Select Board approves $69,900 contract with architects

New London Select Board Chair Bill Helm reported that the contract with Lavallee Brensinger Architects, for the Police Facility project, which the Board voted to move forward with at the last meeting, was ready to be signed.

The price is $69,900 on a fixed fee basis and the timeline is sixteen weeks. The Board unanimously approved signing the contract.

He asked the Board if there were any other concerns or questions regarding the most current version of the contract. Selectman Casey noted she appreciates the work done by the Police Facilities Advisory Committee and Colliers Project Leaders. There was a discussion of the scope of the work: the original proposal received in January included test fits for up to three sites. To accommodate adjustments based on feedback from the committee, while keeping the proposed price flat, the prepared contract specifies that the current site be considered as one of two test fits.

Residents Bob Bowers and Rich Epstein both asked for more clarification on the timeline and progression of changes that led to the current contract. Chair Helm explained that the original request for proposal was sent out last fall and three organizations responded with proposals in January.

Also in January, there was a petitioned warrant article for Town Meeting that, if passed, would have limited the Select-men's ability to spend any money on the project. The Selectmen chose to pause and wait for the voting results before making any decisions on the proposals.

At the Town Meeting in March, the Board of Selectmen made it clear that they intended for the current site to be included in the assessment and the petitioned warrant article did not pass.

The Board of Selectmen were then able to proceed with creating the Police Facilities Advisory Committee, for resident feedback, as well as updating the language for the scope of work.

With the proposed timeline of 16 weeks, the expectation is that potential options can begin to be communicated to the Town in the fall.

REAL ESTATE CONTRACTS: PART III

By: Joyce Bosse

Deed Forms

The contract will require the seller to deliver a deed at closing. The deed required by the contract will typically be a general warranty deed, a special warranty deed, or a non-warranty deed. If the contract calls for the seller to deliver a general warranty deed, the seller can be on the hook to the buyer and its successors in ownership for third-party claims to the property after closing, even if the claim originated prior to the seller's ownership. A special warranty deed limits that exposure to the period during which Seller owned the property. In a non-warranty deed, which is seldom used in a contract, the Seller is not warranting anything about its ownership of the property.

Contract Forms

Realtors often have several standard forms for the purchase and sale of different types of property. They are effective and work well in many situations. However, any revision to these forms by a non-attorney could create unintended consequences and obligations for the buyer or the seller, and there are many circumstances of the transaction that typically need to be addressed outside of the boilerplate forms.

So, while the forms are effective, they do not cover additional items such as restrictions on contract assignment, restrictions on use of the property after closing, conditions to closing that benefit either party, and the handling of current tenants or other occupants of the property.

An attorney can guide you on what is important and necessary to include in any addendum that changes or supplements any terms of the form contract.

continuing their hearings, both applicants for variances opted to proceed.

In the first hearing, Holden Presti's application to subdivide his 3.4 acre lot on Shedd Road into a 1.4 acre lot with his current residence and a 2.0 acre lot for further development was granted unanimously.

The second hearing was for Avanru Development Group, developers of the previously approved multi-family Workforce and Seniors projects, to allow an Aroma Joe's within the 50' set-back required on West Main Street.

After a long discussion the variance was granted 3-0-1, with member John Segedy abstaining.

Avanru will now appear before the Planning Board Wednesday night seeking to subdivide that lot in to two lots.

TIPS FOR GOOD ORAL HYGIENE

Bacteria can live in your mouth in the form of plaque, causing cavities and gingivitis, which can lead to periodontal (gum) disease. In order to keep your mouth clean, you must practice good oral hygiene every day.

What is plaque?

Plaque is a sticky layer of material containing bacteria that accumulates on teeth, including places where toothbrushes can't reach. Many of the foods you eat cause the bacteria in your mouth to produce acids. Sugary foods are obvious sources of plaque, but there are others that you might not realize can cause harm. Starches – such as bread, crackers, and cereal—also cause acids to form. Plaque also produces substances that irritate the gums, making them red, sensitive, and susceptible to bleeding. This can lead to gum disease, in which gums pull away from the teeth and form pockets that fill with bacteria and pus. If the gums are not treated, the bone around the teeth can be destroyed and teeth may become loose or have to be removed.

How can I get rid of plaque?

The best way to remove plaque is by brushing and cleaning between your teeth every day. Brushing removes plaque from the tooth surfaces. Brush your teeth twice per day with a soft-bristled brush. The size and shape of your toothbrush should fit your mouth and allow you to reach all areas easily. Use an antimicrobial toothpaste containing fluoride, which helps protect your teeth from decay. Clean between the teeth once a day with floss or interdental cleaners to remove plaque from between the teeth, where the toothbrush can't reach. Flossing is essential to prevent gum disease.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

BY SARAH CHAPIN

Survival rates for men with metastatic prostate cancer have increased by an average of six months, something which coincides with the gradual introduction of 'dual treatment' since 2016. This is according to a register study of all Swedish men diagnosed between 2008 and 2020. The results are published in the medical journal JAMA Network Open. Dual treatment means that patients receive both standard hormone therapy (GnRH therapy) and chemotherapy or androgen receptor blockers. Research has previously shown that men receiving this treatment live approximately one year longer than those receiving GnRH treatment alone.

Treatment-resistant depression (TRD) is a particularly challenging form of major depressive disorder. TRD is defined as "the persistence of depressive symptoms despite adequate courses of at least two different antidepressant medications". Despite repeated therapeutic attempts, these patients' depressive symptoms remain. Historically, TRD has posed a significant challenge. A study from the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) revealed that while a third of patients with depression found remission with their initial treatment, subsequent treatments saw diminishing returns, with only 10-15% attaining remission by their third trial. This stark reality amplifies the need for more effective intervention strategies. Esketamine nasal spray, (trade name SPRAVATO®) is a formulation which has shown superior efficacy compared to placebo in several clinical trials. It has also secured approvals from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), in the U.S., and the European Medicines Agency (EMA) in Europe. A study published in the New England Journal of Medicine compared esketamine NS to quetiapine XR. The proportion of patients who achieved remission at week 8 and sustained it without relapse through week 32 was 21.7% for the esketamine NS group and 14.1% for the quetiapine XR group.

CSC President Sue Stuebner given a rousing send-off

In May, Colby-Sawyer College President Sue Stuebner held her last community breakfast before departing her position. She joked that she and Amanda had always wanted a blow-up Olaf in the yard of the President's House as a holiday decoration but that they were not sure it would be welcome by the Planning Board. Police Chief Emily Cobb and Town Planner Adam Ricker were at the breakfast and immediately began conspiring to acquire an Olaf for the President's lawn.

With the help of Karen Bonewald, Vice President for Finance and Administration of Colby-Sawyer and grounds crew member Jim Casey, they were able to station Olaf on the front lawn for the Stuebners last week in New London.

Town staff have enjoyed working with President Stuebner and wish her well on her next adventure.

Concord Hospital welcomes NEC nursing students

Concord Hospital health system recently hosted special luncheons at its Concord and Laconia campuses to welcome an additional 19 nursing students from New England College (NEC) pursuing a Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN).

Of the 19 students, five will complete their clinical training at the Laconia campus, while the rest will train in Concord.

This accelerated BSN program integrates classroom instruction with nine months of clinical training. Students will gain hands-on experience as licensed nursing assistants (LNAs) while learning under the guidance of a preceptor in various clinical settings across Concord Hospital health system.

This partnership benefits both Concord Hospital health system and NEC. The hospital gains a year-round part-time LNA workforce, helping to fill staffing gaps, while students acquire vital clinical experience and become eligible for full-time employment upon completing their BSN.

Andover Select Board approves new electronic billboard sign

At the recent Andover Select Board meeting, there was a continued discussion from the previous meeting. Administrator Scott Hilliard has been looking into an electronic marquee sign to replace the sign outside of town hall.

Selectman Beaufays questioned if the sign is needed. Selectmen Delaney shared that he received some positive feedback from townspeople in favor of the sign. Selectmen Stewart and Carter would like to see the sign be more visually appealing. The board is in agreement that the sign would be great for the community as a whole to advertise events in town.

If the board does not decide on the sign soon, they will lose the $7,000 from the school. The funds for this sign will be taken from the taxes. Communication can be put in the Beacon about where the funds are coming from. Hilliard submits an article every month about what is going on in town and will include this.

Administrator Hilliard received two proposals: LED Sign City: for $11,040.00 and Stewart Signs: $16,183.70

Selectman Carter called LED Sign City. They have a one year warranty. No one comes out to see the sign to maintain it. You take a photo and submit it to them and they diagnose the issue from the photo.

LED Sign City is based out of Maryland. Stewart Sign is based out of Vermont.

Many of the local companies who have these new signs have Stewart Signs.

Administrator Hilliard shared that when he gets calls/complaints, most of the time people say they did not check the website or that the website is hard to navigate. They are working on making the website easier to navigate and this has been in the works for a while. The sign will be good for people who do not have the internet and cannot access the website.

Chairman Swenson motioned to move forward with a sign. Selectman Delaney seconded the motion. All members were in favor. Selectman Stewart motioned to move forward with LED Sign City. Chair Swenson seconded the motion. Selectmen Stewart, Pecco, Swenson, and Delaney approved. Selectman Carter opposed.

The board would like to create a new enclosure for this sign.

Highway Supervisor Kevin Duval suggested reaching out to local craftsmen for this project. They can present their idea to the board. If needed, they can put the new electronic sign up before the new enclosure is complete.

Pat Moreland briefed the Bradford Select Board that the committee is getting competing quotes for the removal of the Masonic Building via auction. Karen has spoken with the auctioneer the Masonic Building Committee worked with to formulate a plan to sell the building for removal or demolition. Consensus of the Board is to move forward with that plan as the other options did not achieve the Town's goal.

Police officer from Franklin charged with DWI after crash

A police officer from the Lakes Region has a date in court next month on a drunken driving charge after a crash in the parking lot of Bank of NH Pavilion in Gilford in late May.

Anna Doherty, 25, of Smith Hill Road in Franklin, was arrested on May 25 on a single misdemeanor count after police were sent to the concert venue for an incident. Gilford police did not release the investigatory report about the incident. However, an online arrest log stated officers had been sent to Meadowbrook Lane around 11:00 p.m. for a report of a motor vehicle accident in the venue's parking lot.

A case summary filing in Laconia District Court noted Doherty was reportedly driving a 2017 Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck at the time of the arrest.

She was released on personal recognizance bail on May 26. Doherty entered a plea of not guilty on June 3. A complaint was accepted for filing on June 10, and a trial is booked for August 29, according to court records.

According to posts on the Meredith Police Association Facebook page, Doherty was a police officer with the Meredith Police Department at the time of the arrest.

While other police personnel, including patrol officers, are listed as employed on the town's website, she is currently not. Last month, the association's Facebook page shared a callout for new police officers for the department.

New Boston's Twin Ridge Road is being reconstructed - expect delays - caution urged Reconstruction of Twin Bridge Road from Rte. 77 to Wright Drive began on Monday, July 15th due to evidence of "alligator" cracking that lets water into the roadbed.

Twin Bridge Road was reclaimed July 15th. The Highway Department will be working on drainage and adding gravel throughout the summer. Twin Bridge will get new pavement sometime in September.

We ask for everyone's patience and please drive slowly through the work zone while we are working on the road. Reconstruction will include grinding of the old asphalt (reclaiming), establishing ditch lines, installing underdrain where and if needed, replacing culverts in poor condition, adding new gravel, and finally putting a base coat of pavement. Expect traffic delays.

Opinion/Editorial

A Different Perspective

It doesn't matter what religion you believe in or how you think our world was created. It is truly remarkable in all ways. There are millions of species of life on this planet in the sky, on land, in the land, and in the oceans, lakes, rivers and streams all over this Planet, even a blade of grass can be considered a life form.

All the species of life on this planet were blessed with whatever they needed to survive. Now, what species of life on this planet is the most dangerous to all forms of life on our planet? You guessed it, HUMANS!

Aside from the fact that wars, including nuclear wars, would probably kill hundreds of millions of humans and other life forms on our planet, Humans and possibly other life forms would still exist for the future. The real danger to our planet that would be the fault of humans and eventually kill all life forms on this planet is POLLUTION!!!

We NEED to recycle everything that we can, especially all metals, glass, and plastic!!! The number one recycler in the world is Germany and number two is South Korea, but do we send people to these countries and learn from them??, I don't believe so. The rest of the trash should be burned completely so that all bacteria, germs, and chemicals are negated, and the chimney should have after burners and electric screens to thoroughly clean the residue, so we don't pollute the air.

New Hampshire is blessed with an underground water supply, that is why sixty percent of our people get their drinking water from wells, and yet we fill our landfills with completely unknown trash. When I was a teenager in Framingham, MA, I used to walk home from football practice, and on the way home I walked by Farm Pond where the town got all its drinking water. The land next to the pond was also the town dump.

One day walking past this dump, I noticed that it was on fire and the fire department was there trying to put it out. They got their water for this task by putting a suction hose into the pond and poured water on the fires for several days. You can guess what happened, dead fish floated to the surface and our town had to find a different source of water for the town; and rather quickly, and they did at great expense.

Please-please we need to address this problem sooner than later. We need to not put unknown and untreated trash into our landfills, and stop the inflow of out of state trash which accounts for sixty percent of all the unknown trash that goes into our landfills.

Deering Public Library hosted a wonderful program on lichen Saturday, presented by Gary Samuels. They discussed the difference between moss and lichen, symbiotic relationships, and different types of lichen. It was very interesting and informative. Thank you Gary for sharing!
