Greenfield man injured, in critical condition

Airlifted to UMass Memorial Medical Center with serious lung injury

A Greenfield man suffered a serious injury and was airlifted to a Massachusetts hospital Saturday after going off the road on his motorcycle and hitting a stone wall. According to Greenfield Police Chief Brian Giammarino, Ted Henley was traveling north on Route 136 around noon on a motorcycle when he lost control and went into a ditch, hitting the wall. Giammarino said that Henley suffered a lung injury, and added that when first responders arrived, Henley was conscious and alert but in extreme pain. Henley was airlifted to UMass Memorial Medical Center in Worcester for treatment. A spokesperson from the hospital said Tuesday that Henley was in "critical" condition.

Windham man killed in I-89 crash in Warner

A man from Windham has died after a crash on Interstate 89 in Warner on Monday. New Hampshire State Police were called to the area of Mile Marker 16.6 for a report of a crash on the northbound side of the highway. When they arrived, they found a 2008

Infiniti had driven to the left side of the highway, between Exits 6 and 7, Amber Lagace, the public information officer for state police, said. "Currently," she stated, "all aspects of the collision remain under investigation."

The driver, Douglas E. Malone, 60, of Windham, sustained fatal injuries during the crash. He was the only occupant of the vehicle.

Warner and Hopkinton police, Warner and Hopkinton firefighters, and the New Hampshire Department of Transportation assisted Troop D troopers.

New London Recreation Commission reviews its plans and goals with the Select Board

Putnam Kidder, New London Recreation Director attended the Select Board meeting along with Jackie Christensen, Chair of the Recreation Commission to provide an overview of the plans and goals of the department. Mr. Kidder shared the three components of their mission statement:

1. Provide safe and well-maintained recreational spaces which encourage healthy lifestyles and appreciation for our beautiful natural surroundings;

2. Promote community connection through cross-generational and inclusive recreation and leisure experiences; and

3. Offer quality programs and activities in a cooperative spirit with community partners. Jackie Christensen shared that this is a new mission statement that was adopted last year. It was intentionally rewritten to help differentiate between what the New London Recreation Department does and what the Outing Club does. It was also to emphasize cross-generational offerings and to encourage partnerships to combine resources and talents and provide enriching opportunities for the town.

Mr. Kidder shared they would like to do a survey to understand what the community wants and to get input on needs that they may not be meeting. Feedback is important to get an idea about the best programming to offer. Selectman Casey suggested having the Recreation Department attend a Selectmen's meeting in September to get an update on survey results and to report on the beaches from the summer season.

Downtown Newport gets New Public Mural in style of vintage postcard

The Library Arts Center and the Newport Public Art Collaborative — a newly-formed partnership with the Newport Area Chamber of Commerce, has worked to create a new vintage postcard-style mural that was installed in downtown Newport in July. This large-scale public art piece, created in the same style as the popular “Greetings from” postcards, depicts the Corbin Covered Bridge in the fall, as well as popular scenes from around town (skating on the Common, the Opera House, the Library and more). The mural was painted by artist Heidi Lorenz — the lead artist of the Newport Heritage Mural Reproduction in 2022.

The mural, on the back side of the building which houses Petal Patch, is visible when entering downtown from Sunapee Street.

The Arts Center received a generous grant from the Claremont Savings Bank Foundation in support of the Mural, as well as many generous donations via the NHGives campaign earlier this summer.

This mural by artist Heidi Lorenz was installed on the building by Lorenz with help from volunteers Greg Yong and Chris Boyd. Before being installed, the mural received a thorough automotive-grade sealant coat of UV ray protection, which was applied by Cameron Mull.

“We are so excited to have this new mural in town,” commented Kate Luppold, Executive Director of the Library Arts Center, “Not only is this a gorgeous new public art piece, but it signifies the start of a five-year ... Newport Public Art Collaborative’s commitment to bring new murals to downtown Newport each year.”

The Library Arts Center, and Newport Chamber of Artist Heidi Lorenz stands in front of Newport’s new “Postcard Mural” that she painted. The piece was installed on this building in downtown Newport (home to Petal Patch) in mid-July.

Commerce formed the Newport Public Art Collaborative based on examples around the state and country where municipalities have built community engagement and pride, as well as economic development through the addition of substantial public art to downtown districts.

Much like the postcard mural, all the murals added to the downtown area through this collaborative will have a historic feel and will be themed on what is special about our town and region. “As this work is rooted in community engagement, the Newport Public Art Collaborative will be looking to community members to decide what should be depicted in future murals,” stated Luppold. Opportunities to bring ideas forward, and ultimately vote on what will be depicted in the upcoming murals will begin later this summer.

There will also be many opportunities for community members to be involved in this process as artists and as volunteers and sponsors to help make this all possible. More information on how to become involved will be available at libraryartscenter.org in the coming weeks.

Attorney General reports that Warner Connects has completed all requirements

A crowd of nearly 50 people attended as the Warner Select Board met for the first time with its newly appointed member, Faith Minton.

Minton was appointed after two members, Jody Sloane and Christine Frost had resigned. The resignations followed a meeting on July 11 where board members debated a town contract with Warner Connects, the local food pantry, to lease the space they currently occupy in the Old Grade School building. The food pantry had previously never paid rent as a tenant in the building.

However, this spring the select board decided they would charge the tenants of the building, which also includes the Community Action Program, Gear Up and the Boys and Girls Club, based on the square footage each organization uses, to help offset building costs. In the most recent proposed lease between the town and Warner Connects, which has yet to be signed, rent would be $400 per month.

Tuesday's meeting opened with Chair Harry Seidel reading a letter from the Attorney General's Charitable Trust

Division, reporting that Warner Connects had filled all its required documentation. Seidel said that was great news and they could now "move on" to the unsigned lease between the Board and Warner Connects, emphasizing fire code requirements. He refused to allow members of Warner Connects to speak at that time.

However, after completing the rest of the agenda, the meeting was then devoted to a prolonged discussion over Warner Connects' concerns over some of the requirements. No decision was made but the consensus seemed to agree with Warner Connects.

Newly appointed Faith Minton (R) joined Harry Seidel (L) on the Warner Select Board.

Warner seeking Select Board volunteer

Faith Minton outlined what the Select Board will be looking for in a board volunteer, including qualities of how they engage and communicate, with an intention to build rapport with a measured approach; high character, dependability, respectfulness, open mindedness and with the best interests of the town in mind.

Deering Fire/Rescue needs: a new chief, a new ambulance, several new firefighters

Acting Fire Chief Doug Connor informed the Deering Select Board that they received 11 applications for the Fire Chief position.

He said Pat Murdough and Chris Parece will review them with Town Administrator Peter Flynn next week. TA Flynn said the process will be to have interviews 1-2 weeks later. Chair Smith said she would like to see the top two candidates brought to the Selectmen.

Selectman Diers asked if they could meet with the Selectmen to go over their top choices, once the hiring team has narrowed it down. It was agreed to have the committee meet with the Selectmen prior to final interviews with the candidates.

Chief Connor also reported that they have only four active per-diem employees currently, but they do have an interview with a paramedic next week. He said he also met with a perspective Fire Fighter with certifications that has relocated to Deering from Connecticut. Chair Smith asked what was being done to advertise for per-diems.

Assistant Chief Connor answered the State website and said they could put it on the Town Website. Chair Smith suggested posting it on the NH Municipal Association site as well as in the local newspaper. Chair Smith asked what days they currently have coverage. Chief Connor answered there is at least one per-diem scheduled per day through the week. Chair Smith asked if the Fire Department could research and provide what the competitive wages are for the area. Chair Smith asked if they had bids for the Ambulance. Assistant Chief Connor answered that they have a demo ambulance coming next week to look at and said that one of the bids has everything they need and more for the right price.

New London financial advisor ordered to repay $11 million in clients' lost investments

A former New London-based financial adviser has been ordered to pay more than $11 million in restitution to investors — including many on fixed incomes — who lost money on high-risk securities.

Thomas M. Chadwick of Chadwick & D'Amato, LLC, has 30 days to request a hearing to contest the allegations in a petition by the state's Bureau of Securities Regulation. Secretary of State David M. Scanlan issued the order.

If Chadwick doesn't request a hearing, a default judgment will be entered.

In addition to restitution, Chadwick was ordered to pay interest, a fine and investigation and enforcement costs.

Scanlan's order also bars Chadwick from being licensed to trade securities in New Hampshire.

The Bureau of Securities Regulation alleges that Chadwick committed investment adviser fraud that resulted in more than $11.1 million in client losses. According to the Secretary of State's office, Chadwick's clients were primarily low- to moderate-risk investors, with most categorized as elderly and retired individuals relying on fixed-income disbursements.

According to the petition, between the fall of 2017 and December 2021, Chadwick invested most of his clients' funds into "a risky, complex security product" that was traded under the ticker symbol REMLs, composed of unsecured debt securities not backed by collateral.

"Despite this, Chadwick frequently concentrated between 50 to 92 percent of his clients' total investment portfolio values on REML," Bureau of Securities Regulation officials said in a statement. "He held REML shares in their accounts for an average of 386 days."

REML's share price fell steadily from the mid-$20 range in late February 2020 to just $0.52 per share — its lowest value — on March 18, 2020.

In April 2022, the bureau filed a petition for emergency relief against Chadwick in a separate case, alleging he fraudulently used the usernames and passwords of 27 former clients to log into Fidelity brokerage accounts and make trades, causing a lockdown of those accounts.

The Hillsboro-Deering Bookmobile was distributing free books around town last week.

Pfizer's oral antiviral drug (a combination of nirmatrelvir and ritonavir tablets) is strongly recommended for patients with non-severe covid-19 who are at highest risk of hospitalization, such as unvaccinated, older, or immunosuppressed patients, with lack of vaccination as an additional risk factor to consider, says a WHO Guideline Development Group of international experts in The BMJ. The experts explain that nirmatrelvir/ritonavir likely represents a superior choice for these patients because it may prevent more hospitalizations than the alternatives, has fewer potential negative side effects than the antiviral drug molnupiravir, and is easier to administer than intravenous options such as remdesivir and antibody treatments. However, they recommend against its use in patients at lower risk, as the benefits are trivial. And they make no recommendation for patients with severe or critical covid-19, as there are currently no trial data on nirmatrelvir/ritonavir for this group.

Drugs known as antidopaminergic antiemetics (ADAs) that are widely used to relieve nausea and vomiting caused, for instance, by migraine, chemotherapy or radiotherapy, and after surgery are associated with an increased risk of ischemic stroke, finds a study published by The BMJ. The results show that all three ADAs studied (domperidone, metopimazine, and metoclopramide) were associated with an increased risk, especially in the first days of use, but the highest increase was found for metopimazine and metoclopramide. The researchers suggest that the potential action of ADAs on blood flow to the brain could explain this higher risk. Like antipsychotics, ADAs are antidopaminergic drugs — they work by blocking dopamine activity in the brain. Antipsychotics have been associated with an increased risk of ischemic stroke, but whether this risk could extend to other antidopaminergics including ADAs is not known.

DEDUCTION OF RENTAL EXPENSES

By: Joyce Bosse

What if you rent out a part of your home, such as a room or the basement? You'll owe tax on your rental income, but you can deduct expenses for the rental space. Potentially deductible expenses include insurance, repair and general maintenance costs, real estate taxes, utilities, supplies, and more. You can also deduct depreciation on the part of your house used for rental purposes, and on any furniture or equipment in the rented space. You don't have to itemize to deduct the rental-space expenses on Schedule A, either. Instead, you claim them on Schedule E (Form 1040) and subtract them from your rental income.

The tricky part is figuring out how much you can deduct if an expense covers the whole house, such as an electric bill or property taxes. In this case, you have to divide the expense and allocate a portion of it to the rental space. You can use any reasonable method for dividing the expense. For example, if you rent a 200-square-foot room in a 2,000-square-foot house, you can simply allocate (and deduct) 10% of any whole-house cost as a rental expense. You don't have to divide expenses that are only connected to the rented area. For instance, if you paint a room that you rent, your entire cost is a deductible rental.

PERILS OF NAIL BITING

Q: Is nail-biting harmful for your teeth?

A: Nail-biting, a habit indulged in by thousands of adults and children, is not a good practice for a number of reasons related to oral health. Regarding the teeth, if the habit develops when a child is very young, it can contribute to development of a gap between the front teeth. Dentists have also discovered that the type of person who is prone to biting nails — and fingers — may also be one who is prone to picking at their gums.

But it's not just the teeth and gums that are put at risk through the habit of biting nails or fingers. Any activity that requires holding the teeth at unnatural angles for extended periods can injure the jaw joint, also known as the temporomandibular joint (TMJ). The injury is sometimes referred to as TMJ syndrome. Over time, the habit can also stretch the muscles in the jaw. That can cause pain and an imbalance in the TMJ.

Some dentists and physicians recommend coating the fingers with a non-toxic but unpleasant tasting lotion. Others recommend putting a bandage on the finger just to serve as a reminder. Whatever the technique, it's a good idea to come up with some mechanism for stopping the habit. Otherwise, a person may be facing the time, cost and inconvenience of straightening teeth and/or of treating the pain of TMJ syndrome. Talk with your dentist about ways to break this bad habit.

Robert Howard Law Office Henniker, New Hampshire

I have enjoyed my practice in Henniker and the surrounding towns for many years. Lately, I have been focusing my efforts to maintain an office practice, such as real estate issues, estate planning and administration. I have been referring more complex matters to other firms for some years, such as criminal matters, divorces, and injury recoveries.

Alfano Law Office is a firm with offices in several towns and cities, including Concord. They have accepted my request to name them as "Of Counsel" to my practice, so that my clients can benefit from their expertise, if they choose. I receive no financial benefit for these referrals, but can be comfortable that my clients will be in good hands for matters requiring more work than I am willing to attempt. That being said, I hope to be available to my many clients for a long time.

Belletetes Hosting Food Drive to Support the NH Food Bank

Goal is to collect 40,000 pounds of food in celebration of 125th anniversary

Manchester, N.H. – Belletetes, a family owned and operated lumber and building supply company with locations in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, is aiming to collect 40,000 pounds of food to support the New Hampshire Food Bank. Belletetes began collecting food donations at all nine of its locations starting on August 1.

Belletetes will deliver the donated goods to the New Hampshire Food Bank, a program of Catholic Charities New Hampshire, which distributes nutritious food across New Hampshire through its network of more than 400 partner agencies. Belletetes will also be supplementing food donations with a monetary contribution to the New Hampshire Food Bank. Throughout August, Belletetes will accept food donations at each of its nine locations. The company will place produce bins at the front of each store for patrons and community members to drop off donated goods.

Belletetes will deliver donations collected at its eight New Hampshire locations, including those in The Messenger's readership area: 51 Peterborough Street, Jaffrey; 188 Concord Street, Peterborough; 24 Ten Penny Lane, Andover; and 21 Sargent Road, Sunapee. If you are interested in donating to the New Hampshire Food Bank, please consider donating canned fruits, canned vegetables, dried or canned proteins, packaged nuts or nut butters, whole grains, or other shelf stable products. To see the full list of the Food Bank's most needed items, please visit www.nhfoodbank.org/get-involved/donate/most-needed-items.

Antrim Select Board reviews flooding - approves two new Firefighters

Antrim Fire Chief Marshall Gale provided the Select Board with an update on the flood damage. The Liberty Farm Road Bridge was impassable and road crews were working to provide both ingress and egress to the 18 homes located on the other side of the North Branch River via Stacy Hill Road. There are numerous wash-outs on roads in town.

Chief Gale is keeping a running tally of costs for potential FEMA/Homeland Security reimbursement. Gale also spoke of the condition of the fire station roof on Clinton Road and the necessity to re-shingle as the current roof is leaking. He believes that the cost may be $35,000. The Board noted that there is funding in the Town Buildings capital reserve fund and directed Chief Gale to solicit bids.

Chief Gale presented two new hires for the department, Steve Auen and Jack Trainer. Chief Gale was waiting for Mr. Trainer's background to arrive. Mr. Ott made the motion to approve hiring Mr. Auen and Mr. Trainer conditioned on Mr. Trainer's successful background. Mr. Edwards seconded the motion. The vote was unanimous and so moved.

New London Select Board accepts $8,200 Highway Safety Grant

New London Police Chief Emily Cobb informed the Select Board that she has a grant opportunity from the Office of Highway Safety. They have done these grants many times before (speed enforcement, DWI enforcement, distracted driving) and this opportunity is in the amount of $8,200.

These grants start in October 2023. This is a good opportunity for New London Police Department to have these grants, given the amount of speeding complaints and general driving behaviors they have seen over the past year.

The way it works is if an officer is going to take one of the speed enforcement patrols, then they won't take other calls; however, if a major incident comes in, they would get called away from the grant and the clock stops on the grant while they are addressing that other issue. The Board would need to accept this grant and there is a match that is required. 80% are federal funds and 20% applicant share. They can use things like gas that officers use in the cruiser, the Chief's time to complete the grant etc. for the town's 20% match. The Board approved accepting the grant in the amount of $8,200 from the Office of Highway Safety.

Antrim among NH communities hit hardest

Much of New Hampshire suffered flood damage last month, including hard-hit Antrim, which saw torrential rains on July 4, 10 and 16.

FEMA officials toured five towns Monday and nine more, including Antrim, on Tuesday, verifying damage and estimating replacement costs. Once the state hits a threshold of $2.4 million, which seems likely to happen, New Hampshire officials will ask for a formal disaster declaration that makes it eligible for more federal aid.

In Antrim, the biggest problem, although far from its only one, involves Liberty Farm Road bridge over North Branch River. It was closed after July 4 due to structural damage caused by flooding and must be repaired or replaced. This has stranded 20 homes on the road, cutting off their only exit.

The Antrim road department has upgraded a Class VI road on Stacy Hill to be usable by emergency vehicles and homeowners. Class VI roads are not maintained and can be impassable by cars, and Road Agent Jim Plourde warned that the steepness of Stacy Hill means it will be difficult to keep the road open in winter.

“The rains took care of most of the roads,” said Gale, although a number of catch basins still must be cleaned of silt, sand and rocks.

New Boston Board approves application for Fire Station Grant

Chief of Operations Frank Fraitzl informed the New Boston Select Board that the Fire Station Committee met and agreed to pursue the 60% construction documents for the project.

He requested that the Board agree to send three documents through the Town’s legal and insurance for review. There was consensus among the Board to approve this request.

Chief Fraitzl noted that the Town should know in August if its grant application for this project through the Department of Defense has advanced to the next round. The Board approved.

Vacationers annoyed by fire responders’ rescue efforts

Newbury Fire Rescue, Newbury Police and New London Ambulance responded to a medical emergency at the Newbury town dock. While EMS was treating the individual, people were asked to give them space and stay off the dock. This appeared to upset some people who had to stop their play on the dock. Some others appeared unhappy that they were unable to immediately leave the parking lot where the ambulance and apparatus were parked while EMS was treating the person. Once the individual was evaluated by the paramedics, they were transported by ambulance to the hospital.

It is certainly not their intention to inconvenience any residents and visitors to the community, but please be considerate of those who may need their assistance.

Weare Scout’s Eagle Project would add to skateboard park

Ben Lanier of Troop 24 recently came before the Weare Select Board to explain his idea for an Eagle Scout project and to get the board’s permission to proceed. Lanier’s proposal is to build a new half-pipe ramp at the skateboard park near the middle school. It would be built out of pressure-treated lumber and plywood. He said he wanted it to be a safe and welcome addition to the park and that he would have adult help building it. The ramp would be three feet high, 12 feet wide and 24 feet long. He would do fundraising for the project so there would be no cost to the town. He had already received permission from the Parks and Recreation Commission; however, board members felt the plan should be reviewed by the town’s insurer, Primex, before proceeding.

In 2009, an archaeological survey for the new Keene Middle School discovered the remains of their stay. The remarkably intact site produced evidence of dwellings, tools and animal bones. These early people, rather than being isolated stone-age nomads, were part of a social network that extended across much of northeastern North America. This program is free and open to all. Funding provided by the New Hampshire Humanities Council.

New London Summer Gathering:

The New London Board of Selectmen will hold a meeting they are calling a "Summer Gathering" that they hope will bring out interested citizens to discuss important issues facing the town. The meeting, which will be held on Friday, August 18th at Wheeler Hall in the Ware Student Center at Colby-Sawyer College, is designed to be informative. There won't be any voting like there is at Town Meeting, but it will be an opportunity to discuss issues and to meet the selectmen, department heads and other citizens. There are a myriad of issues that need the attention of New London voters including: the need for affordable housing, new town property assessments, and water availability for the New London-Springfield Water Precinct.
