2-year-old will save 8-month-old brother

Francestown family is fundraising for lifesaving procedure for "Team Tommy"

At just eight months old, Thomas Henry Shattuck of Francestown is in the fight of his life.

Living with an extremely rare genetic diagnosis, Tommy needs a stem cell transplant to survive.

Tommy's two-year-old brother, Kayden, is a match to donate stem cells to Tommy and save his younger brother's life.

Tommy has been diagnosed with Chediak-Higashi Syndrome (CHS), an extremely rare genetic condition. Currently, CHS primarily results in severe light sensitivity due to ocular albinism.

But if left untreated, CHS can enter an accelerated state called hemophagocytic lymphohistiocytosis (HLH). HLH can be fatal: children like Tommy who do not receive a stem cell transplant typically do not survive to age 10. A successful transplant will significantly decrease the risk of HLH and prolong Tommy's life.

Tommy will receive chemotherapy at Dana Farber Cancer Institute (Jimmy Fund Clinic) and then receive the stem cell donation from Kayden at Boston Children's Hospital.

To help with the out-of-pocket costs associated with the stem cell transplant, they have started a fundraising campaign with the trusted national nonprofit Help Hope Live. Donations can be made at: https://helphopelive. org/campaign/22380/

You can also show your support for "Team Tommy" by purchasing shirts or sweatshirts from the Bonfire campaign at: https://www.bonfire.com/transplant-for-tommy-teamtommy/

Funds raised through online donations and Bonfire sales will be administered by Help Hope Live. Unlike a GoFundMe campaign, donations to Help Hope Live are tax deductible to the extent allowed by law, and all funds raised will be managed by the nonprofit to cover only verified medical and related expenses. Help Hope Live verifies medical and financial need for every patient.

Bradford Select Board discusses Town Hall & Masonic Building

The Bradford Select Board was given an update of various projects currently underway. Easements for the electrical work at the Town Hall are in place. Tree work will begin next week. The excavation for the cisterns, septic and underground electric conduit will take place mid-July. The interior painting continues; sheetrock in the basement is underway; trim and baseboard heater are being installed on the first and second floors. Contoocook Well has taken a preliminary look at the well and will be back to test the pump etc in a few weeks. The new main entrance design (at the side of the building) is complete. LCHIP has agreed to allow removal of the concrete wall to the West of the building to allow for placement of an underground propane tank.

A discussion about the Masonic Building revealed that a committee has been formed and began meeting on June 28th.

Bradford Police receive $24,973 Department of Justice grants

Bradford Police Chief William both departments are at the Chandler informed the Select Board of the receipt of a grant for $10,989 to buy Radio Repeaters for cruisers; officers to carry 7 watt portable radios and cruisers to have 100 watt radios; a repeater system will be installed in each of the three cruisers and will give the portable radios 100 watts - when an officer is away from the cruiser, up to 150 feet.

Communications will be greatly enhanced. Use by the fire department is possible when same scene.

The cost includes installation, programming, etc; repeaters are on order. A second grant of $13,984 will fund the purchase of up to four radar speed signs: one sign to be placed at Old Main Street; a second sign to be placed on the "flats of West Main Street." The signs collect data; example: peak days and times of the fastest traffic. Placing cruisers at these times will allow better target of enforcement.

Henniker adds members to Economic Development Committee

Henniker Selectman Bill Marko, on behalf of the Planning Board - Economic Development Committee informed the Select Board that there had been discussion at the recent Planning Board meeting that the Economic Development Committee needs some revitalization, and they believe having more seats for nonaffiliated groups will help the committee work towards success. A discussion ensued and Selectman Marko moved to add two local residents to the Economic Development Committee, increasing the number of active members to nine. The motion carried unanimously.

Signs are a high-speed deterrent; they do not give out tickets; radar will be mounted to speed limit signs; drivers will see their traveling speed and the posted speed for the road. The two other speed radar signs will be placed on roads when there is a complaint or a needed traffic count; data collected will be valuable to the department.

After a short discussion the board voted to approve accepting and expending the Department of Justice grants.

Henniker Select Board reviews alternatives to "Death Valley" intersection

Mike Mozer, NH DOT Project Manager met with the Henniker Select Board to review the preliminary engineering work of the Route 202 and Old Concord Road Intersection. Mr. Mozer gave background on the project at the intersection of Route 202, Old Concord Road, and 127, also know as "Death Alley."

The goal of this project is to work on safety deficiencies. He noted the accidents of the week prior. Mozer presented three alternatives to the intersection — a signalized intersection, a hybrid roundabout, and a separated interchange. Each alternative is much safer than the current intersection, but each alternative comes with its own set of challenges. A signalized intersection, traffic lights, would cause traffic to back up, much more so than a roundabout. It was noted that many people are not familiar with how to drive in a roundabout.

The separated interchange would be the safest alternative, Fire Chief Jim Morse agreed, but also has the largest impact on the area.

This would also cost about 20 million dollars, unlike the other alternatives that would cost 3-4 million.

Mr. Mozer noted that there is not currently enough funding

Reopening of historic Hancock Inn postponed

Reopening the Hancock Inn has apparently been delayed. The Inn has been closed since April 2022 when Boston-based 33 Main Street Realty Group LLC purchased it from Jarvis and Marcia Coffin for $1.15 million.

Originally the building was scheduled to reopen this summer, but excessive rain and some outstanding renovations have delayed the opening to September or later. for this alternative, and the project would have to return to the 10 year plan. There was much discussion on this item. Jeff Santacruce, of Weston & Sampson, joined Mr. Mozer to expand on the details of this project. The Selectboard asked many questions on this item. Mr. Mozer shared that there will be a public informational meeting in August.

State votes to accept $7 million in federal funds to aid Crotched Mountain School

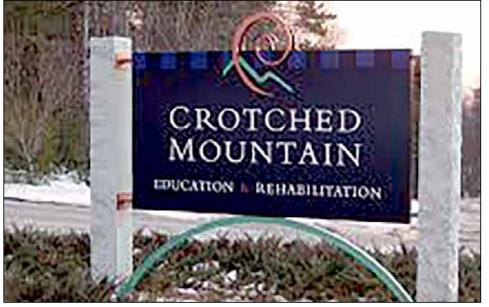

The N.H. Executive Council has voted to accept $7 million in federal COVID-relief money for Crotched Mountain School in Greenfield. The money is intended to allow the school to make necessary improvements to increase student enrollment.

NH Commissioner of Education Frank Edelblut told the council that the work is needed on heating and cooling systems, roofs, roads, parking lots, staff buildings, therapy pools and classrooms of the school which serves young people with autism and other disabilities.

A contract governing how the money would be spent will be presented to the Executive Council for its consideration at a later meeting to be determined. The five-member council, which shares executive power with the governor, approves receipt and expenditure of state and federal funds. Massachusetts-based Seven Hills Foundation, a nonprofit human services organization, purchased the 125-acre campus, which contains 31 buildings, last November from Gersh Autism and has been working to make improvements. The month before the sale, Gersh announced it would be closing the school due to staffing problems.

Before voting to accept the federal money, some of the councilors sought assurances from Edelblut that the funds would be spent wisely.

Executive Councilor Cinde Warmington, D-Concord, whose district takes in much of the Monadnock Region, asked Edelblut if he was confident that Seven Hills "can't flip it and take the profit" after it receives the money. "We're going to make sure that the investments we make result in assets that get placed in service, and that they get placed in service to the benefit of New Hampshire residents for an appropriate amount of time, so that they are not flipped in a real estate deal or something like that," Edelblut said. Edelblut said the school is licensed to serve 105 students in residence, but is able to serve only 26 until its facilities are improved.

"Right now there are 26, but there's more like 50 to 60 families that are very interested in knowing this is going forward," he said. "I think they are scared to death that their kids are going to have to go out of state." Seven Hills Foundation's website states it has 235 health and human service locations in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and eight countries. Crotched Mountain School serves students ages 6 to 21, the majority of whom have an autism diagnosis. "We specialize in communication disorders and pride ourselves on helping students —regardless of ability — achieve maximum independence to live a great life in the community," the school says on its website.

New London Select Board updated on the Whipple Hall renovations

Phil Sherman met with the New London Select Board to give the monthly update on the project: all is proceeding satisfactorily. He reported that the wall installation is completed, and the holes are filled and the plaster repair is being done, the acoustic panels have been ordered and they are expected by mid-July which will work well as storage of the panels will not be needed for as long as originally thought. New lighting has been installed and the new electrical has been roughed in.

The sprinkler mains have been installed in the attic and smaller piping is being installed throughout the building. HVAC upgrades are underway, some duct work is installed near the stage. Dispatching expansion is underway. One unexpected issue is a chandelier that fell out of the ceiling and onto the scaffolding. Mr. Sherman noted that since the chandelier fell only 2-3 feet, it was not damaged, however the threads that attach it to the ceiling were stripped and must be repaired. He noted that the other three chandeliers will also be taken down and repaired to ensure they will not have a similar failure. He noted that it is impossible to say why the failure occurred, he theorizes that when light bulbs have been replaced in the past the chandelier was turned instead of moving the ladder to access the bulbs. The chandelier has been sent to Multi-Weld in Contoocook to see how it can be repaired to be reinstalled. Mr. Sherman observed that this could have caused serious injury or death had it fallen during a meeting.

The construction schedule is on track for North Branch to finish by August 15th and then there will be some issues remaining for the town to finish like reinstallation of the AV system. Mr. Sherman noted that while things can change, like the chandelier issue, overall, the project is moving along very well. He noted that the budget is on track and he expects that by the end of next month we will have a better idea of the contingency funds currently reserved in the project.

Peter Nichols asked if there will be outlets on the floor for use in meetings. Mr. Sherman confirmed that there would be — the outlets will be waterproof and the covers will be secured so they are only open when needed.

Mt. Kearsarge Indian Museum Powwow in Warner on July 8-9

When Jennifer Lee was growing up, her home town of Harrison, New York was divided by a railroad track. On one side lived the Jewish population, and on the other, Catholic Italians. Lee grew up on the Jewish side, unaware of her Jewish heritage, but attended church with the Catholic Italians. That experience later cemented a life-long purpose to serve as a bridge between cultures.

Later, as a young woman unaware of her Native American heritage, Lee lived in a tepee in Northern California for several years, where her first child was born.

For the past 35 years, Lee has made her home in rural Plainfield, Massachusetts, where she cuts trees on her own land, harvests the bark and searches the woods for other materials to make bark baskets.

Historically, Native Americans used baskets for storage and for gathering food, water and other supplies crucial for their survival.

Unlike the more common woven baskets. Lee's bark baskets are made from a single piece of bark, folded to create shape, then sewn together with spruce roots and rimmed with red osier dogwood. Ash and white pine bark are her preferred materials.

Lee learned to make bark baskets about 40 years ago, by studying Native history and watching a man make them at a Vermont powwow. Since then, she has taught her craft at many Native American gatherings around the country, and offers classes to small groups.

"I enjoy it immensely when I teach bark basket making. I feel like I'm truly myself, and people love me for it," she said.

Jennifer Lee will be demonstrating basket making and

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

Patients prescribed antibiotics in hospital are more likely to get fungal infections because of disruption to the immune system in the gut, according to a new study published in Cell Host and Microbe. The life-threatening fungal infection invasive candidiasis is a major complication for hospitalized patients who are given antibiotics to prevent sepsis and other bacterial infections that spread quickly around hospitals (such as C. diff). Using immune-boosting drugs alongside the antibiotics could reduce the health risks from these complex infections, say the researchers.

In a study recently published in Developmental Cell, researchers explain how they identified the autophagy pathway in hair cells that's linked to permanent hearing loss brought about by aminoglycosides — a class of antibiotics. The researchers also developed one of the first laboratory models that is insusceptible to aminoglycoside-induced hearing loss.

Ototoxicity — hearing loss caused by medication — is one of the main causes of hearing loss in humans. More than 48 million people in the United States experience trouble hearing.

Aminoglycosides for nearly a century have been used to treat severe infections. Although the drug is a first-line treatment for life-threatening infections particularly in developing countries — due to their low cost and low incidence of antibiotic resistance, it has been reported to cause hair cell death and subsequent permanent hearing loss among 20-47% of patients, but the underlying mechanisms are not clear. Hair cells are responsible for sound reception in the inner ear.

USING RETIREMENT FUNDS FOR A DOWN PAYMENT

Before you can become a homeowner, you have to scrape up enough dough for a down payment. If you have an IRA or a 401(k) account, you might be able to tap into those funds to help buy a home. Savers with a traditional IRA can withdraw up to $10,000 from the account to buy, build or rebuild a first home without paying the 10% early-withdrawal penalty — even if you're younger than age 59½. (To qualify as a first home, you and your spouse cannot have owned a home for the past two years.) However, even though you escape the penalty, you're still required to pay tax on the amount you withdraw.

By: Joyce Bosse

With a Roth IRA, you can withdraw contributions at any time and for any reason without facing a tax or penalty. The IRS has already taken its cut. You can also withdraw up to $10,000 in earnings before age 591/2 to help buy a first home without being hit with the 10% penalty for early withdrawals. (Your spouse can do the same.) If you've had the account for five years, the earnings will be tax-free, too.

If you want to pull money out of a 401(k) account to put toward a down payment, you'll have to borrow from the plan. You can typically take out a tax- and penalty-free loan from your 401(k) plan for up to half of your balance, but not more than $50,000. Money borrowed from a 401(k) usually must be paid back (with interest) within five years, but the repayment period for loans used to purchase a main home can be extended.

ENAMEL WEAR

Q: How can I minimize the wear on my teeth's enamel?

A: Your teeth's enamel is the hardest element in your body. But it is susceptible to wear and tear just like any other part of the body. Some food and liquid that passes through our mouth is more corrosive to enamel than are others. For instance, though fruit and fruit juice are good for us in some ways, those that contain citric acid, like oranges, lemons and bananas, are potentially damaging to teeth enamel. You should also consume carbonated drinks in moderation. In addition, you even also need to be careful about the toothpaste you use. You should avoid toothpastes with abrasives in them, even though they may be marketed as tooth-whitening, stain-removing marvels.

Here are some other things to consider: Chewable tablets, like those for vitamin C, aspirin or iron, can be corrosive, as can be repeated vomiting from alcoholism or bulimia. Refluxed gastric acid from a hiatus hernia or some other medical condition is also damaging to teeth.

So, if you are concerned about enamel erosion, you should minimize contact with teeth when drinking acidic juices. Use a straw, for instance. And with medicines or supplements that can be corrosive, take them in a solid form that you can swallow immediately. Talk with your dentist about other ways to protect the enamel on your teeth.

Contoocook Railroad Museum receives Kearsarge Chamber grant

The Kearsarge Area Chamber of Commerce has generously provided a grant in the amount of $3,360 to the Contoocook Railroad Museum Visitor Center.

This grant will be used to fund summertime hours for the visitor center. Regular scheduled hours at the visitor center will help to promote area businesses and organizations to visitors and residents. Kearsarge Chamber members are encouraged to contact either the museum or the chamber if they would like to schedule a pop-up shop at the museum. The Contoocook Riverway Association owns the historic depot completed in 1849, the world's oldest surviving railroad covered bridge, a 1907 Pullman Coach car, and a late 1800's section house recently moved to the property. #### No injuries reported as fire consumes a Dunbarton home

A Dunbarton home was destroyed after it caught fire Friday night. A neighbor called 911 around 8:20 p.m. after seeing flames coming from the home on Rangeway Road. Fire Chief Jonathan Wiggin was the first firefighter to respond, and saw fire coming out of the roof when he arrived. Crews from more than a half dozen towns responded to the two-alarm fire. It was brought under control in

It was brought under control in about 45 minutes, but firefighters remained on the scene putting water on hotspots.

Not Guilty pleas for couple accused with selling body parts

The Goffstown couple indicted for selling and mailing body parts stolen from the Harvard Medical School's morgue pleaded not guilty in a Pennsylvania federal court last week, at a hearing which took place via video conference.

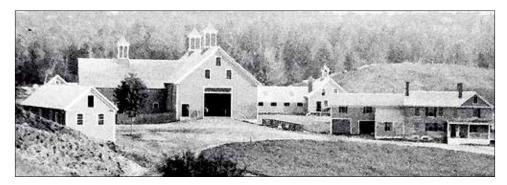

Cedric Lodge, 55, the former morgue manager, and his wife, Denise Lodge, 63, are both charged in the scheme. Both were released on a set of conditions, including seeking employment, surrendering passports and submitting supervision reports.

Cedric Lodge is accused of letting buyers come in to the morgue to pick out body parts they wanted to buy.

He would allegedly steal parts of donated cadavers like brains, skin and bones, bring them to his home and ship them to buyers through the U.S. Postal Service.

The gruesome scheme allegedly operated from 2018 through 2022, according to a complaint filed in federal court in Scranton, Pennsylvania, where one of the four other defendants lives.

"The History of Agriculture as told by Barns"

The New Boston Historical Society welcomes John Porter to speak on "The History of Agriculture as Told by Barns" at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, July 13 in the New Boston Community Church.

The evolution of barn architecture tells the story of New Hampshire agriculture. Barns changed from the early English style to Yankee style, to gambrel and then pole barns to accommodate the changing agriculture. This presentation is a chronological walk through time, with photo illustrations of barns around the state that reflect three centuries of changes.

John Porter was raised on a dairy farm in Lebanon, NH. He graduated from the University of New Hampshire with a B.S. Degree in Animal Science, and then went on to get a master's degree from Cornell University in Animal Nutrition and Farm Management. Later he earned a master's degree from Bob Jones University in Education Administration. He served as a Dairy Specialist for the UNH Cooperative Extension for many years. He has authored several books about old barns.

Our speaker is provided by a grant from NH Humanities. This event is free and open to the public. Refreshments and a business meeting will follow at the museum in the Wason Memorial Building across the street from the church. See www.newbostonhistoricalsociety. com for more information.

Hopkinton Committee studying compost program

Hopkinton has joined Bow and New London in exploring alternatives to sending food waste to the landfill while joining other communities in its commitment to environmental responsibility.

Bonnie Christie, co-chair of the Hopkinton Waste Reduction Committee, recently presented a proposal to the Select Board for a pilot program to explore a collaboration with Renewal Compost, the same pick-up service that those towns use to reduce food waste.

Although Select Board members welcomed the idea of composting, concerns were raised during the meeting regarding the cost of the project. While the project has not been turned down, the Select Board asked the solid waste reduction committee to conduct more research on the cost associated with the compost program and investigate how other towns have managed and budgeted for similar expenses.

Robert Howard Law Office Henniker, New Hampshire

I have enjoyed my practice in Henniker and the surrounding towns for many years. Lately, I have been focusing my efforts to maintain an office practice, such as real estate issues, estate planning and administration. I have been referring more complex matters to other firms for some years, such as criminal matters, divorces, and injury recoveries.

Alfano Law Office is a firm with offices in several towns and cities, including Concord. They have accepted my request to name them as "Of Counsel" to my practice, so that my clients can benefit from their expertise, if they choose. I receive no financial benefit for these referrals, but can be comfortable that my clients will be in good hands for matters requiring more work than I am willing to attempt. That being said, I hope to be available to my many clients for a long time.

Heavy rains cause washouts

Downpours damaged more New Hampshire roads early this week, hitting hardest in the southwestern part of the state. On Francestown Road in Bennington, crews were seen putting the finishing touches on filling the side of the road that took the most damage.

Meanwhile, in Hillsborough, police tape was seen Tuesday blocking off Center Road, which had at least two large holes in it that were surrounded by traffic cones and barriers.

Some roads were patched up and ready to go within hours, while others were still closed.

Some flooding over the roads, and some of the culverts getting clogged up.
