henniker Street. First responders required the Jaws of Life to extract Mrs. Chouinard from the motor vehicle, and she subsequently died from blunt force trauma from the injuries. Chouinard's family was present for the sentencing, and victim advocate Merrill Beauchamp read their statement. Junkala is not allowed to have a driver's license and was ordered to not drive a car or operate a boat. If he violates the conditions of his sentence, he would have to serve one year in jail.

Dunbarton man facing 19 sexual assaults

He was already facing several sex assault charges, and was recently indicted on three new counts of felonious sexual assault alleging repeated sexual abuse of a teenage boy for a three-month period in 2016. Mann also faces three additional misdemeanor sexual assault charges. Mann is now facing 19 felony sex assault charges in all.

Goffstown Selectmen approve tax incentive for Viksters building

The Goffstown Selectmen conducted a Public Hearing to accept public input regarding a RSA 79-E Community Revitalization Tax Relief application submitted for $155,500 in exterior and interior renovations to the 7300 s.f. building, built in 1900 which is home to Viksters restaurant and 8 apartment units.

The project meets the minimum criteria for 79-E tax incentive, as the improvements would constitute greater than 15% of the current property value.

The building is not on the National Register of Historic Places, but the village area falls in the Goffstown Historic District. The Historic District Commission voted to support the application at their last meeting. This project is eligible for 5 years of tax incentive because it does not increase the number of housing units or involve affordable housing. The applicant has not indicated an interest in renovations meeting the historic standards of the U.S. Secretary of Interior.

Awarding a 79-E incentive would hold the current assessment at $406,200. At a tax rate (non-SAU impacted) of $27.42, the resulting tax incentive would be $4,264 for up to 5 years. At the close of the hearing, the Board approved the application.

Incoming NEC freshmen required to be vaccinated for meningitis

New England College has joined the ranks of just 13 other colleges and universities in the country that have made it mandatory that all incoming students be vaccinated for meningitis B. While early symptoms like fever and body aches can mirror the flu, meningococcal disease progresses quickly and can result in serious complications or death if left untreated.

According to the Centers for Disease Control, approximately 2,600 people in the United States contract meningococcal disease each year and 10 to 15 percent will die of it.

The vaccine for strains A, C, W, and Y has been available for some time, but the meningitis B vaccine was only introduced in 2014. NEC made the decision to require the vaccination this past summer at the request of Laura Anderson, the college's medical director and nurse practitioner.

"I wanted to make sure our students were protected, so this year I made the decision to have it as a required vaccine for the freshmen," said Anderson. Anderson said that life in college residence halls further increases the risk of spreading the disease.

"It's spread by common things that typical college kids do: kissing, sharing their food, sharing their water bottles and that kind of thing," Anderson said. "A lot of them are in close quarters environments in residence halls, so coughing and sneezing increases the risk of transmission."

While upperclassmen are not required to be vaccinated, Anderson says she mentions the vaccine whenever she has a chance to speak to them. I wanted to make sure our students were protected, so this year I made the decision to have it as a required vaccine for the freshmen," she said.

Wednesday evening, the Antrim-Bennington Lions Club hosted a forum for area candidates for State Representative. (L-R) James Fedolfi (R) Tom Lord (R) Richard McNamara (D), Dan Pickering (D) and Marjorie Porter (D).
