Cherry Palmisano is leaving

Long-time Executive Secretary and recent Interim Town Administrator Cherry Palmisano has given her notice and is leaving the Henniker Town Office as of February 1st for other employment. She will be missed.

Kearsarge's Patrick Stewart

Kearsarge junior Patrick Stewart recently performed with the NHBDA/NHMEA Chamber Festival Men's Chorus at UNH. His exemplary score on bass voice (2nd highest score in the state) earned him this amazing opportunity. Patrick was one of only 11 singers performing in 4 part harmony. Congratulations to Patrick and his teachers for this once in a lifetime experience!

Site Superintendent Lance York updated the Antrim Selectmen on the Antrim Wind Project. The roads are done and there is just a little blasting left for the drill rigs. A letter of request was sent to the Selectmen to ask for flexibility of working on Sundays, and the Board agreed. The Selectmen asked for a time when they can do a site walk, which will be scheduled soon.

Later start times at ConVal

Additional $808,000 needed for 14-15 additional school buses

The ConVal Regional School Board has voted to have its middle and high school students start school an hour later next year, a change that requires voters to raise an additional $808,000 this March. The Board is sponsoring a warrant article to add 14 to 15 additional bus routes to the current 38, to create a single-tier bussing system, allowing all students to go to school at a similar time.

If approved, middle and high school start times would be an hour later. The shift would require more bus routes, so that elementary school and high school students do not ride on the same buses. The idea of delaying the start of the day for middle and high school students stems from a study that about 58% of middle school students and 73% of high school students are not getting enough sleep on the average school night. The study found that students who do not get enough sleep are at an increased risk for obesity, diabetes, injuries, poor mental health, and attention disorders.

New Boston couple indicted for child criminal restraint

Denise and Thomas Atkocaitis of New Boston have been indicted on charges of criminal restraint and falsifying evidence, after investigators claim the pair held their daughter captive in the basement of their home for more than two months.

The couple had reported their 15-year-old daughter was missing in September. New Boston Police believed the couple confined their child to a room smaller than 8-by-8 feet for a period over two months beginning in July. The room was not equipped with lighting, there was one window that was covered with a wire mesh.

Weare Selectmen reduce Operating Budget by $80,000 to $6,116,300

The Weare Selectmen continue to trim the Operating Budget. At the Finance Committee suggestions were made with regard to possible cuts to the proposed budget. The cuts ranged from a couple of specific items to a suggestion of over $200,000 to get it below the default.

One that was mentioned was the gravel in the DPW budget for gravel road maintenance. The Board felt that a placeholder of $1,000 should be left. DPW Director Knapp stated that he could support that as long as there is support in the road bond and road reconstruction article.

The glass crushing in the Transfer Station budget was discussed. The Board felt that meeting in the middle and keeping $7,500. could go a long way to crushing some glass. The part time Police records clerk was mentioned, particularly as it has not been filled for a couple of years. The Board supported taking $6,500 out but leaving the $91 to keep the line open. Selectman Osborne suggested taking a second look at the Police overtime line. The Board felt that being full staffed shortly, plus a part time officer that can fill in will be helpful.

After looking at what was spent in 2018 the Board agreed to reduce the overtime by $15,000 to $100,000. It was noted that currently we have 1 known case in front of us, which is vastly improved from prior years. After some discussion the Board agreed to reduce the legal by $10,000.

James Drury suggested that the Board look at training lines. Vice Chairman Meaney stated that a lack of training could be very costly if it's not done. The Board felt that was about all the cuts that could be made without sacrificing services.

The total reductions added up to $80,000. This makes the operating budget a total of $6,116,300, which represents a 1.4% increase over the 2018 approved budget (default budget).

Belmont couple arrested

Two Belmont residents were arrested on drug charges Sunday morning, in Hooksett. In the process of stopping a vehicle for equipment and lane change violations, Police determined the driver of the vehicle, Roderick Urquhart, 33, of Belmont, had an electronic bench warrant out of Laconia and he was placed under arrest.

While speaking with Megan Knox, 31, a passenger who also owned the vehicle, officers noticed a glass smoking pipe commonly associated with narcotic use "in plain view" where Knox was sitting, and subsequently found a bag of suspected methamphetamine. She was also placed under arrest.

CONTROLLING PERIODONTAL DISEASE FOR POSSIBLE CANCER PREVENTION

Dr. Esin Narli-Trangaris

Elevated pathogen colonization and a lack of bacterial diversity in the mouth were identified in people with precancerous lesions that could precede stomach cancer, according to a new study. The findings provide new evidence that the increase in pathogens associated with periodontal disease—a chronic, destructive disease in the gums and oral cavity—could contribute to the development of precancerous lesions of stomach cancer.

The study reinforces earlier findings that poor oral health is associated with an increased risk of precancerous lesions of stomach cancer.

The American Cancer Society estimated that 26,370 new cases of stomach or gastric cancer would be diagnosed in 2016, resulting in 10,703 deaths. Accumulating evidence suggests that chronic inflammation caused by oral bacterial infections may contribute to the development and progression of various types of cancer, including stomach cancer.

This study assesses the association between periodontal pathogen colonization and the potential risk of developing precancerous lesions—including chronic atrophic gastritis, intestinal metaplasia, and dysplasia—that may predict stomach cancer.

The researchers studied 105 individuals scheduled to receive an upper endoscopy. After the endoscopic procedure and histopathologic evaluation, 35 people were diagnosed with precancerous lesions of gastric cancer and another 70 people of the same ages without precancerous lesions were included in the study as a control group.

The researchers performed full-mouth examinations to assess participants' periodontal conditions. Saliva and dental plaque samples were collected to evaluate colonization by several of pathogens and to characterize oral microbial diversity.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

BY SARAH CHAPIN

During pregnancy, use of the antiepileptic drug valproic acid has been associated with worse outcomes — including fetal loss, impaired growth, major congenital malformations, increased risk of developmental problems, and autism — compared with all other antiepileptic drugs. A new Epilepsia study has found that when human placentas are exposed to valproic acid, they express lower levels of transporters for compounds essential for fetal growth and development (such as glucose and folic acid).

The commonly used painkiller diclofenac is associated with an increased risk of major cardiovascular events, such as heart attack and stroke, compared with no use, paracetamol use, and use of other traditional painkillers, finds a study published by The BMJ this week.

In a recent Alimentary Pharmacology & Therapeutics study, arthritis patients taking nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) for pain plus a stomach acid-reducing medicine called esomeprazole (Nexium) had infrequent gastrointestinal side effects. Co-prescribed with esomeprazole, celecoxib (Celebrex) had better overall gastrointestinal safety than ibuprofen (Advil) or naproxen (Aleve). NSAIDs are often used to treat pain and joint inflammation in people with arthritis, but they can cause damage to the intestinal tract including ulcers and bleeding from the stomach or intestine. Patients who also needed to take aspirin (for preventing heart attacks and strokes) had only slightly more gastrointestinal problems than those who took only the arthritis medications.

H-D freshmen trio captures DECA 1st place

After ten days of competing against other high schools in a global competition, a team of three students from Hillsboro-Deering High School have qualified for the DECA International Conference in April 2019 in the area of Sports & Entertainment Management. The Sports and Entertainment Management team, made up of freshmen Emily Ferguson, Kelsey Powell, and Irena Rose, finished in first place in the competitive North Atlantic region of DECA, and sixth overall internationally. They will compete in the finals against teams from Ontario, Texas, Virginia, Illinois, Michigan, California, and Arizona, as well as another H-D team that qualified in the fall. The finals, which will be held at the International CDC in Orlando, Florida in April, are made up of the remaining 16 teams in a live round-robin competition. “With qualifying rounds that are only 10 days – it is an incredibly intense and stressful level of competition. We had multiple teams in qualifying position during this round in each of the other events, but they came up just short in the end. I am very proud of the discipline and hard work that all second round teams showed,” said H-D DECA advisor Marc Payeur.

Franklin snowmobiler falls through the ice

A snowmobiler was rescued after he fell through the ice on Webster Lake in Franklin on Friday. Crews were called to the area off Webster Lake Road about 4 p.m. and when they arrived, the man was partially submerged in the water and balancing himself on his snowmobile. Rescuers deployed a flotation device and removed the man from the ice. He was treated at the scene. No other injuries were reported, but poor ice conditions made the rescue challenging.

2/3 vote needed on Belmont Fire Department

Belmont residents are being urged to vote in favor of a warrant article that continues the longstanding practice of funding replacement equipment and supplies for the fire department with revenue from the town's ambulance service. Town Administrator K. Jeanne Beaudin reported that the state Department of Revenue Administration ruled that a two-thirds majority vote is required for passage, while in previous years, the measure was approved by a simple majority vote.

Hopkinton School Board proposes $9,766,692 bond for renovations

At the recent Hopkinton School Board public hearing, two presentations were made, one of which could be put to the voters at the March meeting. Jay Burgess, Chair of the Facilities Steering Committee, presented the first option for $9,766,692 for the addition of 4 classrooms, office expansion/renovation at the Harold Martin School, HMHS Science Lab renovations, deferred maintenance, and basic safety and security improvements for all three schools. Although some security issues were already addressed with money from Homeland Security, there are more areas that need improvement.

The second option, presented by School Board member Jim O'Brien, was $2,000,000 less, with the difference coming from the area of building upgrades. He acknowledged that the other improvements are necessary, but this option would leave debt ceiling room and that a Capital Improvement Plan would give flexibility to the budget. The articles were presented separately to the public and after the hearing closed, the School Board deliberated as to which will be presented in March.

Jay Burgess, Chair of the Hopkinton School Facilities Committee presents the $9 million school renovation plan.

Superintendent Steve Chamberlin noted that they had been in contact with the Municipal Bond bank and it would be reasonable to borrow while interest rates are lower than the escalation costs of construction. It would also make sense to do it now, rather than kick the can down the road, but the actual borrowing could be staggered as the projects were started so the District wouldn't be paying interest in advance.

Also, the HMHS has been on "warning" status for many years and the renovations will show that the District is addressing those issues. At the School Board meeting the Board voted to send the first option to the budget committee for their approval and will be presented at the Budget Committee's public hearing on February 9.

NEC President Michelle Perkins observes the new esports program.

New England College opens esports arena

New England College has opened a new esports gaming arena, joining about 140 other schools that have done the same thing. "Esports is just now emerging as a competitive event at the collegiate level, and we plan to be actively engaged from the start in the emerging field," NEC President Michelle Perkins said. While it's not a varsity sport, and there's no school credit involved, the club will allow members to compete with similar clubs at other colleges. NEC already offers a major in video game design, and school officials said they hope this will draw even more students. Official tryouts for the esports team were held last Tuesday.

Dine like the “Snow Train” Skiers of the past in Warner

Warner Historical Society and School House Cafe are recreating the dinner provided to the hundreds of skiers who came by train from Boston on the “Snow Train.” Beginning in 1931 ski clubs from Massachusetts and Dartmouth came to ski on the hills of Warner.

By the late 1940s Boston area businesses were enticed to bring their workers to ski, skate, slide, and dance in Warner for their annual employee outings. The John Hancock Life Insurance Company alone brought over 1,400 employees north during the winter of 1955. Organizations, school and church groups all pitched in to host these large events.

Turkey shortcake dinners with biscuits, potatoes, squash, Warner River coffee, and apple pie were served at various locations around town. This same dinner will be served at the Warner Town Hall. After dinner, local historian Rebecca Courser will regale the diners with the history of the “Snow Train,” Warner’s ski slopes, the local businesses who got involved and of the people who pitched in to make the weekends successful, from kids to grandparents.

The dinner and talk are Saturday February 16, 6pm at the Warner Town Hall, 5 East Main Street. Snow date February 23. Tickets for dinner and talk are $15 and are available online, at the Main Street Office or at the door. Seating is limited to 150 so reserve your spot today.

When bringing your friends and family together to watch the game, you'll likely want to avoid any fumbles in the kitchen. Fret not and opt for a big batch of easy-to-make wings while incorporating these stress-free tips into your game plan to help ensure a resounding success:

Delegate responsibilities. The best gatherings are a team sport. Tackle this recipe for Crispy Baked Wings and let your friends help with snacks, dips and drinks.

Prep what you can the day before. The seasoning blend and sauces can be prepped up to two days in advance and chicken wings can be separated into drums and flats the day before.

Veggies are underrated. Stock up on vegetables that are easy to slice such as carrots and celery. Place some of the cut vegetables out with dips like blue cheese dressing or ranch.

Redefine "homemade." Add an ingredient like Tabasco Chipotle Sauce to store-bought barbecue sauce to impart a smoky flavor and lime juice for added brightness. Small changes can add that special, homemade quality without all the work. Recipes like Chipotle Barbecue Sauce or Nashville-Style Sauce can complement wings for true crowd-pleasers - pick your favorite or try both. Find more flavorful recipes and game day tips at Tabasco.com/wings.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Several inaccurate emails have been circulating for some time about the salaries of large charity CEOs, with a frequent uptick in activity during the holiday season. These emails contain inaccurate information about the compensation of the president and CEO of the American Red Cross, and in fact are wrong about the name of the Red Cross CEO. These viral emails include the name and photo of Marty J. Evans and mistakenly refer to her and her compensation as the current CEO, even though she left the Red Cross many years ago.

The president and CEO of the American Red Cross is Gail McGovern, and her base salary has remained $500,000—without any pay increase—since she joined the American Red Cross in 2008. This is considered well within the range for executives of large non-profits like the Red Cross, a $3.3 billion organization.

The American Red Cross meets all standards of the Better Business Bureau's Wise Giving Alliance. One of the BBB's standards for accountability is that a charity should spend at least 65 percent of total expenses on program activities. The American Red Cross vastly outperforms on this measure, spending an average of 91 percent of every dollar on humanitarian services.

The critique is still valid. For the CEO of a non-profit charity to be making $500,000 per year (25% more than the President of the United States) is ridiculous, and robs funds from the people who need the help and for whom the donations were given. LDB.

Hillsborough's Project Genesis made shagbark hickory syrup for the pancake dinner.

Franklin awarded $512,000 for trestle pedestrian bridge

The City of Franklin has been awarded $512,000 transportation alternatives program (TAP) funds by the NH Department of Transportation to construct a pedestrian walkway on its existing trestle view bridge to connect Mill City Park to the base of the Winnepesaukee River Trail.

"Anyone who has been through Franklin's downtown has seen this iconic trestle view bridge.

It stands large and proud over the Winnepesaukee River located at the entrance of the main downtown area," states Judie Milner, Franklin City Manager. "Undoubtedly, when completed this project will have an enormously positive financial impact to our great City and the entire region," says Mayor Tony Giunta.

If you are going to hit another car - not a police cruiser

A distracted driver crossed the center line and struck a Belmont Police Department cruiser on Friday causing $5,000 in damage but no injuries to any of the occupants, authorities reported.

"Luckily the officer saw what was coming and had just enough time to pull to the right quick enough to avoid a head-on crash. The driver who struck the police SUV told an officer from a neighboring department that he was distracted by a child in his vehicle, causing him to drift into the oncoming lane. The Northfield Police Department is officially investigating the incident to avoid the appearance of a conflict of interest.
