Washington's Town Meeting honors Ron and Grace Jager

The attendees of the 2020 Washington Town Meeting approved 35 articles in just over 4 hours and 30 minutes.

Selectman Tom Marshall started the meeting by informing the townspeople that both the Meetinghouse and the Safety Center projects have been declared complete and under budget.

Some of the remaining funds were used to purchase a theatre curtain, an audio system, lighting, a projector and screen and additional tables and chairs to be used in the Meetinghouse upper level. This beautifully renovated space is now available for taxpayers to reserve and rent for events. Tom also brought the town up to date on the work being done to restore and renovate the old schoolhouse in the center of town. Two non-budget articles of interest included:

* Article 17, passed after spirited discussion. The town voted to discontinue the process of electing the Fire Chief at the annual meeting and give the Selectmen the authority to appoint the Fire Chief for an indefinite period. The Fire and Rescue Department will recommend a qualified candidate to the Selectmen to fill the position as required.

* Article 33 appropriated $5000 to help fund the town's 2020 Old Home Days festivities.

* Article 34 appropriated $5000 to develop plans for restoration of Mill Pond in East Washington.

During the meeting, Town Moderator and poet, Guy Eaton, read a poem in tribute to Jim Hofford, to whom this year's town report was dedicated. Moderator Eaton also read a poem of thanks to Tom Marshall, who has filled for many years and continues to fill the position of Selectman. This year's recipients of the Rich Cook Citizen's Award were Ronald and Grace Jager, who were honored for their many contributions to the town of Washington over the past 53 years. The Jagers authored two comprehensive histories of the town and were instrumental in establishing the Duncan Jenkins Trust. Grace served as Town Archivist, was a beloved teacher at Hillsboro Deering schools and continues to bring beautiful music to the Washington Congregational Church. Ron was the Town Moderator from 1997 until 2010, served as a Selectman, member of the Future of the Town Hall Committee and Washington's Vision Committee. The town's poet in residence (Guy Eaton) read a fitting poem honoring the Jagers for their many years of service to the town.

SAU #34 Operation Budget defeated 416 yes to 420 no

Hillsborough and Deering voters were nearly unanimous in their support of the School District Warrant, passing all but one of the requests by large margins.

Articles approved included: compensation for officers and agents, the $23,121,866 Operating Budget, a new three-year contract with the support staff, and $200,000 deposited into four Expendable Trust Funds. Less enthusiasm was shown for the SAU Office. The requested $1,172,621 SAU operating budget was defeated in both towns. Hillsborough voters cast 308 Yes votes opposed to 315 No's. In Deering voters did approve the measure 108-105, but not by enough to negate the Hillsborough vote. The results were similar.

Persistence pays off as Newbury voters approve $3.75 million Fire Station

After several failed attempts, the Newbury Fire Department will soon have a new home. Wednesday night, voters easily met the 2/3 vote requirement to approve the $3,750,000 request for the design, construction and equipping of the new Fire station, to be located next to the Veteran's Memorial,

After trimming $15,000, the $4,369,614 operating budget passed easily. The Library Trustees reduced their request from $270,000 to $200,000, which passed, as did placing $296,000 into 3 established Capital Reserve Funds and another $88,000 maintenance expendable trust funds.

Other items approved included: $39,500 for a new police cruiser and $180,000 for a new 6-wheel dump truck.

A new Cochrane Review has found that increasing the intake of omega-3 fats found in fatty fish and fish oil supplements during pregnancy reduces the risk of premature births. Premature birth is the leading cause of death for children under 5 years old worldwide, accounting for close to one million deaths annually. Premature babies are at higher risk of a range of long-term conditions including visual impairment, developmental delay and learning difficulties. For pregnant women, increasing the daily intake of long-chain omega-3s lowers the risk of having a premature baby (less than 37 weeks) by 11% (from 134 per 1,000 to 119 per 1,000 births) and lowers the risk of having an early premature baby (less than 34 weeks) by 42% (from 46 per 1,000 to 27 per 1,000 births).

Patients given clot busters to treat a heart attack fared equally well if they were given the standard blood thinning medication clopidogrel versus the newer, more potent drug ticagrelor, according to research presented at the American College of Cardiology's 68th Annual Scientific Session.

Elderly people with high blood pressure, or hypertension, who took medicine to keep their 24-hour systolic blood pressure around 130 mm Hg for three years showed significantly less accumulation of harmful brain lesions compared with those taking medicine to maintain a systolic blood pressure around 145 mm Hg, according to research presented at the American College of Cardiology's 68th Annual Scientific Session. However, the reduction in brain lesions, visible as bright white spots on a magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) scan, did not translate to a significant improvement in mobility and cognitive function. Researchers said it is likely that three years was too short a time for such benefits to become apparent.

ELITE ATHLETES EXHIBIT POOR ORAL HEALTH DESPITE BRUSHING TWICE DAILY

Elite athletes have high rates of oral disease despite brushing their teeth more frequently than most people, finds a new study published in the British Dental Journal.

A research team surveyed 352 Olympic and professional athletes across 11 sports, including cycling, swimming, rugby, football, rowing, and hockey. The dental check-ups revealed Dr. Esin Narli-Trangaris substantial amounts of oral disease, finding that nearly half (49.1%) had untreated tooth decay, the large majority showed early signs of gum inflammation, and almost a third (32%) reported that their oral health had a negative impact on their training and performance.

Elite athletes have poor oral health despite their efforts to care for their teeth. This new study found that 94% reported brushing their teeth at least twice a day, and 44% reported regularly cleaning between their teeth (flossing) substantially higher figures than for the general population (75% for twicedaily brushing and 21% for flossing).

The researchers found that the athletes also regularly use sports drinks (87%), energy bars (59%) and energy gels (70%), which are known to damage teeth.

The researchers found that a majority of the athletes in the survey already have good oral-health habits in as much as they brush their teeth twice a day, visit the dentist regularly, don't smoke and have a healthy general diet.

However, the sugar in the sports drinks, energy gels and bars they frequently use during training and competition increases the risk of tooth decay, and their acidity increases the risk of erosion. This could be contributing to the high levels of tooth decay and acid erosion seen during the dental check-ups.

Janice H. McElroy Rotary District ScholarshipThe Rotary Club of Henniker is pleased to announce a district wide scholarship in memory of Henniker's Janice H. McElroy, who served as Rotary District 7870 Governor in 2011-2012. Applications need to be completed and received no later than April 15, 2020. The selected recipient will be notified in late April and will be presented the award at the Rotary District 7870 conference at the Portland Marriott at Sable Oaks, Portland, Maine on May 1-3, 2020.

Undeterred by fire alarm, Hillsborough voters finish in record time

Hillsborough's Town Meeting Tuesday evening began at 7:30 p.m., and despite a 15 minute delay to correct a faulty fire alarm, adjourned at 8:45 p.m. During that time, voters approved the proposed $7,944,653 Operating Budget, $722,672 for the Water Department and $868,229 for the Sewer Department, all without question or debate.

Voters also salted away a total of $384,000 in 10 separate Capital Reserve Funds, Another $250,000 was approved for Road Work, after Highway Superintendent Bill Goss was given a prolonged rousing, standing ovation for his 42 years of dedicated service to the town.

Article 11, asking for $50,000 for police body cameras generated some discussion, but after Police Chief Dave Rorick fielded several questions, it passed by voice vote.

A pair of petitioned warrant articles generated the most debate. The first called for adoption of the NH Resolution for Climate Action. Resident Roger Shamel said the proposal for carbon cash-back programs provides significant economic benefits to consumers. After a half dozen speakers on the both sides of the issue, a showing of voting cards revealed a clear majority in favor. The second would urge state representatives to appoint an independent body to redistrict political boundaries. Susan Shamel said it would end the political posturing of the past. No one spoke in opposition and the measure passed by voice vote.

Hillsborough voters lined up at the mic to discuss an article calling for climate action.

Hopkinton officials taking extra precautions

The Hopkinton School District Annual Meeting is scheduled for this Saturday, March 14, at 9:00 am in the high school gymnasium. A meeting was held between board members (two), school administrators, the moderator, and the school district's attorney. The logistics and procedures, including postponing the meeting, were discussed. By state statute (Section 197:1), the District is required to hold its annual meeting during the month of March. In addition, there are concerns that if the spread of the virus continues to rise, the risk to all those potentially affected would increase. Based on these factors, it is our intent to hold the meeting as scheduled. We will continue to monitor any changes in guidance from both the NH Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) and the CDC Logistical preparation for the meeting will include additional precautions and the following accommodations will be implemented.

- * Additional hand sanitizers will be available.
- * Ballot counters will have rubber gloves available.
- * Space will be provided for social distancing in the gym and the auditorium will be available as an additional venue. Speaking to an article and voting will have to take place in the gym. Your understanding, patience, and support are appreciated.

Annual Pats Peak Pond Skim set for Saturday March 21st

Pats Peak announces its annual Pond Skim Contest on Saturday, March 21, 2020. Participants try to ski or snowboard across a man-made pond. Some make it across and some take the icy plunge into the pond. Registration for the Pond Skim event is from 8:30am to 11:30am with the event starting at 1pm. The entry fee is free but the purchase of at least a Bluster Area Lift Ticket or Pats Peak Season Pass and a costume is required to enter the contest. Entry is limited to the first 100 participants with prizes awarded for Best Costume, Best Splash and Best Skim. "This is such a fun spring event. The crowd loves seeing them make a big splash and cheers when they make it across. Having the costumes as a requirement is a great addition to the event," says Jim Wall, Events Director. Now is the time to buy a 2020/2021

Pats Peak Season Pass at the lowest rate. Purchase on or before April 1, 2020 for the 2020/2021 season at great low rates. Pats Peak Season Pass rates remain affordable in order to allow individuals and families to spend more time on the slopes without financial burdens. The average adult who purchases a weekend lift ticket seven times, would be paying more than the price of an Adult Unlimited Season Pass.

Greenfield Fire Department personnel fit tested for safety masks

Members of the Greenfield Fire Department were fit tested for N95 masks. This is a precautionary measure that really should be done once a year for our personnel's safety. The process takes about a half hour and ensures the N95 mask the rescue personnel are wearing is truly preventing contaminants from getting into their respiratory system. The process starts with the rescue personnel having a solution sprayed in their mouth (Bitrex sensitivity solution) to determine their sensitivity. The agent is sprayed into the mouth one pump at a time, until they can taste it (not very tasty), which depends on the person. Some people it may take 3 squirts and others may take up to 30.

Once the sensitively level is determined, the rescue personnel puts on a N95 mask and then a hood over their head as shown in the picture. The same agent is sprayed into the hood as the first part of the test except this time, it's sprayed at a much higher concentration.

The rescuer is then asked to perform a variety of tasks like moving their head side to side, up and down, talking (in last night's case reciting the alphabet) and in the end, jogging in place for as long as 30 seconds. As long as the rescuer does not taste the same agent sprayed at the beginning, their N95 mask is properly sealed and blocking germs or bacteria from getting to them.

Although we laughed at parts of the process as we were jogging in place in the middle of the meeting room with a plastic bag over our heads, the process is to be taken very seriously to protect the members of the department. At our regular monthly business meeting a few weeks back, rescue personnel were also reminded of the proper questions to ask that will help to determine if we have a possible Coronavirus patient. These types of precautionary measures should also be used with patients that may also be exhibiting flu-like symptoms. Thanks to The Academy of First Response for conducting this very important test.

Dine in or take out.

Character Counts

New London Police Chief Ed Anderson has announced his retirement at the end of this month. It is typical and expected on these occasions to say, "He will be missed." Having begun his career as a New London Police Cadet and risen through the ranks to become a dispatcher, part-time officer, full-time officer, Corporal, Sergeant and finally Chief, Anderson epitomizes the very best in law enforcement. Becoming Chief in March of 2014, he took over a disenchanted demoralized department left in shambles after the disastrous tenure of former Chief David Seastrand. The Select Board's decision to promote Anderson has paid dividends from day one.

Working in less than favorable conditions, he has upgraded every aspect of the department and restored the dignity and respect our police deserve.

Yes, Ed, you will be missed. Your successor has big shoes to fill.

Letters to the Editor

In a Nutshell II

If you have a home in Deering, and do not attend town meeting you are missing an enjoyable morning. Also you are not fulfilling your responsibility as a citizen. It is interesting to hear the presentations from elected officials and the governing body (US). Those of us that go regularly sit in the same seat. Sometimes the only place we catch up with a fellow Deeringite is at town meeting.

We vote – sometimes not the same way as someone you are sitting next to – then we get up and "chew the fat" during break. Then when all is said and done we continue to chat sometimes going to lunch with someone you see once a year. If you don't attend town meeting then you are not aware of the "roped" off area in the back and who sits there. If you are afraid to attend town meeting, what makes you think attending an SB2 meeting will give you the strength to speak up and vote. It won't! Join us Saturday March 14 at 9 am.

Beth Kelly, Deering

Dear Editor:

To all those people who are against Deering being an SB2 town, the one thing all of you keep saying is that you would miss the town getting together, yet you already know the town gets together anyway, cause we have what's known as either a Deliberative session or a Public hearing to go over what will be discussed and voted on. Yet you all failed to mention that when you wrote all your letters to the Editor. That's sad. Another thing that is sad, the fact that you don't really care if the whole town comes out or not. You want to stick to the old ways. Some of us can't do that. You love to know what everyone else is voting. Sorry but in my eyes, voting should be in private, not out in the open. People should be able to digest what they hear and read. They should be able to do their research on it before having to make a decision. Not be forced into it. Last year at the town meeting, I felt forced into making certain decisions that I didn't feel comfortable with. Yet I didn't want to be the odd ball out. What's the real reason you really want that? Cause your really making it to where some towns people want to say good bye. It's really not called for.

> Thanks, Cecile Brown, West Deering

Dear Editor:

Thank you note to our election workers and school officials. They did a great job, taking extra precautions against the Coronavirus. We have a great team and I would like them to know how much they are appreciated.

Thank you, Maureen Billodeau, Town Clerk Weare

Invention Convention at Weare Middle & Center Woods Upper Elementary School

Weare Middle and Center Woods Upper Elementary Schools held their Invention Convention the first week in March. The Invention Convention is part of The Young Inventor's Program, a K-12 project-based learning program that provides a hands-on STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Math) educational enrichment opportunity to budding youth inventors.

"Selecting the winners to compete at the Regional Convention on March 31 at Southern New Hampshire University was difficult for the judges of teachers, administrators and community members as all of the projects showed such creativity," said WMS/CWUES Principal Shawne Hillard. "But, in the end," she continued, "five students and their projects were selected to move on to regionals.

Students moving on to regionals from the Weare Middle and Center Woods Upper Elementary Schools are:

Claire McCallum's Super Secure Solar Shredder, a solar operated shredder for junk mail located outside next to your mailbox, also won the Original and Unique Award.

Cameron DeNapoli for the Playful Puppy, an invention in which tennis balls are pushed by air to your dog so he can play while you're away. Cameron's invention also won the Judges' Choice Award.

Grace Meisser for the De-ice-inator, which first squirts an alcohol and water solution on your windshield while the other end has a squeegee to remove the melting ice from your windshield. The De-ice-inator also won the Practical and Useful Award.

Molly Heath's The Crusher 3000, which crushes plastic into smaller pieces to recycle easier, which also won the Environmental Award.

Sadie McCallum is taking her ATOM (Automatic Therapy Orthopedic Machine) to regionals. The ATOM helps people stay in proper form in physical therapy and also won the Medical Award.

Peterborough Rotary club hopes to reinstate ConVal's Quest Program

The Peterborough Rotary is seeking alternate funding sources for the ConVal Quest summer program. The Quest summer program, a free weeklong educational camp for ConVal middle schoolers at the Sargent Center in Hancock, has been operating for the past six years.

Recently, however, the School Board dropped it from the 2020 budget as a cost saving measure. The program costs $45,000 a year to run with ConVal School contributing $22,500, and the Rotary the remainder through donations from fellow Rotarians and members of the community, as well as corporate donors including Monadnock Paper Mills, Lake Sunapee/Bar Harbor Bank, New Hampshire Ball Bearings, the Vose Farm Business Center, and the NH Charitable foundation.

Peterborough Rotarian Andy Peterson, chair of the Rotary's ConVal Quest Committee, said he hopes the families who benefited from the program in the past will help the club to come up with a creative solution for future funding.

MOLD IN THE HOME

Molds are tiny microscopic organisms that digest organic matter and reproduce by releasing spores. Mold is a type of fungus; there are over 100,000 mold species. In nature, mold helps decompose or break down leaves, wood and other plant debris. Molds become a problem when they go where they are not wanted and digest materials such as our homes.

By: Joyce Bosse

Mold enters your home as tiny spores. The spores need moisture to begin growing, digesting and destroying. Molds can grow on almost any surface, including wood, ceiling tiles, wallpaper, paints, carpet, sheet rock and insulation. The mold grows best when there is lots of moisture from a leaky roof, high humidity, or flood. There is no way to get rid of all molds and mold spores from your home. But you can control mold growth by keeping your home dry.

When molds are disturbed, they release spores into the air. You can be exposed by breathing air containing these mold spores. You can also be exposed through touching moldy items, eating moldy food or accidental hand to mouth contact. Most molds do not harm healthy people. But people who have allergies or asthma may be especially sensitive to molds. Sensitive people may experience skin rash, running nose, eye irritation, cough, nasal congestion, aggravation of asthma or difficulty breathing. People with an immune suppression or underlying lung disease, may be at increased risk for infections from molds. A small number of molds produce toxins called mycotoxins. When people are exposed to high levels of mold mycotoxins they may suffer symptoms, including fatigue, nausea, headaches, and irritation to the lungs and eyes. If you or your family members have health problems that you suspect are caused by exposure to mold, consult with your physician.
