Andover teen mourned

Wyatt Carleton, 17, dies in single-vehicle accident

Friends of 17-year-old Wyatt Carleton are remembering him as "a ray of sunshine" days after his passing.

Groups of students, teachers and community members gathered at Merrimack Valley High School in memory of the senior.

Carleton was killed early Monday in Andover when his pickup truck went off the road into a fire pond.

"He was like, he's just gone way too soon. It's just no one expected it," classmate Jacob Demers said.

Known for his humor and passion for baseball, Carleton's kind heart is what friends will miss the most.

Demers was just one of the nearly 100 classmates who attended the vigil.

"I expected to see him every day. And was disappointed when he wasn't, and that's because he only brought positivity into the classroom," one person said.

Carleton's friends and classmates said the hallways already feel emptier without him. "It's going to be hard," said Demer. "You never really think about how big of an impact he was in our school. And it's definitely going to be. It already is just different without that kid that everybody knew."

Students organized the event expecting just a few peers but were touched by the outpouring of support from the community.

A group of classmates also started a GoFundMe to help Carleton's family.

Antrim man injured in Jaffrey dirt bike crash last Saturday

An Antrim man was injured Saturday after a dirt bike accident in Jaffrey.

According to a release from New Hampshire Fish and Game, officers responded to a report at approximately 2:30 p.m., of a male dirt bike operator injured on private property in Jaffrey.

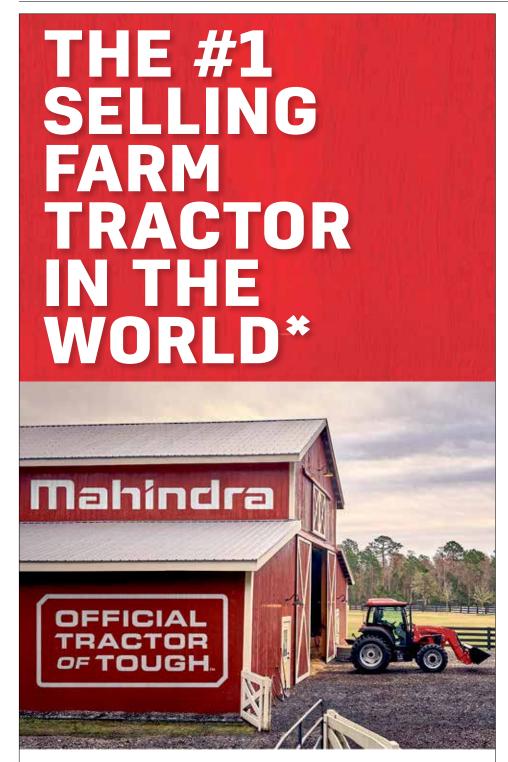

The initial call reported that the operator was located in the woods off of Witt Hill Road.

Members of the Jaffrey Fire Department, Jaffrey-Rindge Memorial Ambulance and Jaffrey Police Department all responded.

Once on scene, they were able to determine that the operator of the trail bike, Matthew Gauffin, 38, of Antrim, had lost control of the machine and crashed into a tree, sustaining severe but not-life-threatening injuries.

Gauffin was riding with three other friends, who called for help. Gauffin was treated by EMS personnel at the scene and transported by ambulance to UMass Memorial Medical Center in Worcester, Mass. for further treatment and evaluation of his injuries.

According to Fish and Game, Gauffin was wearing full riding gear, including a helmet and eye protection.

Quick response keeps barn fire from spreading to Franklin house

No injuries were reported in a two-alarm fire that broke out in a barn in Franklin on Wednesday, officials said.

Fire crews in Franklin responded at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday to reports of a barn fire at 916 South Main St. The call was updated moments later to a barn attached to a house with heavy black smoke showing. The first engine arrived on scene at 4:35 p.m. and requested a first alarm. Crews deployed two hose lines on an area connecting the barn and the house. The fire was quickly upgraded to a second alarm, as the first crews to arrive established a water supply from a nearby fire hydrant.

Crews including Franklin firefighters, Tilton-Northfield Fire & EMS and the Concord Fire Department entered the main house to make sure no one was trapped.

The fire never entered the main living space, but significant smoke damage was reported in the home.

"We arrived with heavy fire and went right to work," Franklin Fire Captain Dan Chapman said in a statement. "The department is lucky to have a great turn out from our off duty and part time staff members."

No injuries were reported. The cause of the fire is under investigation, but officials said it appears to be accidental.

Franklin firefighters were assisted on scene by crews from Bristol, Tilton-Northfield, Sanbornton, Belmont, Hill, Boscawen, New Hampton, Laconia, Gilford, Concord and Lakes Regional Mutual Fire Aid.

Three additional calls were received and were handled by Andover Fire Department, Penacook Rescue Squad, and Laconia.

Planning Board approves automobile sales lot

The Hillsborough Planning Board granted Oliver Wheeler's request for a Change of Use Site Plan waiver. Wheeler, of Antrim, intends to open a used card dealership featuring older, lower priced cars, trucks and SUVs for sale.

The Board unanimously approved the application on condition that no more than 30 vehicles be offered at any one time and that no repair be done on the property.

Another vacant building in Hillsborough's Central Square is being completely renovated.

Smith Church's successful Plastic Recycling Challenge

Back in March of 2024, Smith Church enrolled in the NexTrex Plastics Recycling Challenge as one effort in focusing on the myriad of problems besetting our planet. This happened to be right in line with the Earth Day 2024 theme of "Planet Vs. Plastics." Through this plastics recycling challenge, participants are encouraged to collect 1,000 pounds (a half ton) of the soft plastic film so prevalent in supermarket bags, bubblewrap, etc. within a year's time. The accumulation is then forwarded to the Trex Company to be repurposed into Trex, the outdoor building material. Participants reaching that goal are presented with a park bench made of Trex as a thank-you.

As 2025 began, Smith Church congregants with a lot of community support attained that goal. It truly took a village and Smith Church extends an extravagant thank you to the many of you involved.

Goffstown man charged with anti LGBTQ civil rights violations

The Attorney General's Office is accusing a Goffstown man of civil rights violations, claiming he removed, disposed of and possibly destroyed a sign that he pulled from a public intersection last June supporting the LGBTQ+ community. Attorney General John M. Formella announced the enforcement action by the New Hampshire Department of Justice Civil Rights Unit against Frank Hobbs Jr., 56, of Goffstown, on Tuesday.

The civil complaint, filed January 14 in Hillsborough County Superior Court North, alleges that on June 5 Hobbs trespassed upon and later destroyed property of the victim, identified in court documents as P.B., when he removed a sign that was placed on public property at the intersection of Route 114 and Route 114A in Goffstown.

Several signs had been placed at the same location by members of the public, prosecutors claim, but Hobbs removed only a sign that said "Goffstown Pride," which expressed support for the LGBTQ+ community.

Hobbs damaged the property when he disposed of and likely destroyed the sign, the complaint alleges. The complaint further alleges that animus on the basis of sexual orientation and/or gender identity motivated the trespass and damage to the sign and that Hobbs's actions interfered with the victim's rights and lawful activities.

According to court documents, on June 5, P.B. arrived at the Goffstown Police Department and met with Detective Sgt. Kevin Laroche to complain that several signs she had placed at the intersection of Route 114 and Route 114A in Goffstown that read "Goffstown Pride" had been stolen, while other signs in the same location had been left undisturbed.

She explained that she put up the first sign about two weeks earlier and found it went missing a few days later, then learned a friend had put up a sign that read "Protect Feminism" at the same intersection that also went missing.

Trail cam images show a man allegedly removing a "Goffstown Pride" sign from the intersection of Route 114 and Route 114A in Goffstown last June. The Attorney General's Office is accusing Frank Hobbs Jr., 56, of Goffstown, of civil rights violations.

P.B. told police she purchased two trail cams, which she placed at the same intersection along with another "Goffstown Pride" sign.

"The next day, P.B. drove through the intersection and saw that her sign had gone missing again," court documents state.
P.B. checked the trail cam photos and saw that at 6:12 a.m. on June 5, 2024, an individual later identified as Frank Hobbs, Jr. removed P.B.'s sign at the intersection of Route 114 and Route 114A in Goffstown, NH, placed the sign in his car, and drove away. According to court paperwork, Sgt. Laroche said he recognized the individual in the trail cam still images as Hobbs due to prior interactions.

On June 5, 2024, Laroche visited Hobbs's home in Goffstown and explained that he was investigating the theft of a sign at the 114/114A intersection, down the road from Hobbs's residence. Hobbs denied having any knowledge of the sign or the theft, court documents state, but when Laroche disclosed there were photos that allegedly showed

Hobbs stealing the sign, Hobbs then inquired about whether the law prohibits or permits picking up "roadside trash."

According to court paperwork, Laroche asked Hobbs whether that was his goal in removing the signs, because he left four to six other signs that had been up even longer untouched and removed only the one that read, "Goffstown Pride."

Hobbs then began to argue with Sgt. Laroche about whether he could be charged with theft for picking up "roadside trash," court documents show. After this argument, Hobbs then claimed that he had previously been told by unidentified people at the town hall that he could remove signs that displayed 'Pedophile Symbols.' Hobbs stated that he found the 'Goffstown Pride' sign offensive like the 'pedophile' sign and removed it.

The missing signs have never been recovered and have presumably been destroyed or disposed of by Hobbs.

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

Prescribing non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) to people at high risk of harm from them is estimated to cause more than 6,000 lost years of good health over 10 years in England alone, finds a study published by The BMJ. NSAIDs continue to be a source of avoidable harm and healthcare costs, and more needs to be done to address this, especially in high risk groups, say the researchers. NSAIDs are used for pain and inflammation and are one of the most widely prescribed groups of medicines in the world, But they are known to increase the risk of gastrointestinal bleeding, heart attacks, stroke, and kidney damage. Yet despite a range of initiatives to reduce their use, NSAID prescribing is still common in people at high risk of harm due to older age, previous peptic ulcer, heart failure, chronic kidney disease, or who are taking other medications that can increase bleeding risk. NSAIDSs include aspirin and ibuprofin (Advil). Acetaminophen (Tylenol) is a non-aspirin pain reliever. It is NOT an NSAID. Acetaminophen relieves fever and headaches, and other common aches and pains. It does not relieve inflammation.

A new over-the-counter topical eczema probiotic is based on the discovery by scientists at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), part of the National Institutes of Health. Eczema — also known as atopic dermatitis — is a chronic inflammatory skin condition that affects approximately 20% of children and 10% of adults worldwide. The condition is characterized by dry, itchy skin that can compromise the skin's barrier, which functions to retain moisture and keep out allergens. This can make people with eczema more vulnerable to bacterial, viral and fungal skin infections. R. mucosa is a commensal bacterium, meaning it occurs naturally as part of a typical skin microbiome. Individuals with eczema experience imbalances in the microbiome and are deficient in certain skin lipids (oils). NIAID researchers demonstrated that R. mucosa can help restore those lipids.

ORAL CANCER: PART II

Risk Factors

Major risk factors for oral cancer include tobacco use, alcohol consumption, betel quid chewing, and HPV infection. These factors contribute to the majority of oral cancer cases, with synergistic effects observed when multiple risk factors are present. Other factors include the oral microbiome, chronic mucosal inflammation, and trauma from dental prosthetics. Ultraviolet radiation is a significant risk for lip cancer, while genetic conditions like Xeroderma pigmentosum increase susceptibility. Public health efforts aimed at reducing these risk factors can lead to a significant decrease in oral cancer incidence.

Prevention and Detection

Prevention strategies focus on reducing risk factors such as tobacco and alcohol use. Public health campaigns and policy measures targeting these behaviors are crucial for primary prevention. Secondary prevention involves screening high-risk populations to detect oral cancer early. Clinical trials in India have shown that reducing tobacco and betel quid use can lower the risk of malignancy. Nutritional interventions with vitamins C, A, and E may also reduce cancer risk. Regular clinical examinations and biopsies are crucial for early detection, particularly in high-risk areas like the floor of the mouth and the tongue. Implementing community-based screening programs can facilitate early diagnosis and treatment, improving patient outcomes.

You can take steps to detect and prevent oral cancer yourself. At your next dental appointment, ask about screening for oral cancer.

Drive Safely

Wyatt Carleton, 17, of Andover was killed when his truck left the road and fell into the pond.

Bow Police responded to a two-vehicle crash near the intersection of Clinton Street and Evergreen Drive. Clinton Street was shut down for approximately one hour as crews worked to remove the vehicles, powerlines, and debris from the road. Power on Evergreen Drive was affected for several hours. Unitil worked diligently to restore power. Clinton Street was reduced to one lane while crews were working in the roadway. One driver received serious but non-life threatening injuries and was transported to Concord Hospital by the Bow Fire Department.

Bow Police and Bow Fire Departments responded to Turee Pond for the report of a vehicle through the ice. The pickup truck was approximately 1/3 of a mile from the boat launch. The driver was the only occupant and thankfully was able to get out of the truck without injuries.

New England College students witnessed Presidential Inauguration

Once-in-a-lifetime opportunity allows students to witness America's democratic traditions firsthand

New England College (NEC) students traveled to Washington, D.C., to attend the 2024 Presidential Inauguration, led by Professors Nathan Shrader and Colleen McElveen. This extraordinary educational experience allows students to engage with one of the nation's most enduring democratic traditions and explore their role in civic life.

Shrader, Associate Professor of Politics, and McElveen, Assistant Professor of Communications, serve as co-directors of the College's Center for Civic Engagement. By organizing this trip, Shrader and McElveen demonstrate their commitment to NEC's belief in providing hands-on learning opportunities that complement classroom learning.

"The Presidential Inauguration represents our nation's values, history, and commitment to democratic principles," said Shrader. "It's an opportunity for students to connect with these ideals, deepen their understanding of the democratic process, and reflect on how they can contribute to civic life in meaningful ways."

The group, including seven students and professors Shrader and McElveen, witnessed the swearing-in ceremony and Presidential Inaugural Parade on Pennsylvania Avenue. Supported by NEC's Center for Civic Engagement, the trip reinforces the College's emphasis on integrating classroom learning with real-world experiences that foster civic responsibility.

"We are incredibly proud of professors Shrader and McElveen and our students for embracing this opportunity," added Dr. Wayne F. Lesperance Jr., President of New England College. "This experience underscores the College's commitment to fostering civic engagement and providing opportunities for students to live what they learn."

Committee dedicates report to "Ricky" Bostrom

Henniker's Capital Improvements Committee dedicated its report to long time committee member Rocky Bostrom, who will be stepping down from the Committee. Since the CIP Committee was reformed in 2019, Rocky has been instrumental in the reformation of the Capital Improvements Program. His knowledge of equipment helped develop the questions asked of department heads that now forms their equipment inventory. The Committee will also miss his friendly reminders that just because money is in the reserve funds, or a piece of equipment is scheduled to be replaced, it doesn't mean that it needs to happen now if a piece of equipment is still functional and cost to repair are minimal. Thank you, Rocky, for your years of service and work with the Committee.

Susan Adams of the Azalea Park/Riverwalk committee met with the Henniker Select Board requesting the transfer of $10,700.50 from Trust Funds for Phase I of the Riverbank repair project. The Board agreed.

Hillsboro man pleads guilty to 34 Fish & Game violations

A Hillsborough man pleaded guilty earlier this month after a year long investigation by Fish and Game into violations of hunting regulations and keeping wildlife, including four de-scented skunks and three gray foxes on the property without permits.

The skunks were found inside his home and the gray foxes in a storage container, according to a news release.

Robert Meck, 44, pleaded guilty to 34 charges, according to Fish and Game. In all, he has to pay $6,639 in fines and restitution and his hunting and trapping privileges were suspended for 10 years.

As part of a fully negotiated plea deal, a number of the B misdemeanor charges were reduced to violations. None of the charges called for jail time. The charges include:

- Take black bear by the aid and use of a snare (5 counts).
- Take black bear with the aid and use of bait (5 counts).

- Take black bear without additional bear license and tag.
- Place traps on the land of another without a permit (5 counts).
- Set metal traps/snares without name affixed (5 counts).
- Trap without a license.
- Place traps on the land of another without a permit.
- Set metal foothold trap without name affixed.
- Possess the raw skin of a Fisher without bearing an official New Hampshire Fish and Game seal.
- Possess bobcat (skin and skull) during the closed season.
- Possess a wild gray fox without a permit (3 counts).
- Possess a striped skunk without a permit (4 counts).

The baited trap was set up in Antrim to catch a bear, according to Fish and Game. Provided by Fish and Game.

plea agreement Friday afternoon.

The investigation began after conservation officers received information on a possible illegal bait site in Antrim on October 28, 2023. Investigators found a 5-gallon bucket full of corn and rigged with a snare, according to the release.

"This snare device was being illegally used to snare bears," the release says.

During surveillance of the area, officers were able to identify Meck and executed a search warrant of his property on November 6, 2023.

The evidence seized included bobcat pelt, untagged fisher pelt, three live gray foxes, four live de-scented skunks found inside the house, 10 illegally set foothold traps around the property and three more 5-gallon buckets rigged with bear snares, according to Fish and Game.

Six Brief Stories Full of Meaning

This short piece recently crossed my desk. I hope you enjoy it as much as I did. LDB

- 1. Once all villagers decided to pray for rain. On the day of prayer, all the people gathered, but only one boy came with an umbrella. That is faith.
- 2. When you throw babies in the air, they laugh because they know you will catch them. That is trust.
- 3. Every night we go to bed without an assurance of being alive the next morning, but still we set our alarms to wake up. That is hope.
- 4. We plan big things for tomorrow in spite of zero knowledge of the future. That is confidence.
- 5. We see the world suffering, but still, we get married and have children. That is love.
- 6. On an old man's shirt was written a sentence: I am not 80 years old, I am sweet 16 with 64 years of experience. That is attitude.

Have a happy day and live your life like these six stories. Remember - good friends are the rare jewels of life, difficult to find and impossible to replace.

Words To Live By

New London Select Board Chair Bill Helm recently read the following statement into the record:

"What has happened to Trust and Civility? Must we in New London lower ourselves to the state of affairs in Concord and Washington? I have received accolades for the way the Selectmen, Nick Baer, and Ashley Seybold conducted Monday's Community Forum - that happened because WE Trust each other and treat each other with Civility. On Monday, a few attendees jumped to speak first, challenging our veracity and competence, and repeating each other, in attempts to suggest we were not aware of the details of the projects we were presenting - a secure and efficient police workplace, and septic oversight for the general good of our environment.

For those few, the message seemed to be clear - we don't trust you, our elected and volunteer leaders. By the time these few had spoken, the civility of the event had been cracked. Lack of Trust goes beyond Monday's event. Staff are almost daily receiving "right to know" requests that suggest there must be something hidden from the public that is essential to the operations of the Town, or that will support a contrary view. Staff are working overtime, on weekends, to respond. Meanwhile, essential work in the Finance office, the Clerk's office, the Town Administrator's office is being affected. It is time to Trust. It is time to demonstrate that New London is different."

Capital Improvement Committee Chair Tia Hooper presents the Committees' recommendation to the Henniker Select Board.

Rep. Riché Colcombe had several questions during the recent, sparsely attended Hillsboro-Deering School District Budget hearing.

5 WAYS TO TRANSFORM YOUR ADVANTAGES OF AN FHA HOME LOAN

The FHA loan is the most popular government-backed home loan in the country. These low down payment loans are made by qualified lenders and guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA).

Low Down Payments

FHA Loans are popular among homebuyers wanting a low down payment. You may be able to get FHA financing with as little as 3.5% down.

Credit Requirements

FHA loans require just a 3.5% down payment for borrowers with a 580 credit score or higher. For homebuyers with less-than-perfect credit, FHA loans offer additional significant benefits. The government backing means average FHA interest rates are typically lower than average rates for conventional mortgages.

Borrowers with credit scores as low as 500 can qualify for an FHA loan with a 10% down payment. Guidelines and policies will vary by lender.

FHA homebuyers with credit scores of 680 can often qualify for the same interest rate as conventional borrowers with a score of 740.

Closing Costs

FHA loans allow sellers to pay up to 6% of the loan amount to cover buyers' closing costs. Sellers can only pay up to 3% on conventional loans.

This historic home loan program continues to open the door to homeownership for millions of Americans who might struggle to secure conventional financing.

Peterborough woman supervising Red Cross California wildfire relief

A New Hampshire woman is volunteering with the American Red Cross to help victims impacted by the wild-fires in Los Angeles.

Deb Budney from Peterborough is a supervisor at a shelter called the Westwood Recreational Center. She said the shelter is nearly at capacity with about 250 people who are wildfire victims or have been impacted by the Palisades, California fire.

"I can't donate, but I can at least donate my time," she said. Budney said most of the people at the shelter have lost everything as a result of the wildfires, and many people are still in shock.

"It's so heartbreaking what's happening out here because it's so massive, it's just massive," Budney said. In her four years volunteering with the Red Cross, Budney said she's seen plenty of hardship. However, she said sitting front row to so many stories of loss does not get easier. "You're giving all of yourself every bit of compassion you have. You're learning to be a good listener, you just listen. All they want to do is just talk. Let them talk," Budney said. While the road to recovery in Los Angeles is long, she said she's committed to helping as many people as possible get back on their feet.

"We're part of this great country, and we're there to help each other in hard times," Budney said.

The Salvation Army is helping to provide meals and cots for the people at the shelter.

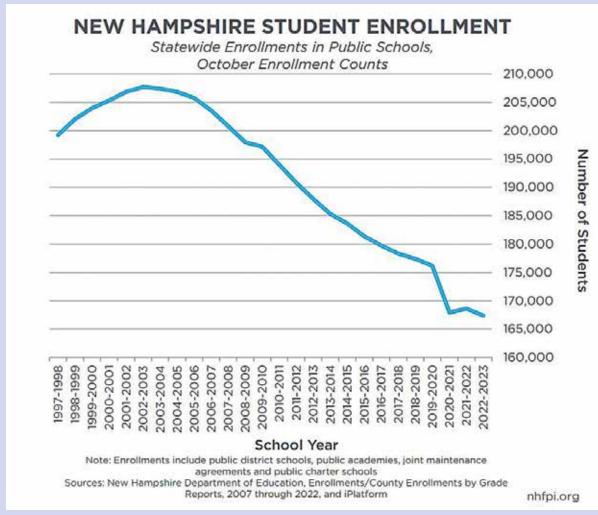

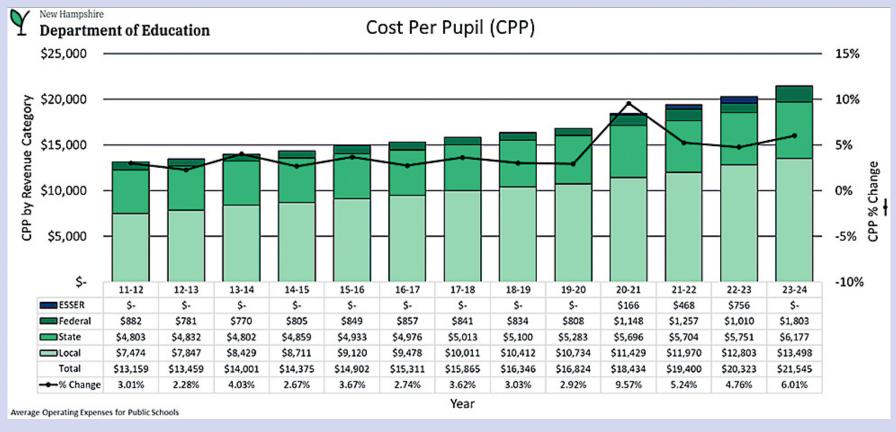

Kearsarge student Hunter Gebo addresses the crowd at the State House gathered on Tuesday to advocate against state cuts to special education funding. Gebo talked about growing up with special education, everything from speech therapy to sign language to help from paraprofessionals.

Approximately 50 6th grade students at the Dunbarton Elementary School (DES) graduated from the Law Enforcement Against Drugs (LEAD) "Too Good for Drugs" (TGFD) program. This marks the fourth class at DES to graduate since LEAD was implemented during the 2021-2022 school year. To date, over 150 Dunbarton students have graduated from the program.
