Antrim grad takes first

Leah Stone of Antrim, who graduated from ConVal this year, took first place in a national competition for future educators in Dallas from June 22-25. She bested 36 students from across the country in the job interview category, which required her to write a resume and cover letter using her real qualifications and then attend a mock interview. Stone qualified for the national competition after taking second place in the category at the state competition in March. Two other students from ConVal, rising seniors Tracie Dailey of Peterborough and Molly Reed of Bennington, also attended nationals to compete in the "pre-K children's literature" category in which they created their own children's book. Stone is set to attend Fitchburg State University in Fitchburg, MA, this fall. She plans to study elementary education, she said, and hopes to establish a collegiate chapter of Educators Rising at the school.

Sylvania to remain in Hillsborough

Company acquired by Bain Capital & Carlyle Group

Rumors, speculation and concerns which have been circulating for months were heightened Monday with the announcement that Bain Capital and The Carlyle Group, major venture capital companies, had finalized their takeover of OSRAM Sylvania. The Hillsborough plant has been the town's largest employer and the keystone to the area's economy since it first located here in 1956.

Recent financial results at Osram continued their downbeat trend. The world's second-largest lighting company reported that revenue fell 13.5% for the second quarter ending March 31, compared to the same period last year. The numbers were in line with a couple of financial warnings that Osram had issued this calendar year. The decline was due in part to the continuing weakness of the automotive, general lighting and mobile device markets. Those difficulties are generally continuing. And in a sign that things might not recover soon, the company advised that "the general economic slowdown is adversely affecting business devel-

Those factors have local residents concerned that a takeover by venture capitalists would result in a closure of plants and a sell off of assets or relocating production overseas.

In response to inquiries by The Messenger, the company issued the following statement. "In connection with the signed investor agreement, Bain and Carlyle will support the current growth path and, among other things, are making extensive commitments with regard to employees and locations. For example, the investors are committed to the current management plan and the existing strategy with its focus on optical semiconductors, the automotive sector and digital applications. Bain and Carlyle have given assurance that they will fully support the management team. Osram will continue to operate under the existing name after the takeover. Bain and Carlyle also confirm that existing labor agreements, collective bargaining agreements and similar agreements as well as existing pension plans will remain unchanged."

Until further notice, for anyone listing and selling their home through us OR buying a house (any house listed with any agency) using Red Coat Realty as their "buyer's agent," we will DONATE $250.00* in their name, to the Community Support Group of their choice, listed below.

Hillsboro parking meters and Class VI Fire Lanes stir debate

At Tuesday's Hillsborough Selectmen's meeting, discussion of putting in parking meters downtown drew quick comments and criticism by some local residents. As things now stand, most of the downtown parking is limited to two hours, but with little enforcement, some spaces are used close to 24/7. Deborah Gile, who manages the apartments in the Rumrill building, stated that her tenants would have a particularly hard time if they had to pay for parking, as their rent, although low by most standards, is all they can afford. They, along with other tenants downtown, use the Municipal lot next to the Bible Chapel as well as the lot across from the fire station on Central St. The Selectmen are trying to balance short term business parking with longer term parking for tenants and employees. No decision was made.

During the public hearing to allow the Town to designate Class VI roads as "Fire Lanes," people wanted to know if the town would become responsible for maintaining the roads permanently.

There are many Class VI roads in town, but not all would become "Fire Lanes", but the designation would allow the Town to bring a Class VI road up to a point where firefighting equipment would be able to use the road to get to a fire, particularly a forest fire where there are no other roads. The Board voted 3-0 to allow Class VI roads to be able to be designated as Fire Lanes.

Doug Lyon, former Chairman of the Ausbon Sergeant Land Preservation Trust, spoke in favor of the purchase, saying the land must be preserved.

New London's Mary Haddad Trust to acquire 30.4 acres

The New London Select Board and Conservation Commission held a public hearing Monday evening on the proposed purchase of a 30.4 acre tract of land at the corner of Shaker Street and Andover Road.

Commission Chair Bob Brown explained that the property has long been at the top of the Commission's "wish list" as it is contiguous with the 169 acre Low Plain Easement administered by the NH Fish & Game Department. The property is assessed at $268,000 but the owners have offered it for $225,000.

Selectwoman Janet Kidder reported that the purchase price would come from the Mary Haddad Trust, which currently has a balance of $600,000 and was established for this purpose.

The property is ideal for conservation and recreation with a mile long hiking trail. Several people favorably commented on the purchase and a show of hands indicated overwhelming support for the attendees. The Select Board, Conservation Commission and Recreation Commission have already voted to approve the purchase.

Washington residents without mail service

"Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds." So reads the unofficial credo of the United States Postal Service. Perhaps not, but a twisted ankle might. Several Washington, NH residents have complained of being without RFD service for several days. It appears that the regular rural carrier injured his ankle and is unable to deliver his route. Complicating the matter is the fact that his substitute is on vacation. Apparently, the alternate can not be asked to come in during the vacation as, when one resident inquired she was told, it might be another two weeks before service is restored. When another resident asked the Postmaster, she angrily replied, "I don't have anything to do with rural delivery."

Garbage truck rollover closes I-89 in Warner

Both lanes of I-89 southbound in Warner were closed Tuesday morning after a crash. Officials said a tractor-trailer carrying 60,000 pounds of garbage rolled over, blocking both lanes. New "Lawn, Garden & Pets" in Bradford

A Newbury couple plans to open a new retail store in Bradford this year. Matt and Jessica Mitchie have purchased the old Kearsarge Fitness Center on Route 103, with hopes of renovating it into the "5 Acres Lawn, Garden & Pets Center" in time for the Christmas season. Jess, who for 15 years managed her father's Agway store in Tilton, will manage this facility. They will offer a full line of lawn and garden supplies along with dog & cat food, crates, and leashes to cater to the pet market. The Mitchies have set November 30th as the target opening date, so they can also sell christmas trees and wreaths.

Plans unveiled for a multi-purpose Hillsborough Community Center

Resident Becky Johnson met with the Hillsborough Selectmen to present her proposal to provide a multi-purpose Community Center complete with an indoor pool. Her idea is to separate the various aspect of the center into modules and finance them with grants and donations that would be aimed at those particular items.

Johnson's plan calls for space for seniors, youth, families, and anyone who wants to use it. The proposed Center would feature an indoor pool, community garden, banquet hall, and a professional kitchen. She is exploring potential building sites and funding opportunities for each module such as grants, bequests, and donations (not taxpayer dollars!) with help from our local Greater Hillsborough Senior Services. Because the Center will be based on a modular plan, each area will have distinct funding sources.

Johnson's proposed modules of the Center include: a Community Garden, Banquet Facilities, Exercise Opportunities, Classroom & Meeting Space and a Professional Kitchen. Johnson says that she has developed a business plan, and has experience with grant writing. Those who would like to volunteer or be a member of the steering committee, can complete a survey and sign up on her website at www. hccnh.org.

Becky Johnson explained her Community Center proposal to the Hillsborough Select Board.

IS SPARKLING WATER BAD FOR MY TEETH?

Is the satisfying fizz of your favorite sparkling water putting you at risk for tooth decay? Because any drink with carbonation—including sparkling water—has a higher acid level, some reports have questioned whether sipping sparkling water will weaken your tooth enamel (the hard outer shell of your teeth where cavities first form).

Dr. Esin Narli-Trangaris

According to available research, sparkling water is generally fine for your teeth—and here's why: in a study using teeth that were removed as a part of treatment and donated for research, researchers tested to see whether sparkling water would attack tooth enamel more aggressively than regular lab water. The result? The two forms of water were about the same in their effects on tooth enamel. This finding suggests that, even though sparkling water is slightly more acidic than ordinary water, it's all just water to your teeth.

Eliminating sugary beverages from our diets would be best, but reducing the number of sugary beverages you consume and substituting healthier options with less sugar is already a step in the right direction. The following—water, unsweetened tea, milk, plain sparkling water, and diluted juice—are all better choices.

These drinks have little or no sugar. That means they won't give the bacteria in your mouth a chance to cause trouble and make acid that can damage your teeth. Water can also contain fluoride, which protects teeth against cavities. The calcium in milk also helps keep your teeth strong. If you or your children are allergic to cow's milk, try unsweetened milk substitute (such as almond, soy, rice) with added calcium.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

A large portion of patients taking prescription drugs that could affect driving may not be aware they could potentially be driving impaired, according to research in the November issue of the Journal of Studies on Alcohol and Drugs. Nearly 20 percent of people in the study reported recent use of a prescription medication with the potential for impairment, but not all said they were aware that the medication could affect their driving, despite the potential for receiving warnings from their doctor, their pharmacist, or the medication label itself. The percentages of those who said they had received a warning from one of those sources varied by type of medication: 86 percent for sedatives, 85 percent for narcotics, 58 percent for stimulants, and 63 percent for antidepressants. In this study, the type of medication in question was also related to drivers' perceptions about their impairment risk. They were most likely to think that sleep aids were the most likely to affect safe driving, followed by morphine/codeine, other amphetamines, and muscle relaxants. Attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) medications were viewed as least likely to affect driving risk.

Women may only need three cervical screens in their lifetime if they have been given the human papillomavirus (HPV) vaccine, according to a new study published in the International Journal of Cancer. The HPV vaccine protects women against the most dangerous forms of HPV, significantly reducing the chance of developing cervical cancer.

The U.S. Preventive Services Task Force has issued a new recommendation against the use of combined estrogen and progestin in postmenopausal women, or estrogen alone in postmenopausal women who have had a hysterectomy, to prevent chronic conditions such as heart disease, dementia and stroke.

I-93 traffic tied up by vehicle & trailer fire

Bow Fire Chief Tom Ferguson said his department received a call about 9:34 a.m. reporting a black pickup had burst into flames in the northbound lane near the Hooksett rest stop. Ferguson said the vehicle's occupants were uninjured, noting that the driver used the guardrail to slow the truck down and escaped before the fire consumed the truck. Firefighters contained the flames by 9:55 a.m. and managed to salvage the contents of the trailer. The vehicle is a total loss, Ferguson said, leaving investigators uncertain about the incident's exact cause.

Northfield video led to felony indictment

A grand jury has indicted a Northfield man who police say was caught on video burglarizing a home in his hometown this past spring. Bradford Board updated on Town Hall work

The Bradford Selectmen were given an update on progress on the Town Hall. The revised septic design is still pending submission. The granite is scheduled to be installed at the end of July. Trumbull Nelson will be back on site at the end of July to continue the "button up" work. A quote was received, totaling $36,000, which included $24,000 for painting and $12,000 to paint the windows. The Board will ask Jay Barrett to review the quotes and provide an updated Site Plan. The Board also discussed standardizing the structure and content of the website as well as local committee communications. Marlene Freyler expressed some concern with Live Streaming all meetings, which was proposed, as there are some detailed working sessions that may not necessarily be easily understood if only watching a single session. A list of committees that should be Live Streamed for review will be developed.

Franklin man arrested on multiple charges after 8-hour standoff

Owen Parenteau, 38, of Franklin is facing multiple charges after an hourslong standoff that forced the evacuation of some nearby homes.

Authorities say it started with a 911 call about 8 p.m. Thursday. Police encountered a female who was bleeding. She had stated that the male subject had been inside the residence. We tried to negotiate with him at that time. "That failed," said Franklin Police Sgt. Joseph Guerriero.

Authorities set up a perimeter around the house, and the state police SWAT team was called in. Several area homes were evacuated, and after about seven hours, gas canisters were shot into the home and Parenteau surrendered peacefully.

Different Schools - Similar Problems

In June of 2018, Franklin, NH Mayor Tony Giunta established a Mayoral Study Committee to look at Restructuring Education for the 21st Century for the students in

The goal of the committee was to listen to the public and provide recommendations on how technology, city/school partnering, regional opportunities and other solutions could be utilized to maximize educational dollars and improve the educational experience of the city's students. The following is a list of some of their problems and recommendations for improvement. Please note how similar they are to reports recently released about Hillsboro-Deering Elementary School.

"Franklin lost a lot of teachers in 2018 and not all to the budget process. School leadership decisions to release teachers versus looking at other opportunities obviously impact the stability of educational programs year to year. There was concern among teachers that the potential for being cut could deter teachers from applying for open Franklin teaching positions. There was also a concern about complacency in the system - if nothing changes, the results from year to year will be the same.

Teachers felt that there was a practice of not dismissing underperforming teachers, rather they were moved to less visible

Teachers also expressed an uneasiness about voicing their concerns to leadership but it was unclear if this was due to fear of retribution or a sense that nothing would

Many believe that if you throw money at a problem it will get better but in fact that is not what we heard from the teachers. Management Support and mentorship seemed to be more important issues because of their positive impact on teacher development.

Teachers felt a lack of support from administration to ensure that the students in the lower grades were ready to move on."

A New Low For New Hampshire Democrats

The Executive Council has rejected the nomination of the state's attorney general to serve as Chief Justice of the New Hampshire Supreme Court. Gordon MacDonald, who was nominated last month by Gov. Chris Sununu, R-NH, was rejected by a 3-2 vote, along party lines, despite bipartisan support from the legal community of his nomination. The rejection came primarily due to MacDonald's previously being active with the Republican Party and supporting pro-life political positions in the past.

MacDonald was grilled last week during his nomination hearing about his prior political activity and resume including working for U.S. Sen. Gordon Humphrey, a staunch pro-life Senator first elected to two-terms in the late 1970s. Many in the legal community - including former Chief Justice and Concord attorney Chuck Douglas as well as Democrats in the profession - were stunned that Roe v. Wade - or any political issue – was being used as a litmus test for judicial nominees.

Sununu condemned the vote as unprecedented in the history of the state of New Hampshire.

"Never have we had a nominee so resoundingly supported, including the three most recent Supreme Court Chief Justices, 18 past presidents of the New Hampshire Bar Association, leaders of all political stripes, and over 100 distinguished members of the bar," the governor stated. "And never, until today, has politics ever come into play in the questioning and confirmation of nominees."

Sununu stated that for hundreds of years, the governor and Executive Council have worked together and never acted in a "hyperpartisan" manner, complete with the theatrics normally only seen in Washington, DC, on judicial nominees until MacDonald's nomination.

"I am absolutely disappointed for Gordon," he added. "To have one of the most qualified and widely supported nominees in the state's history treated in this way because of politics is reprehensible enough, but just as concerning is the damage done to our process."

Sununu stated that given the outcome of MacDonald's nomination, he would not move forward on any other nominations until he had the confidence that there would be "appropriate perspective" from the Executive Council "on their responsibilities to the process and to the state."

Submitted before the Council voted Dear Governor Sununu,

As Chairman of your Judicial Selection Commission since 2017, I want to be sure we are in tune with your current wishes for the scope of our interviews of judicial branch applicants.

Our mission has been to look for judicial candidates with the intelligence, trial experience and temperament to judge our fellow citizens. Depending on what level of courts we are reviewing, we look to an applicant's type of practice, their involvement in the community, and their ability to reason and write well. We call friends and opponents of the candidates and review multiple writing samples they submit.

Because I was a Superior Court Judge and an Associate Justice on the Supreme Court for over a decade I know what the respective jobs entail. When I was confirmed by the Executive Council just one year after the 1973 United States Supreme Court decision in Roe v. Wade (and two years later to the State Supreme Court) no one asked me how I would rule in abortion cases. In fact I know of no judicial nominee, prior to last week, during my half century of practice ever being put to a litmus test on that issue, let alone on voting rights, guns or any other political issue of the day.

The Council has now apparently shifted to litmus tests rather than accepting that it is the role of a judge to put their own views aside when making decisions under the law on a given set of facts. Your Selection Commission has never asked a single abortion related question of any candidate including Gordon MacDonald or of Martin Honigberg, who represented Planned Parenthood.

One councilor last week said that Attorney General MacDonald was a member of a party that has a bad record on health care, voting rights, gerrymandering, campaign finance, gun safety, and abortion so, therefore, he should not be confirmed. But even in Washington, D.C. no one attacked Elena Kagan or Ruth Bader Ginsburg for being Democrats and thus should not be approved as Justices by Republican Senators.

Your Commission has never asked a candidate what their party affiliation is. If party affiliation is now a disqualifier we are in a very sad state of affairs for the future of the New Hampshire judiciary.

If the Executive Council now wants answers in advance of any ruling on politically charged potential cases, you may want us to revise the questionnaire that we have kept virtually the same as the one used by the Commissions for Governors Lynch and Hassan. I was not in attendance at the hearings last week so we need to be told what the specific litmus questions the Council majority wants to have answered are. On the other hand, if you want us to keep going on as we have in the past, without any litmus tests, please let us know.

Sincerely,

Hon. Charles G. Douglas, III, Chair, N.H. Judicial Selection Commission

Hillsborough man to be arraigned on murder charges

A Hillsborough man with a history of mental illness will be arraigned on two counts of second-degree murder on August 12th, after being indicted for the December 2018 stabbing death of 51-year-old Brett Wilson. Matthew Fay, 28, has been held without bail since his arrest on March 28, 2018. Fay allegedly told police he stabbed

Wilson in the mobile home where Fay lived with his grandfather, fearing Wilson was there to hurt them. When Steven Fay, the grandfather, called 911 after the stabbing, investigators allege Fay could be heard in the background screaming that he was being held hostage and that Wilson was trying to kill them.

Will a second Dunkin replace former Diamond Acres?

On Wednesday evening the Hillsborough Planning Board approved a minor subdivision of Tom Jones' property on Route 9, which was formerly occupied by Diamond Acres Dairy Bar.

Although plans are not final, one of the possible alternatives is for another Dunkin franchise.

Monitor's Girls Lacrosse Player of the Year

Amelia Bassett was a senior captain for the undefeated Division III champion Hopkinton girls' lacrosse team this spring. She was playing for her father/ coach, Tim, and her mother, Amy, was keeping track of her 77 goals and 27 assists while doing the book for the Hawks. Amelia finished with a school-record 280 goals for her varsity career, which began when she was a freshman and her older sister/teammate, Hannah, was a senior, Hannah will be playing at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs, NY, next year. Skidmore went 12-6 last season and reached the Liberty League semifinals before losing to the tournament's top seed.

Monitor's Boys Lacrosse Player of the Year

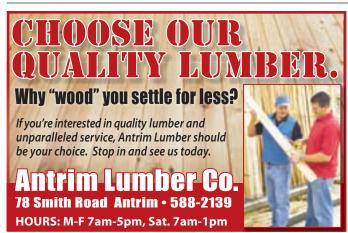

Hopkinton Lacrosse Coach Deacon Blue says Colby Quiet might be the best player in school history, with a broader understanding of the sport, dominating in transition, taking the ball away on defense and being an offensive machine. Quiet scored 74 goals with 35 assists this year, raising his career totals to 189 goals and 78 assists over 51 contests. In the season's most important game - a 15-5 win over No. 1 Pelham, Quiet led the offense with an eight-goal performance. Quiet's offensive numbers were no surprise, but he elevated his game across the board (238 ground balls, 18 caused turnovers, 127 faceoff wins – good for 68%) while also blossoming into a true team captain – both on and off the field.

First 3 of 9 Antrim wind turbines installed

To date, three of the nine turbines have been completed, including the installation of the wind blades. They are visible from the public beach on Gregg Lake, and can also be viewed from Route 9. Once completed, the Antrim Wind project is expected to produce 28.8 megawatts of energy from nine turbines. TransAlta, the parent company, has already secured two long-term power purchase agreements for the sale of the energy.

Hopkinton's Stickney Hill Road bridge closed

Effective immediately the Stickney Hill Road bridge in Hopkinton is closed. Since the last inspection the metal culvert has deteriorated greatly and more quickly than expected so the state has ordered it closed. This bridge has been on the state "red List" for several years and for the last 5 years we have been on the state bridge aid list, but funding is still out several years. The town is working on a temporary solution, but plan on the bridge being closed for a number of months.

Stuck truck is bad luck at Transfer Station

Henniker residents using the transfer station were delayed by a "professional" CDL 18-wheel tractor trailer driver trying to turn into the facility from the south. He managed to block the entrance/exit and wedged his trailer against a tree! Police turned everyone around and sent them home until the truck was freed.

PETS ARE FAMILY TOO!

Ways to help your dog maintain calm behavior

Summer can be a stressful time of year for dogs who experience anxious behaviors.

"It's important to talk to your veterinarian if your dog is displaying undesirable behaviors," said Jason Gagne, DVM, DACVN and director of veterinary technical communication for Pro Plan Veterinary Diets. "What might be perceived as a characteristic of a particular breed or part of a dog's personality could really be an anxious behavior that needs attention."

Start preparing early

For stressful situations near your home, such as fireworks, help prepare your dog by exposing him or her to recorded firework or thunder sounds.

Create a safe space

Prepare a special area in your home where your dog can feel safe and secure during noisy instances.

■ Make your dog comfortable

Giving your dog a special treat or favorite toy during a potentially upsetting event might help establish a positive association with these loud noises. Calming wraps may help for some dogs, too.

Make car travel a positive experience

Use a reward such as a favorite treat or interactive toy to get him or her excited to get in the car and crate before taking a trip.

Stay calm

Pets look to their owners for reassurance, so showing them a calm, relaxed demeanor helps them understand there is no real danger.

Piscataquog Land Conservancy has acquired 205 Weare acres

Piscataquog Land Conservancy has announced it has purchased the 205 Weare acres from Meadowsend Timberlands, which manages forest land throughout the state.

The conservancy raised a total of $296,000 for the purchase, including $185,000 from the state's Aquatic Resources Mitigation program and $50,000 from the Weare-based Emma Sawyer Trust. There are plans to extend walking trails from the Ferrin Pond Preserve onto the new property. Snowmobile access to an existing corridor trail will also continue under the agreement, overseen by the Weare Winter Wanderers snowmobile club. Wheeled motorized vehicles such as ATVs, however, will not be allowed on trails because of the damage they can do.

Almost a mile from the nearest paved road, the land is forested, with a string of beaver ponds and wetlands running north-south down the center of the property. It also features a grove of black gum trees that are "approximately 400 years" old. PLC owns or has easements on 110 parcels of land totaling almost 7,300 acres in the watersheds of the Piscataquog, Souhegan and Nashua rivers. Of those, 18 are in Weare, more than in any other town.

New London Board addresses Barn Playhouse parking problems

The New London Select Board held a public hearing Monday night to address parking problems on Main Street, Pressey Court, Sawyer Lane and Everett Park. Police Chief Ed Anderson, Fire Chief Jay Lyon and Highway Supervisor Bob Harrington attended and offered alternatives.

Anderson said his department has received numerous complaints about improper parking and traffic safety. Lyon commented that they all appreciate the valuable contribution the Barn Playhouse provides the town, but some adjustments need to be made to allow his vehicles free access.

Chair Nancy Rollins announced that they would discuss one road at a time beginning with Pressey Court. The initial decision seemed to favor allowing parking only on the right side of the street, but after an extensive discussion the consensus was parking would be allowed only on the left side of the road.

A similar route was taken with Sawyer Lane as the initial thought was reversed and parking was allowed only on the right side of the road.

North Road was quickly limited to parking on the north side of the road only. Steve Enright, a member of the Playhouse Board said he thought the group was making a long-term solution to a shortterm problem. He suggested that as the problem only occurred during Playhouse performances, that the parking restriction only apply when it in session, June to September. The idea quickly gained unanimous acceptance. Harrington reminded all that Main Street was actually a state road and they would be lining new parking spaces too. Members of the Playhouse management were present and eager to assist in solving any problems. Chair Rollins emphasized that this was a one year test which would be reevaluated.

Correction/Apology

My husband James Obrien's obituary was run in the July 5 Messenger.

Unfortunately, in listing his survivors we neglected to name my daughter in law, Stephanie Wolfkill, wife to Matthew.

We sincerely regret the omission. Kelly Obrien ~ The Obrien family.
