Not guilty of all charges

Last week's Messenger featured a front page story on the trial of Nancy Waller, 67, the former head nurse at Rose Meadow, a New Boston care facility who was on trial facing felony charges that she broke the fingers of a brain-damaged patient in her care. Only after the paper was published did we learn that she was found NOT GUILTY of all charges.

Former Bradford Fire Captain convicted

Given maximum sentence of 8 years in prison

Russell "Rob" Steiz, 53, of Bradford, was sentenced to eight years in prison after he was found guilty of sexually assaulting two Concord women.

Between the summer of 2019 and the spring of 2020, the former Bradford Fire Captain was accused of restraining and sexually assaulting two women, aged 48 and 57 at the time.

According to court documents, in June 2019, the first victim agreed to meet Steiz for coffee at the Starbucks in Concord where he brought her back to his vehicle in the parking lot and attempted to remove her shirt. She later accompanied him to a cleaning service facility where he sexually assaulted her on one of the office desks.

In May 2020, a different woman agreed to meet Steiz for dinner at what she thought was the location of a restaurant but instead, turned out to be his home which he shared with his elderly mother.

After dinner, while sitting around a fire pit, he forced himself on her. She testified that when she told him that she didn't want to do that and began screaming and crying for help, he dragged her to a nearby camper and sexually assaulted her a second time.

In addition to a maximum sentence of eight years in state prison, Steiz will be placed on a 10-year suspended sentence following his release which states that if he were to commit a crime while on probation, another maximum eight-year prison sentence could be imposed.

Bar Harbor Bank & Trust donates $5,000 to New London Barn Playhouse

Bar Harbor Bank & Trust has donated $5,000 to New London Barn Playhouse to provide tuition assistance to youth from low- and moderate-income families who want to participate in the organization's Arts Education programs. The New London Barn Playhouse is the oldest continuously operating summer theater in New Hampshire and offers arts education programming designed to teach confidence, creativity, and team building to young people.

"The New London Barn Playhouse delivers diverse and exceptional programming that excites and inspires hundreds of young people in our community," said Katherine Paine, Branch Relationship Manager at Bar Harbor Bank & Trust. "We are proud to partner with the New London Barn Playhouse to make their arts education accessible to all, and we are excited to see all the participants shine during the 2023 season."

During the summer season, the New London Barn Playhouse's Education Department has two main branches: the Junior Intern Company/Children's Theater Series and Spring Intensive/Summer Camps. The Junior Intern Company is a group of locally-based young people aged 12-17 who are responsible for the production and performance of the Children's Theater Series. The theater camps are designed to introduce children aged 6-11 to various theatrical talents including acting, musical theater, technical theater, playwriting, improvisation, and dance. In 2022, the theater expanded to offer year-round educational programming for students of all ages. The New London Barn Playhouse's new Fleming Center is a hub for theatrical classes, performances, and guest artists throughout the school year. School-year programs include touring productions for young audiences, shows featuring youth artists, and classes that teach puppetry, video creation, playwriting, and more. Both summer and school-year programs at the New London Barn Playhouse are tuition-based, and the Bank's donation will be used to offset the cost of tuition for need-based families.

"I am proud to work at an organization that welcomes every student, regardless of financial need," said Sage Tokach, Director of Education at the New London Barn Playhouse. "Theatre has the power to build confidence, celebrate self-expression, and bring people together, and we believe those benefits should be available and accessible to everyone. Bar Harbor's donation helps us make that vision possible."

Developer seeks to renovate two vacant Central Square buildings

Angelo Trodella of Trodco Management, the new owner of the vacant building at 8 Bridge Street met with the Hillsborough Select Board to discuss the acquisition of 2 Bridge Street with a plan to renovate the properties, and stabilize them with affordable housing units and retail store opportunities.

Trodella believes that since they share a common location, it makes sense to develop them with a common theme, under one ownership so as to be able to manage and maintain these properties efficiently. Furthermore, one developer who seeks to renovate will simplify and better manage construction costs, time of delivery and the overall management of both properties.

Considering its deplorable condition, he is offering to acquire 2 Bridge Street from the town, for a nominal fee of one dollar.

The plan is to maintain the property in its current use by maintain housing above local retail below, and provide an asset that will benefit the town by providing affordable housing units and business opportunities. The Board members were supportive of the idea and directed Town Administrator Laura Buono to check with legal council to see if the transfer could occur without going to bid.

These two Central Square eyesores may soon see a facelift.

Former Smith Memorial Church Pastor Eric Jackson is headed to Cleveland as a member of the United Church of Christ Board of Directors. "It is an honor to serve the Wider Church in this capacity and also represent my congregation and community," he said.

Hopkinton School District voters reject two attempts to reduce the budget

Hopkinton voters gathered at the High School gym last Saturday morning for their Annual School District meeting. The modest two article warrant had no relation to the length of the debate.

The first item up for discussion was the proposed $24,892,924 budget, up 7.5% from the current $23,069,768. It was moved, seconded and up for discussion at just after 8:00 a.m.

Speaker after speaker took to the floor until Louise Carr offered an amendment to reduce the budget to its current $23,069,768. After a lengthy discussion the amendment failed on a 61 Yes to 182 No ballot vote.

Another proposed amendment immediately followed, seeking a modest $200,000 reduction to $24,692,924.

Another lengthy debate followed, resulting in a ballot vote loss 90 Yes to 157 No.

A final ballot vote of 186

Yes to 51 No secured the passage of the original request at about noon. The second article, a request to add $200,000 to District Building Repair & Maintenance Expendable Trust passed unanimously without debate on a voice vote.

with 183 votes) for a seat on the Select Board. NEC student Michael Barnard finished 5th with 34 votes.

Veteran Peter Flynn did not seek reelection.

Cottrell-Baldwin Lecture series, touch on historic preservation, more

The N.H. Division of Forests and Lands, along with the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, has announced this year's lineup for the annual Cottrell-Baldwin Environmental Lecture series, with topics that touch on historic preservation, wildlife and land conservation.

The lecture series honors the environmental and scholarly legacies of Hillsborough residents Annette and William Cottrell, as well as that of New Hampshire's first research forester, Henry Ives Baldwin.

"The Forest Society has partnered with the N.H. Division of Forests and Lands for this lecture series since 2004, and it's always a highlight of early spring," said Dave Anderson, senior director of education at the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests. "We invite anyone who is interested in learning more about our state's engaging outdoors to attend as many of the lectures that their schedules will allow." "Frost heaves and the Cottrell-Baldwin series are a sure sign that we're heading into spring," said Inge Seaboyer, Program Forester at the Caroline A. Fox Research and Demonstration Forest. "Every year, folks tell us how much they look forward to learning more about different natural aspects of our state, and this year's lineup has something to interest everyone."

The 2023 Cottrell-Baldwin Environmental Lecture series takes place Tuesdays, March 21-April 11, from 7-8:30 p.m., at Fox Forest's Henry I. Baldwin Environmental Center, 309 Center Road in Hillsborough.

This year's lectures are: "Covered Bridges of New Hampshire," Kim Varney Chandler, March 21. "Black Bears: Understanding and Controlling Human-Bear Conflicts," Andy Timmins, March 28. "Ten Years and a Dozen Porcupines – an Informal Study," Ann Eldridge and Bill Duffy, April 4. "This Land was Saved for You and Me," Jeffrey Ryan, April 11.

Full descriptions of each lecture are available on the events section of the Forest Society's website, forestsociety.org/events. There is no cost to attend, space is limited and registration in advance is appreciated.

Great progress was made by Eagle Scout candidate Hunter Redmond on his Eagle Scout project. With the help of Troop 2 Boy Scouts and family members, he led the packing of 200 backpacks with the supplies needed for foster children in the Monadnock region.

Clean Water Wins!

One of my top priorities since being elected to the State Senate is ensuring that each and every citizen of our great state has access to clean and safe drinking water. I have been working to identify the issues, causes, and solutions and bringing together a bi-partisan group of legislators that are focused on results, and that's precisely what we've been getting.

So far this session I have introduced SB230 and SB138, which were designed to improve water quality for Granite Staters. In my testimony, I spoke of my hometown of Bedford, and how our water had gotten contaminated over 25 years ago, which is why this issue isn't just important for my district and our state but is also personal for me and my family. SB138 provides an additional $10 million in funding for the Revolving Loan Fund, which helps to combat PFAS contamination in drinking water, while SB230 allocates $30 million towards vital wastewater projects.

These bills are an essential step towards ensuring that every family in New Hampshire has access to clean and safe drinking water, free from harmful pollutants. Clean water is not a luxury; it's a basic human right, and we must do everything in our power to ensure that all our residents have access to it. By working together, we can achieve great things and ensure a brighter future for our families. Our constituents deserve nothing less!

Senator Denise Ricciardi, District 9

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The Hillsborough Community Center fundraising committee wishes to thank The Messenger for including many of our event notices in the paper at no charge. It is because of this type of support that our organization is able to reach many people in the region and allows us to grow stronger through community engagement. Thank you!

Dear Editor:

My name is Christine Dzujna of Ward I. I am a member of the Planning Board, a Superintendent of the Check List, a Director of the Drug Force, and a Trustee of our public library. I am also a member of Franklin's Business and Professional Women and have worked in our school system for nearly 17 years.

I mention these commitments because they are relevant to my total confidence in our Police Chief, David Goldstein, and in his department.

I have been on the Drug Task Board for 3 years and have worked with Chief Goldstein on many projects to educate both our children and the citizens of Franklin on the consequences of substance abuse. Part of our job is to be out in the community to support the city's events such as community day, national night out, drug take back day, Fall festival and the holiday stroll. There has never been a time when Chief Goldstein and his staff were not in complete support of these events.

I have been a library trustee for several years. One of our meeting's discussions included how to make our library friendlier and safer inside and out. We asked Chief Goldstein if one of his staff might join our meeting to discuss safety issues for children and citizens of Franklin. The Chief sent Lieutenant Poirier who was accommodating and gave us good solid information and reminded us that he and his co-workers are always willing to come and help.

As Superintendent of the Checklist, I have never known the police officers to complain about being at the elections. This assignment cannot be as stimulating as others, but they do it and they do it well -- keeping in mind the safety of all who enter the various election sites.

One of the many projects that the BPW conducts is a day camp for high school girls. This camp is about teaching them real life experiences by conducting a reality store in which they travel from event to event to see what it takes to live for a month. In addition to the reality store, we start the day with a keynote speaker. This year our speaker is Police Officer Tracy. She has agreed to speak on what made her become a police officer and what her daily duties consist of. In addition, we asked Chief Goldstein if he would share with our high school students his course on self-defense and without hesitation he said yes.

Finally, for the time I spent in the school system, I have never felt unsafe. Our police department has always been there for the children and they always come with a smile. When times are tough, and the children are having a hard time, they help. When times are tough and the staff are having a hard time, they help. When times are tough and there's a threat, they show up -- completely.

For these reasons, I am without hesitation confident in police chief, David Goldstein, and in his department. I thank them for all they do for the city of Franklin.

Christine P. Dzujna, Franklin

Newport sex offender faces additional charge

A felon and sex offender, convicted of sexual assault against a child in 2009 and accused of sexual assault in February, now faces more charges. Thibeault was arrested in February on six felony counts of aggravated felonious sexual assault and one of second-degree assault-domestic violence-strangulation after an incident in Salisbury. During the course of the investigation, an additional sexual assault was identified, said Amber Lagace, the public information officer for the state police. Thibeault is a felon and sex offender due to a felonious sexual assault charge from October 2008 and a reckless conduct charge from August 2008 in Sullivan County. He pleaded guilty to both charges in April 2009. The victim in the sexual assault case was under 16, according to state records. Thibeault pleaded guilty to a probation violation in November 2010, connected to the cases. Thibeault was convicted on a criminal trespassing charge in May 2012.

Tractor-Trailer crashes twice in Hopkinton

A Connecticut tractor-trailer driver was arrested in Hopkinton late Tuesday night after state police say he tried to avoid an inspection and crashed into a cement pole before attempting to flee on foot. Jermaine Eubanks, 42, of Tolland, Connecticut, was charged with conduct after an accident, reckless driving and reckless conduct. Hopkinton police responded to the McLane distribution center on Maple Street for a report of a crash involving a commercial motor vehicle. Upon learning that the Department of Safety's Motor Carrier Unit was called in to conduct an inspection of the truck, the driver attempted to drive off, striking a cement pole and an exit gate, officials said. The second crash "resulted in significant property damage and caused the front axle of the trailer to become disconnected," the release said. That's when the driver attempted to flee on foot and was arrested by Hopkinton police, officials said. State police said several motor vehicle carrier violations were observed and the tractor-trailer was placed out of service, an order given to a commercial driver or vehicle "to protect the public from imminent safety hazards." Driver inattention appears to have been a factor in the crash, officials said.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

BY SARAH CHAPIN

Ivermectin is a drug approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to treat parasites in animals and in humans with intestinal strongyloidiasis (roundworm) and onchocerciasis (river blindness) orally, as well as ectoparasites and skin conditions topically. Ivermectin is not approved by the FDA to treat or prevent COVID-19. Nonetheless, prescriptions of ivermectin by U.S. health care providers increased more than tenfold from 3,589 per week pre-COVID-19 to 39,102. In addition, the U.S. National Institutes of Health (NIH), World Health Organization (WHO) and European Medicine Agency (EMA) have all advised against using ivermectin to treat or prevent COVID-19.

Pancreatic cancer is an extremely difficult cancer to treat. Notwithstanding many advancements in our understanding of the biology of pancreatic cancer, current treatments do not have much of an effect on prognosis. Unless it's caught early, which is rare, only about 10% of patients survive five years past diagnosis. However, new research that is the largest population-based study of this question, published in BMC Cancer, shows that medications commonly prescribed to treat high blood pressure, ARB-type therapies — which include drugs such as valsartan and losartan — and ACE inhibitors, including benazepril, ramipril or Lisinopril may also improve survival in patients with pancreatic cancer. These medications for hypertension do not have a lot of side effects — far fewer than chemotherapy, for example — and yet data suggests that they might extend life in patients with pancreatic cancer.

PROTECTING YOUR HOME FROM FLOODS

By: Joyce Bosse

If you live in a floodplain, elevate and reinforce your home to make damage less likely during a flood.

Check with a professional to:

- Raise your furnace, water heater, and electric panel to floors that are less likely to be flooded. An undamaged water heater may be your best source of fresh water after a flood.

- Install check valves in plumbing to prevent floodwater from backing up into the drains of your home. (As a last resort, when floods threaten, use large corks or stoppers to plug showers, tubs, or basins.)

- Construct barriers such as levees, berms, and flood walls to stop floodwater from entering the building (if permitted by local building codes).

- Seal walls in basements with waterproofing compounds to avoid seepage through cracks.

Use sand bags when flooding is expected. It takes two people about one hour to fill and place 100 sandbags, creating a wall one foot high and 20 feet long. Make sure you have enough sand, burlap or plastic bags, shovels, strong helpers, and time to place them properly. If a flood is expected, some communities will offer free sandbags to residents. Be sure to watch or listen to the news so you can access these resources.

Remember: standard homeowners insurance doesn't cover flooding, but flood insurance does. Get information at www.FloodSmart.gov.

CHOOSING A TOOTHPASTE

Q: What's the right toothpaste for me?

A: The best way to answer that question is to talk with your dentist about it. There are lots of toothpastes on the market, and not all are the same. See what your dentist thinks about which ones may be best for your particular needs.

One main consideration in picking a toothpaste is to make sure it carries the American Dental Association (ADA) Seal of Acceptance. The seal is awarded only to those products that have passed a demanding testing procedure and have been proven effective. Another key consideration is that the toothpaste contain fluoride, a key element in preventing tooth decay. The ADA also notes that toothpastes containing an ingredient called triclosan can combat gingivitis, the early stage of gum disease, or periodontal disease.

Older people, whose gums may have receded a bit, leaving sensitive roots partially exposed, may want a toothpaste with a desensitizing agent that reduces the potential discomfort of exposure to heat or cold. Some people may be in the market for a paste with a whitening agent. Also, you want a toothpaste that's going to make your mouth feel clean and fresh. That way, you'll be eager to use it.

Hopkinton Girls Nordic Teams places 2nd

When all NHIAA Nordic programs competed against each other, the Plymouth and Hopkinton girls' teams were in the top two spots. So at Wednesday's Division II championship, it stands to reason that it would happen again.

The Hawks placed five skiers in the top 11 in the classic race and followed that up with five in the top 12 of the afternoon freestyle race, finishing just nine points behind Plymouth when all was said and done at the Great Glen Trails.

Plymouth won the D-II girls' team title with 758 points, with Hopkinton (749), Lebanon (700), Hanover (674) and Gilford (659) rounding out the top five.

FREE AD POLICY

We purchased The Messenger in 1989. In that time, we have always felt that we held the paper in trust for the communities we serve. We firmly believe that a weekly newspaper can and should be a valuable community resource. In that light, we have never charged Hearts of Hillsborough, Lions, Rotary or Kiwanis Clubs, Masons, Historical Societies, Boy & Girl Scouts, PTOs, School Groups, or area Churches to advertise their events.

We give as large an ad as we can, space permitting, as frequently as we can, free of charge, provided the same ad is not being paid for in another publication. If a competitor is being paid we do charge, but we discount our ad by at least 50%. We challenge our competitors to do likewise.
