OHRV accident in Weare Weare, Dunbarton & NH Fish & Game respond

On Saturday, August 17th, Weare Fire Rescue Department responded to an OHRV accident on the Hopkinton-Everett Multi-use Trail System located in East Weare.

Weare Fire Rescue, working with eye witnesses together with GPS coordinates from NH 9-1-1, was able to locate the injured rider on Bassett Mill Trail suffering from a lower leg injury.

Fire Chief Robert Vezina would like to thank all who assisted and aided in the successful mitigation of the incident, most significantly Dunbarton Fire Department, Weare Police Department, NH Fish & Game Department.

The Hopkinton-Everett Multi-use Trail System is an expansive network of multi-use trails beginning at the parking area off Winslow and Ray Roads in Dunbarton, NH. Six distinct loops wind outwards towards Stark Pond and Everett Lake, passing over hills and crossing streams and rivers at several points. In addition to the 24 miles of cut trail, numerous dirt and woods roads offer trail users plenty of territory to explore.

Colby-Sawyer College's enrollment increased by 11%

Colby-Sawyer College's enrollment for the incoming Class of 2023 increased by 11% from last year despite declining enrollment figures both regionally and nationally at small, private liberal arts institutions. The college met its goal for the Class of 2023 with 292 enrolled students — which features a 26% increase in students from New Hampshire —bucking trends nationally where enrollment at nonprofit, Title IV institutions has declined for a third straight year, according to a report released by the National Student Clearing House Research Center. The report points to a similar decline among private, nonprofit four-year colleges in the Northeast.

More than 51% of our students are receiving job offers from their internships and clinical placements, with a placement rate for the Class of 2018 of 99% in jobs or graduate school.

Injured Weare officer grateful for outpouring of community's support

Weare Police Officer William "Paul" Lewis spoke to reporters on Monday on the state of his recovery after being shot August 1st. "I'm someone who is blessed enough to always have some kind of positive vibe, some type of positive outlook, in me, so that's what I've been using to stay up." Continuing, he said. "But also, what it comes down to is the community. Any time I slightly feel alone, I will receive a text message, a notification on Facebook, Instagram, someone reaching out. It's been so great, all the positivity."

Lewis was released from Concord Hospital on August 5th, but his arm is still largely immobile and another surgery is scheduled in two weeks to address nerve damage.

Doctors believe it will take at least six months for his arm to return to full health, and it is too soon to tell if there will be lingering effects from the shooting.

Lewis did admit that he will eventually seek counseling to deal with any psychological aftermath he may face from the incident, but noted that his fellow officers were also helping his morale and will continue to help him moving forward.

Lewis hopes to return to what he says is his dream job, and he hopes his experience will not dissuade anyone else from becoming a police officer.

"This is a setback, I'll be honest. But this isn't something that will stop me from pursuing becoming the best police officer I can be," he said. "I want to make the most out of this career. I am someone who is driven. So yeah, this is a bump, but I am going to be getting back up there and keep going in the field."

Weare Police Department Chief Christopher Moore has said that Lewis has an open invitation to return to light duty whenever he is ready and obtains doctor's approval.

Board fires Peterborough Recreation Director Jeff King

Peterborough officials have announced the firing of Recreation Director Jeff King following an investigation, saying he failed to follow town policies.

According to Town Administrator Rodney Bartlet, the select board voted Monday to fire King. "This action was taken after complaints made against Mr. King led to a Town investigation which uncovered failures to follow town policies, protocols, and training," Bartlett said in the statement. "This failure has under-mined, in the Town's opinion, his ability to manage employees, and as a result he is not in a position to lead the Town of Peterborough's Recreation Department."

King did not respond to requests for comment. Bartlett did not specify the nature of the complaints that sparked the investigation, nor did he offer any details about the alleged failures found during the investigation.

TOOTHBRUSH FACTS

We know and love our toothbrushes as the tools that kick plaque to the curb, help keep cavities at bay (with the help of fluoride toothpaste, of course) and freshen our breath. But what else can we learn about them? Read on for some toothbrush facts.

Dr. Esin Narli-Trangaris The first mass-produced toothbrush was invented in prison. In 1770, an Englishman named William Addis was jailed for inciting a riot. He saw fellow prisoners using a rag covered in soot or salt to clean their teeth. Addis saved an animal bone from dinner and received bristles from a guard. Accounts state he bored tiny holes into the bone, inserted the bristles and sealed them with glue. After his release, he modified his prototype, started a company and manufactured his toothbrush. That company, Wisdom Toothbrushes, still exists in the United Kingdom today.

Manual or powered? Your teeth don't care. In the manual and powered toothbrush debate, it's a wash. You just need to brush twice a day for two minutes with a fluoride toothpaste. (If your toothpaste has the ADA Seal, you'll know it has fluoride.) Both types of toothbrush can effectively and thoroughly clean your teeth. It all depends on which one you prefer. People who find it difficult to use a manual toothbrush may find a powered toothbrush more comfortable. Talk to your dentist about which kind is best for you.

There is no "correct" order for brushing and flossing. Brushing before flossing, flossing before brushing—it doesn't matter to your teeth, as long as you do both.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

In one of the largest-ever research reports of how a pregnant woman's diet affects her baby's allergy risk, scientists assessed over 400 studies involving 1.5 million people. They found that when pregnant women took a daily fish oil capsule from 20 weeks pregnant, and during the first three to four months of breastfeeding, risk of egg allergy in the child was reduced by 30 per cent. The team also found that taking a daily probiotic supplement from 36-38 weeks pregnant, and during the first three to six months of breast-feeding, reduced the risk of a child developing eczema by 22 per cent. The researchers published their meta-analysis in the journal PLOS Medicine.

There is a link between higher serum vitamin D levels and lower plasma cholesterol levels in primary school children, new research shows. The findings were reported in one of the leading journals of endocrinology, the Journal of Clinical Endocrinology and Metabolism. Vitamin D is known to be essential for bone metabolism, and low levels increase the risk of rickets, osteomalacia, and osteopenia. Vitamin D may also improve plasma lipid levels and have beneficial impact on other risk factors of cardiovascular diseases.

For people living with both Type 2 diabetes and heart failure, taking an aspirin each day appears to lower the risk of dying or being hospitalized for heart failure, according to research presented at the American College of Cardiology's 67th Annual Scientific Session. Aspirin is strongly recommended for patients who have previously had a heart attack or stroke. Aspirin interferes with blood's ability to clot, by reducing the activity of platelets, which aggregate during clot formation. Heart failure and diabetes cause changes in the blood that make clot formation more likely, which is why these conditions are associated with a higher risk of heart attacks and strokes.

Fire completely destroyed a Francestown home early Saturday morning. A passing motorist was the first to alert the Fire Department but the house was fully involved by then, as officials estimate it started around midnight Saturday morning. Fire Chief Larry Kullgren said the Department received the call at 4:48 a.m. and was on the scene in less than five minutes. The Francestown Fire Department received mutual aid from the Greenfield, Deering, Bennington, Lyndeborough, and New Boston fire departments, all of whom remained on the scene until noon. The cause of the fire remains undetermined, but he's working with the State Fire Marshal's office in an investigation.

Frank Cordelle, 76, of Hancock, was hospitalized after he drove into a ditch at the base of Dublin Town Cemetery at 1:40 p.m. on Monday. Cordelle had been traveling eastbound on Main Street in a Toyota Matrix. According to Dublin Fire Chief Tom Vanderbilt, witnesses observed him crossing the center line at a low speed. The car traveled along a ditch before coming to a stop in some brush at the base of the cemetery. Police Chief Tim Suokko reports that "Cordelle didn't seem to know how he got there." He was uninjured and was able to speak to first responders. He was taken to the hospital for a medical check.

Bunker Road residents discuss guardrails, speed bumps, speed limits

A proposal to install 725 feet of new guardrails on Bunker Road near Pleasant Lake drew a capacity crowd to the New London Select Board meeting Monday evening. Resident Bill Hopwood had requested an appointment to discuss the idea, in hopes the town would consider installing a more esthetically pleasing version than the one proposed. With the speed limit set at 25mph he suggested that the typical interstate metal guardrails were unnecessary. It was pointed out that those esthetically pleasing versions would cost between $52,000-$85,000 as opposed to the $16,000 proposed.

Bob Ruggles suggested that guardrails would not solve the real problem which is excessive speed. He cited Police Department statistics the 3,500 cars per day travel Bunker Road and that 70% of them drive in excess of the speed limit. James Muirhead agreed, saying people needed to slow down. Most in attendance agreed but many were not keen on speed bumps as the solution. Ron Rocco cautioned that guardrails are dangerous in that they limit the many pedestrians using the road from jumping back to avoid traffic. A suggestion to lower the speed limit to 15 mph was well received and the board agreed to explore that option in detail.

Something to Ponder: By George Carlin

A friend shared this on the internet. I always liked George Carlin but never knew the Hippy Dippy Mailman could be so profound and insightful - LDB

The paradox of our time in history is that we have taller buildings but shorter tempers, wider Freeways, but narrower viewpoints. We spend more, but have less, we buy more, but enjoy less. We have bigger houses and smaller families, more conveniences, but less time. We have more degrees but less sense, more knowledge, but less judgment, more experts, yet more problems, more medicine, but less wellness.

We drink too much, smoke too much, spend too recklessly, laugh too little, drive too fast, get too angry, stay up too late, get up too tired, read too little, watch TV too much, and pray too seldom.

We have multiplied our possessions, but reduced our values. We talk too much, love too seldom, and hate too often.

We've learned how to make a living, but not a life. We've added years to life not life to years. We've been all the way to the moon and back, but have trouble crossing the street to meet a new neighbor. We conquered outer space but not inner space. We've done larger things, but not better things.

We've cleaned up the air, but polluted the soul. We've conquered the atom, but not our prejudice. We write more, but learn less. We plan more, but accomplish less. We've learned to rush, but not to wait. We build more computers to hold more information, to produce more copies than ever, but we communicate less and less. These are the times of fast foods and slow digestion, big men and small character, steep profits and shallow relationships. These are the days of two incomes but more divorce, fancier houses, but broken homes. These are days of quick trips, disposable diapers, throwaway morality, one night stands, overweight bodies, and pills that do everything from cheer, to quiet, to kill. It is a time when there is much in the showroom window and nothing in the stockroom. A time when technology can bring this letter to you, and a time when you can choose either to share this insight, or to just hit delete.

Remember to spend some time with your loved ones, because they are not going to be around forever.

Remember, say a kind word to someone who looks up to you in awe, because that little person soon will grow up and leave your side.

Remember, to give a warm hug to the one next to you, because that is the only treasure you can give with your heart and it doesn't cost a cent.

Remember, to say, 'I love you' to your partner and your loved ones, but most of all mean it. A kiss and an embrace will mend hurt when it comes from deep inside of you.

Remember to hold hands and cherish the moment for someday that person will not be there again.

Give time to love, give time to speak! And give time to share the precious thoughts in your mind. And always remember, life is not measured by the number of breaths we take, but by those moments that take our breath away.

Bradford Selectmen authorize culvert repair

Steve Hall spoke with the Bradford Selectmen about the pending repair work on the Pleasant View culvert. After reviewing all the solutions presented, it was determined that sleeving the culvert for approximately $22,000 will be the best solution. The Board also discussed an inspection Steve had done in conjunction with a contractor and John Pfeifle of the Johnson Hill and West Meadow Road bridges. Steve will confirm that the sleeving quote is still good before proceeding with the repairs needed. The Board authorized Steve to move forward with the solution for the Pleasant View culvert for under $25,000.

New protections from financial exploitation

The New Hampshire Bureau of Securities Regulation has announced a new law will take effect on September 8, 2019 that helps protect vulnerable adults from financial exploitation. The legislation was put forward at the request of the Bureau of Securities.

Under the new law, securities brokerage firms and investment advisers, as well as their representatives, may delay a disbursement of funds from an investment account for a limited time if they reasonably believe it could result in financial exploitation of a vulnerable adult. State law defines "vulnerable" to mean that the physical, mental, or emotional ability of a person is such that he or she cannot manage personal, home, or financial affairs in his or her best interest, or that he or she cannot act or cannot delegate responsibility to a responsible caretaker or caregiver.

If an investment firm or its representative delays the disbursement of client funds due to a reasonable suspicion of financial exploitation, the firm or individual must follow certain procedures. This includes notifying the Bureau, notifying affected parties (except for parties believed to have engaged in the exploitation), and reviewing the proposed disbursement.

"We believe this new law is a giant step forward in protecting the elderly and other vulnerable adults who may fall prey to individuals seeking to take advantage of them," said Barry Glennon, Director of the Bureau. "With New Hampshire having the second oldest average age in the country and with the increasing numbers of baby boomers approaching or in retirement, it is particularly important to protect an aging population."

Director Glennon thanked the legislature, the governor, and the Bureau of Elderly and Adult Services of the NH Department of Health and Human Services for their support. He also expressed appreciation to the Financial Planners Association, National Association of Insurance and Financial Advisors, and NH Legal Assistance and its Elder Law Project. "This law is good for everyone involved, especially for vulnerable adults and securities firms trying to protect vulnerable clients."

The Bureau of Securities Regulation is an agency of the Secretary of State charged with enforcing the securities laws and protecting investors. If you believe you or someone you know has been the victim of investment fraud or misconduct, please contact the New Hampshire Bureau of Securities Regulation at (603) 271-1463.

Plans for Hillsborough Community Center

Resident Becky Johnson hosted an introductory meeting at the Middle School to unveil her plans for a multi-function Community Center in Hillsborough. A state employee, Johnson has worked for the Department of Revenue Administration, Health and Human Services and currently Fish & Game. She boasts expertise in Non-Profits and grant writing, and plans a facility completely funded with grants, bequests and donations, without any tax dollars. She envisions a center with a professional kitchen and banquet hall, a community garden, along with a pool and exercise area. She has begun drafting the necessary document to obtain non-profit status, along with by-laws for the organization. A Board of directors is being selected and at the meeting she asked for any volunteers to join a steering committee to assist in the planning stages. Johnson said it will take about 6-12 more months in planning with a target opening in two years. She estimates an initial budget of $2 million.

Will NH pay $130,000 in attorney's fees?

The State of New Hampshire is hoping to avoid paying $130,000 in attorney's fees to ConVal's lawyers, at least until it gets the education funding case heard by the New Hampshire Supreme Court. In a motion filed in the Cheshire Superior Court, the state is asking to hold off paying the bill as it is planning to file an appeal to the New Hampshire Supreme Court in the coming days. The deadline to file the appeal is August 28th. New Hampshire lost the education funding lawsuit to the Contoocook Valley Regional School District and three other school districts when Cheshire Superior Court Judge David Ruoff ruled that the state's funding grants are in violation of the Claremont decisions and the New Hampshire Constitution. As part of his ruling, Ruoff ordered that the state pay Michael Tierney and the other ConVal attorneys fees for the work done on the lawsuit. The state plans to appeal Ruoff's entire ruling, including the legal fee order. "The (State) intends to raise issues in the notice of appeal that directly implicate the petitioner's entitlement to an award of fees in this case," the motion states. ConVal filed the lawsuit against the New Hampshire Department of Education, Commissioner Frank Edelblut, and Gov. Chris Sununu in March, seeking a nearly three-fold increase in the state education adequacy grant from around $3,600 per pupil to close to $10,000 per pupil. It was later joined in court by the Winchester, Monadnock, and Mascenic school districts.

Walk for Animals from Monadnock Humane Society set for Sept. 21

Monadnock Humane Society (MHS) is pleased to announce that its 31st Annual Walk for Animals will take place on Saturday, September 21, from 10 a.m.to 1 p.m. rain or shine (sign in begins at 9 a.m.). This year the Walk will return to the Keene Dillant-Hopkins Airport – a venue that is made possible by the kind support of the City of Keene and the Town of Swanzey. The theme for the 31st Walk for Animals is "Healthy Pets, Healthy People!" - highlighting the health benefits of the animal-human bond.

The Walk for Animals is a crowdfunding event. In the weeks leading up to the Walk itself, animal lovers in the community ask family, friends, coworkers, colleagues – everyone they know – to sponsor them (all money raised goes towards the care of the homeless animals of our community). On Saturday, September 21, everyone walks a maximum of three miles together on a scenic paved road at the airport that is accessible for all. Walkers may choose whatever distance they prefer (with or without a leashed dog). Walkers who raise $50 or more will receive a beautiful Walk for Animals T-shirt that features a new Walk for Animals logo designed by local artist Jade Harmon, as well as a delicious vegan lunch created and served by the award-winning Country Life Restaurant of Keene.

A celebration party takes place immediately after the Walk. The party reaches full swing at noon with music provided by a deejay, a vendor village to visit, a meet-and-greet with therapy pet teams, dog demonstrations to watch (including Puppy Play and Flyball), games to play (Puppy Poop Bingo and more), and many other fun things to do. Each Walker can fill a tote bag with goodies and coupons donated from many local businesses. MHS Wagtime Dog Grooming will be available for nail clips ($10) from 11:00 am – noon, and appointments can be made for sanitary clips (feet/face/fanny - $15) from noon to 1:00 pm.

Registration for the Walk is required by August 31st. Register and fundraise at www. mhswalkforanimals.com.
